Documents Will Replace Treaty

Paris, Oct. 21 (AP)—The three western powers and the Bonn Republic today reached complete agreement on steps to end the allied occupation of West Germany and restore virtually all sovereignty to the West Germans.

The foreign ministers of the United States, Britain and France took the action this afternoon in a brief session with West German Chancellor-Foreign Minister Konrad Adenauer.

The four statesmen put the finishing touches on a series of lengthy, detailed documents which are to replace the two-year-old Treaty of Bonn, never completely ratified.

THESE DOCUMENTS set forth the conditions under which the West Germans will recover sovereignty after almost a decade of occupation, and they, along with a series of annexes covering West Germany's future relations with the west and the status of allied armed forces in West Germany, are to be signed in a formal session Saturday afternoon in the French foreign ministry.

Today's action cleared the way for West Germany's incorporation into a seven-power West European Union and membership in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO).

Treaties embodying these steps are to be signed Saturday afternoon at the same time, pending successful conclusion of additional talks to be held here.

THE THREE western powers retained a few strings on West German sovereignty to enable them to negotiate with the Soviet Union on German reunification and on a peace treaty for a reunited Germany.

They also kept the right to resume the occupation in case of emergency and power to cope with the special situation in Berlin.

Following this brief session West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and U. S. Secretary of State Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Sir Anthony Eden and French Premier Foreign Minister Pierre Mendes-France went into session with ministers representing Belgium, the Netherlands, Luxembourg, Italy and Canada to study the projected "Western European Union.

This union, embracing a revised and reinforced Brussels alliance and grouping Britain, France, the Benelux countries, West Germany and Italy, is designed as a framework for West German rearmament within the NATO structure. Canada and

Baby Dies In Fire at Highland

3 Others Escape Blaze in Cottage

The seven-month-old baby member of a farm laborer's family burned to death when fire destroyed a three-room workers' building on the Jerry Casaburo fruit farm in the Highland area Wednesday afternoon.

The child, Richard J. Royal, died of shock, second and third degree burns, according to Coroner Michael A. Galietta, when flames destroyed the family's quarters after his parents had left to pick apples during the afternoon.

THE INFANT'S two brothers and sister escaped injury, either making their own way from the building or being rescued by their father, who came on the run after a neighbor child sounded the alarm at 2 p. m., Highland state police said.

The baby, born in Newburgh April 24, this year, was the son of James and Willer Monk Royal. The other children are Dennis Clayton, 4; Carol Paulette, 3, and James, Jr., 1.

Fire Chief William Maynard of Highland said the fire probably started in the bedroom from a wood stove.

Augusta Ciaccio, 15, of Highland, discovered the fire and ran to get help.

The Highland Fire Department was summoned, but found the building a mass of flames on arrival.

LACK OF WATER proved an additional hindrance to firemen, Chief Maynard said, and it was necessary to lay 1,400 feet of hose to pump water from a pond.

Coroner Galietta was summoned to the scene and issued a verdict of accidental death.

The body was taken to the Elting Heights Funeral Home in Highland. Burial was scheduled to take place at 3 p. m. today in Highland Cemetery.

The Casaburo farm is located on Vineyard avenue, about one and a half miles west of the village of Highland.

U. S. Blocks Aggression In Eisenhower View

New York, Oct. 21 (AP)—President Eisenhower told the nation last night his administration has "come far" toward blocking Communist aggression and winning world peace, but that Russia and Red China still are dangerous threats.

The White House called his major address here "non-political" and the President nowhere termed it a reply to sharp criticism fired at Republican regime foreign policy by former President Harry S. Truman and Adlai E. Stevenson, the 1952 Democratic presidential nominee.

BUT EISENHOWER'S assertion that the free world can "indeed take heart" over what he outlined as progress achieved in the struggle against communism contrasted with the one painted by Truman and Stevenson last week.

Today, the Chief Executive arranged two political meetings advertised as such, and New York and New Jersey GOP leaders were counting on the sessions to provide a boost for the party's congressional and state office candidates.

The President scheduled the first meeting (9 a. m., EST) with some 300 New York Republican workers and candidates at the party's state headquarters in the Roosevelt Hotel here. The group is headed by U. S. Sen. Irving M. Ives, GOP candidate for governor in a hard-fought race with Averell Harriman, Democratic-Liberal party nominee.

THE OTHER Eisenhower conference was arranged with former Rep. Clifford P. Case of New Jersey, who also is bidding for a Senate seat on the Republican ticket. Case is fighting intra-party opposition in his state and also has Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) lined up against him.

The President warmly endorsed Case prior to McCarthy's latest shot against Case and New Jersey's backers of the Senate candidate are hoping Eisenhower will come out for him again.

Also on the President's calendar is another major address here tonight (10:30 p. m., EST) and it—like last night's—is being tabbed "non-political" by

Election Is Called Most Vital

Press Says Talk Is Most Outright

New York, Oct. 21 (AP)—President Eisenhower told state Republican campaign workers today prior to a whirlwind tour of New York city it was "tremendously important" that U. S. Sen. Irving M. Ives be elected governor to carry on the GOP program.

Newsmen traveling with the President said it was the most outright endorsement that Eisenhower has given to any individual candidate in the present political campaign.

The President's visit to the Republican headquarters in the Hotel Roosevelt came at a time when newspaper polls indicated that Ives is trailing Averell Harriman, the Democratic-Liberal candidate for governor.

THE TOUR of the city, which began immediately after the brief talk to campaign workers, came as a surprise.

It was reminiscent of the famous motorcade of President Franklin D. Roosevelt who, seeking a fourth term, toured the city bareheaded in a heavy rain during the 1944 presidential campaign.

Eisenhower's motorcade was scheduled to tour through Manhattan, the Bronx and Brooklyn. Accompanying him were Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and Ives.

Referring to the current political campaign in the state, Eisenhower said:

"One indispensable ingredient in any victory is heart."

He said that in the military service this was known as morale and esprit de corps.

THE FORMER commander of the American military forces in Europe said he thought he knew something about battles and said he never knew anyone to win when they looked "like this"—putting his hands to his face and showing a gloomy expression.

He declared that many things were necessary to win—organization, plans, money—but that none was so important as the heart for a fight.

Eisenhower said he was here possibly more as a voter in New York state than as a "temporary resident" of Washington.

He said there was nothing secret about the ballot he intends to cast.

"I'm going to vote a straight Republican ticket," he said, adding that he was going to do so "enthusiastically."

THE PRESIDENT said some Republicans believe that the program that began with his election two years ago had been accomplished but that in his opinion the cause had been carried through only the first round.

Eisenhower held that the job had been only partly done and that it was necessary to go ahead with a Republican program and not pause along the way.

Asserting that "we reject the extremes of both sides, the extreme right and the extreme

SUSAN HAYES, 24, key witness in Sheppard trial. She'll tell of her romance with Dr. Sheppard.

9 Persons Selected For Service

Sheppard Case Pace Is Better

Cleveland, Oct. 21 (AP) — The ninth member of the Sheppard murder trial jury was selected today as the trial began moving along at a swifter pace.

Two housewives were named to the panel today. The latest chosen was Mrs. Margaret E. Adams, wife of a vice president of a metal parts firm. At that point, five women and four men had been selected.

Earlier, Mrs. Beatrice Orenstein, wife of a postal clerk, was named.

The trial recessed for lunch after the ninth juror was picked.

Continuing the pattern of the first three days, defense attorneys hammered at the jurors' views on sex as attempts were pressed to select a panel to try Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard on a charge of beating to death his pretty wife, Marilyn, 31, last July 4.

In questioning Mrs. Orenstein, William J. Corrigan, chief defense attorney, asked:

"DO YOU REMEMBER reading in the papers . . . about a young lady named Susan Hayes?"

She replied: "A little."

Then Corrigan asked whether she had read articles concerning a connection between the pretty auburn haired technician and the handsome Bay Village osteopath.

Again she said she had.

Finally Corrigan asked whether she had read where "Susan Hayes had revealed to a press (Cleveland Press) reporter that she had had intimacies with Sam Sheppard."

She said she had read it.

Corrigan dropped that line of questioning and Mrs. Orenstein was seated in the jury box soon after she stated:

"I have already instructed my family not to question me at all about the case."

Corrigan and Fred W. Garmone, another defense attorney, probed the sex angle repeatedly in questioning prospective jurors yesterday.

THEY WANTED TO KNOW if the veniremen would be prejudiced against a person who might have engaged in illicit love.

The 24-year-old Miss Hayes, expected to be a main prosecution witness, admitted to police she had an intimate romance with 30-year-old Dr. Sheppard

Big Hole Opened In Trade Barriers

London, Oct. 21 (AP)—Russia and her European satellites have opened a big hole in western barriers against war potential exports to Communist China. They are buying strategic goods from the west and selling them to the Chinese—making a neat profit in the bargain.

American and British officials here and elsewhere know what is happening but say they can see no way to stopping it.

This is the western gimmick the Kremlin has turned to eastern advantage:

THE UNITED STATES and her allies forbid the export of certain startegic goods to both eastern Europe and Red China. But the list of goods embargoed for Red China is far longer than the one for Eastern Europe.

Red Europe thus can buy western goods that the Chinese cannot—things like generators, machine tools and petroleum. equipment. Western officials say European Communist nations are buying these items for transshipment at top prices to the Chinese Reds.

One of the big Communist transshipment points is Gdynia, Poland. From there western goods go by rail to Peiping via the Trans-Siberian Railway, or are carried into Chinese ports by Red ships able to evade the Chinese Nationalist naval blockade.

WESTERN OFFICIALS say they cannot check on the quantity of western embargoed goods now filtering into the hands of the Chinese Reds.

Free world exports of all types of goods to Russia and the Eatern European satellite countries amounted to about $1,070,000,000 in 1953. This was about two per cent of total free world export business.

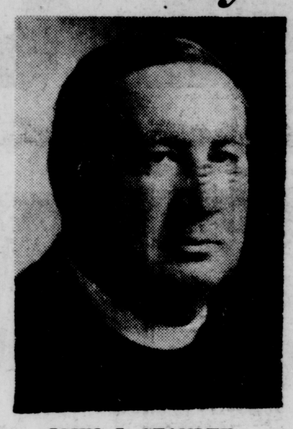
Msgr. Stanley Dies Suddenly in New York



JOHN J. STANLEY

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. John J. Stanley, 73, pastor of St. Michael's Roman Catholic Church, 424 West 34th street, New York, died suddenly yesterday afternoon in the medical aid room of the Radio City Music Hall. He was pastor of St. Mary's Church, Kingston, seven years.

Born in Port Ewen, his family moved to New York when he was still very young. He was reared in St. Michael's Parish and attended its parochial school. He also studied at St. Francis Xavier's High School and College and St. Joseph's Seminary, Dunwoodie, and was ordained May 21, 1910.

FROM 1911 TO 1927 Msgr. Stanley served as an assistant at the Church of Our Lady of Solace in the Bronx and for the next five years as pastor of the Church of St. John and St. Mary in Chappaqua. Monsignor's Humor Keen

A quick sense of humor always marked the Rt. Rev. John J. Stanley, former St. Mary's Church pastor and dean of Ulster and Sullivan counties, who died Wednesday in New York.

During his pastorate in Kingston a lenten mission was conducted every Sunday night at St. Mary's. One night Msgr. Stanley noted a slim congregation and remarked, "It looks as though Father Kennedy and I can't compete with Charlie McCarthy."

Msgr. Stanley's reference was about the weekly Edgar Bergen radio show. At the time his assistant at the parish was the Rev. William H. Kennedy.

Harriman For Modern 'New Deal'

Thus He Would Reorganize State

New York, Oct. 21 (AP)—Averell Harriman, expressing confidence of victory at the polls, intends to shrug off GOP scandal charges as "mud-slinging" and press for what he termed up-to-date "New Deal."

The Democratic-Liberal candidate for governor said to a newsman today that "everybody is going to be surprised by the Democratic vote upstate." He predicted a sweep for his ticket on Election Day, Nov. 2.

Last night, Harriman said his race against Sen. Irving M. Ives, the Republican nominee, would be decided "on the basis of the real issues and not on the basis of mud-slinging."

Today he summarized his version of the issues by saying his views could be described as "New Deal." Harriman added that he meant a "New Deal tailored to present-day needs in the state."

HE WOULD NOT comment on Ives' challenge that Harriman join him in seeking release of Harriman's testimony before a federal grand jury in a dock lease inquiry.

Ives has named Harriman in connection with a $250,000 deal in 1926 to hire a Brooklyn judge to arrange leases on two piers owned by New York city for a shipping line headed by Harriman. Harriman denied knowledge of any such deal.

Harriman repeated today that he would make no further comment directly on the affair.

Democratic National Chairman Stephen Mitchell said last night that Ives' pier deal blast at Harriman shows that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey is "rattled." Mitchell said it is "obvious" that Dewey is running the Ives campaign and persuaded Ives to make "this desperate move."

New Section to Be Opened On Route 17 Near Goshen

Heavily traveled Route 17 will be much like a leg of the New York State Thruway by midsummer, 1955, B. D. Tallamy, state public works superintendent indicated yesterday in announcing the opening of a newly paved section of the route tomorrow.

A 4½-mile modernized section of the route which is heavily traveled by traffic between New York city and the Catskills, is due to open tomorrow morning. The section is between Chester and Goshen in Orange county, and the work was done by John Arborio, Inc., of Poughkeepsie under a $2,624,038 contract awarded in March, 1953.

Two other sections totaling about 11½ miles between Chester and the thruway are being constructed and are scheduled to be finished next summer when the thruway bridge across the Hudson is due to be completed.

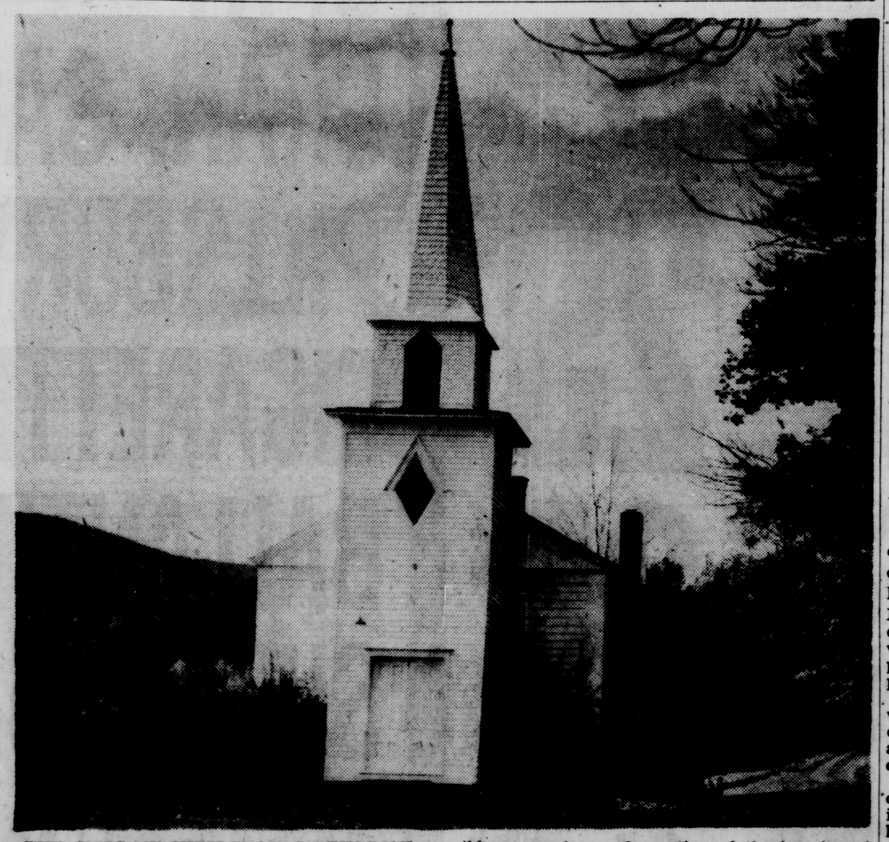
The estimated total cost of improving Route 17 from the thruway northwestward to the Middletown by-pass is estimated at nearly $15,000,000, and before the end of next summer it will be a modern express route from New York city to within about four miles of the Sullivan county line.

The Lane Construction Corp., of Meridan, Conn., bid low at $5,800,503.90 on Sept. 16 for 9.73 miles of grading and structural work on the route in the Wurtsboro area, and that work started this week.

The Wurtsboro section is the worst bottleneck, and it is to have a modern highway with center mall and a contract for the work is expected to be awarded late in 1955.

Plans are also reported nearing completion for a section to by-pass Liberty. It will extend 5½ miles northwesterly from Ferndale to connect with the completed Parksville by-pass, and will cost about $7,500,000.

Other sections of the route are under study.



THE WILLOW WESLEYAN METHODIST CHURCH (above) will observe the 100th anniversary of its building with a special centennial service of rededication on Sunday at 10:45 a. m. Using the theme, "100 Years of Sunday School," the service will open with the singing of the old and beloved Sunday school songs. Invocation will be pronounced by former Pastor Jesse Russell. A Youth Choir will join in singing Onward Christian Soldiers, followed by the relating of the history of the Sunday school by Miss Nancy Ostrander. The superintendent of the Sunday school, Miss Joan Watson, will distribute awards to various pupils. The donation of various gifts and labor have made possible a complete redecoration of the interior of the church, including painting and the laying of a new oak floor over the century old planking. The Rev. Reginald Hewitt, president of the Champlain Conference of the Wesleyan Methodist Church will preside as special speaker over the service of rededication. This will be followed by a tenor solo, God Bless This House. The church was organized in 1853, by the Rev. John Lowery and has been served through the century by such men as William Reynolds, Joab Eighmey, E. S. Bishop, J. G. Waters, J. D. Russell and a number of others. The present pastor, the Rev. Gerald C. Matson, extends a cordial invitation to all to attend this service. (Freeman photo)

Queen Mother Sails for U.S. And Canada for Month Visit

London, Oct. 21 (AP)—Tugmen eased the liner Queen Elizabeth out of Southampton Harbor in a loyal gesture to Britain's Queen Mother today—and then began debating whether to join the waterfront strike which has paralyzed Britain's major seaports.

Queen Mother. Elizabeth, for whom the ship was named, sailed on the huge liner for New York and a month's visit to the United States and Canada.

It had been feared that the 18-day dock stoppage, now involving more than 43,000 men, might hamper her departure.

The liner was brought into the harbor stern-first upon arrival from Cherbourg Monday so it would be easier to maneuver into the open sea if the tugmen quit work.

But a spokesman for the tug workers told reporters last night, "We will see the Queen off before we decide anything," and they kept their word.

The walkout, loudly backed by British Communists, stems from a demand by dockers for the right to reject overtime work. Fewer than half of the strikers have the backing of various unions involved.

Young Queen Elizabeth II, who began this morning a two day tour of South Lancashire, made a pointed change in her schedule to avoid the picketed Liverpool dock area.

She and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh had arranged to visit the Canada dock works at Liverpool but Buckingham Palace announced last night they would see the Liverpool School of Tropical Medicine instead.

The still-growing stoppage held 298 ships idle in London, Liverpool, Birkenhead, Hull, Southhampton, Garston and Rochester.

Fewer than 33,000 of the nation's 76,000 cargo handlers were working.

Export shipments worth more than 80 million pounds (224 million dollars) were piled up on the warves.

Food reserves, especially of imported eggs, butter and bacon were dwindling.

Prime Minister Winston Churchill's government gave no sign of any immediate intention to use troops for unloading the ships.

Purdy Verdict May Be Given

It developed today that the death on Tuesday of George Purdy, 66, of 129 Murray street, may be ruled an accidental death, resulting from an automobile accident on October 9.

District Attorney Howard C. St. John revealed that results of an autopsy ordered by his office indicate Purdy died of a ruptured spleen. A coroner's ruling on whether or not the death resulted from the accident probably will be issued by Coroner Francis J. McCardle after investigation.

AS LATE AS this morning, however, McCardle said he was not officially involved in the case as coroner, although he had been engaged as funeral director. Purdy, it was pointed out, had been under a doctor's care both prior to and after the accident, and at the time of the accident his injuries were reported as minor, with a fractured kneecap the apparent injury.

According to the district attorney's office, Purdy was the driver of an automobile involved in a collision with an automobile operated by Clifford Every of Route 1, Box 97, Kingston.

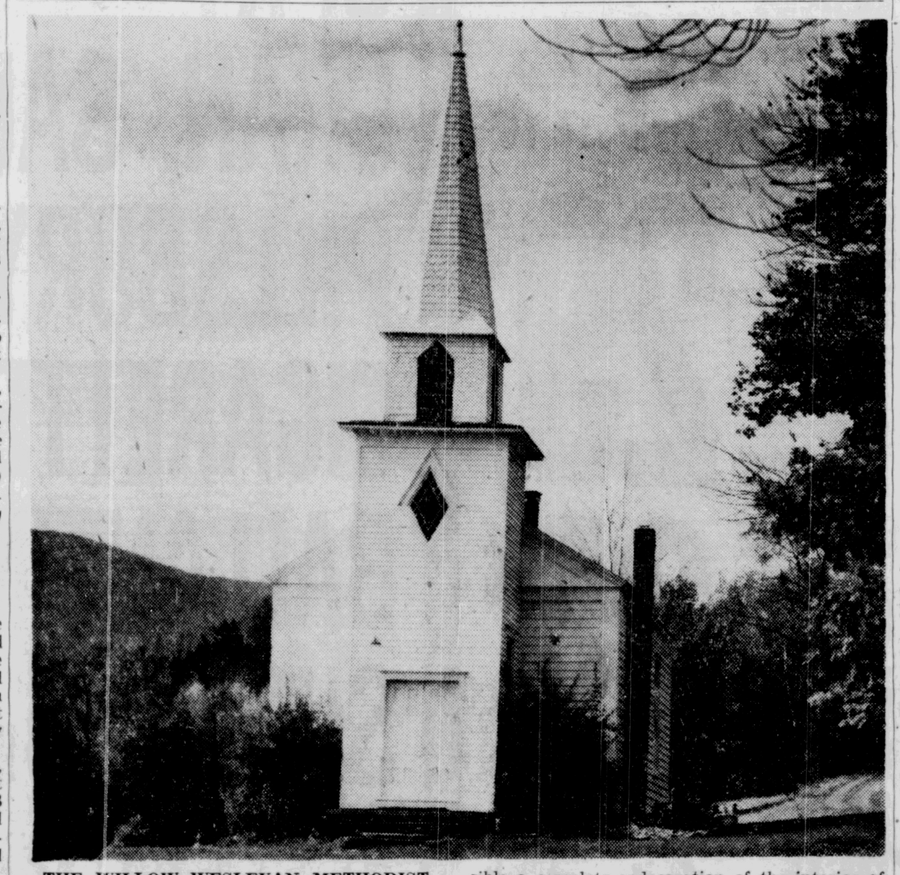
Monsignor's Humor Keen

A quick sense of humor always marked the Rt. Rev. John J. Stanley, former St. Mary's Church pastor and dean of Ulster and Sullivan counties, who died Wednesday in New York.

During his pastorate in Kingston a lenten mission was conducted every Sunday night at St. Mary's. One night Msgr. Stanley noted a slim congregation and remarked, "It looks as though Father Kennedy and I can't compete with Charlie McCarthy."

Msgr. Stanley's reference was about the weekly Edgar Bergen radio show. At the time his assistant at the parish was the Rev. William H. Kennedy.



THE WILLOW WESLEYAN METHODIST CHURCH (above) will observe the 100th anniversary of its building with a special centennial service of rededication on Sunday at 10:45 a. m. Using the theme, "100 Years of Sunday School," the service will open with the singing of the old and beloved Sunday school songs. Invocation will be pronounced by former Pastor Jesse Russell. A Youth Choir will join in singing Onward Christian Soldiers, followed by the relating of the history of the Sunday school by Miss Nancy Ostrander. The superintendent of the Sunday school, Miss Joan Watson, will distribute awards to various pupils. The donation of various gifts and labor have made possible a complete redecoration of the interior of the church, including painting and the laying of a new oak floor over the century old planking. The Rev. Reginald Hewitt, president of the Champlain Conference of the Wesleyan Methodist Church will preside as special speaker over the service of rededication. This will be followed by a tenor solo, God Bless This House. The church was organized in 1853, by the Rev. John Lowery and has been served through the century by such men as William Reynolds, Joab Eighmey, E. S. Bishop, J. G. Waters, J. D. Russell and a number of others. The present pastor, the Rev. Gerald C. Matson, extends a cordial invitation to all to attend this service. (Freeman photo)

SUSAN HAYES, 24, key witness in Sheppard trial. She'll tell of her romance with Dr. Sheppard.

9 Persons Selected For Service

Sheppard Case Pace Is Better

Cleveland, Oct. 21 (AP) — The ninth member of the Sheppard murder trial jury was selected today as the trial began moving along at a swifter pace.

Two housewives were named to the panel today. The latest chosen was Mrs. Margaret E. Adams, wife of a vice president of a metal parts firm. At that point, five women and four men had been selected.

Earlier, Mrs. Beatrice Orenstein, wife of a postal clerk, was named.

The trial recessed for lunch after the ninth juror was picked.

Continuing the pattern of the first three days, defense attorneys hammered at the jurors' views on sex as attempts were pressed to select a panel to try Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard on a charge of beating to death his pretty wife, Marilyn, 31, last July 4.

In questioning Mrs. Orenstein, William J. Corrigan, chief defense attorney, asked:

"DO YOU REMEMBER reading in the papers . . . about a young lady named Susan Hayes?"

She replied: "A little."

Then Corrigan asked whether she had read articles concerning a connection between the pretty auburn haired technician and the handsome Bay Village osteopath.

Again she said she had.

Finally Corrigan asked whether she had read where "Susan Hayes had revealed to a press (Cleveland Press) reporter that she had had intimacies with Sam Sheppard."

She said she had read it.

Corrigan dropped that line of questioning and Mrs. Orenstein was seated in the jury box soon after she stated:

"I have already instructed my family not to question me at all about the case."

Corrigan and Fred W. Garmone, another defense attorney, probed the sex angle repeatedly in questioning prospective jurors yesterday.

THEY WANTED TO KNOW if the veniremen would be prejudiced against a person who might have engaged in illicit love.

The 24-year-old Miss Hayes, expected to be a main prosecution witness, admitted to police she had an intimate romance with 30-year-old Dr. Sheppard (Continued on Page 35, Col. 7)

Big Hole Opened In Trade Barriers

London, Oct. 21 (AP)—Russia and her European satellites have opened a big hole in western barriers against war potential exports to Communist China. They are buying strategic goods from the west and selling them to the Chinese—making a neat profit in the bargain.

American and British officials here and elsewhere know what is happening but say they can see no way to stopping it.

This is the western gimmick the Kremlin has turned to eastern advantage:

THE UNITED STATES and her allies forbid the export of certain startegic goods to both eastern Europe and Red China. But the list of goods embargoed for Red China is far longer than the one for Eastern Europe.

Red Europe thus can buy western goods that the Chinese cannot—things like generators, machine tools and petroleum equipment. Western officials say European Communist nations are buying these items for transshipment at top prices to the Chinese Reds.

One of the big Communist transshipment points is Gdynia, Poland. From there western goods go by rail to Peiping via the Trans-Siberian Railway, or are carried into Chinese ports by Red ships able to evade the Chinese Nationalist naval blockade.

WESTERN OFFICIALS say they cannot check on the quantity of western embargoed goods now filtering into the hands of the Chinese Reds.

Free world exports of all types of goods to Russia and the Eatern European satellite countries amounted to about $1,070,000,000 in 1953. This was about two per cent of total free world export business.

New Section to Be Opened On Route 17 Near Goshen

Heavily traveled Route 17 will be much like a leg of the New York State Thruway by midsummer, 1955, B. D. Tallamy, state public works superintendent indicated yesterday in announcing the opening of a newly paved section of the route tomorrow.

A 4½-mile modernized section of the route which is heavily traveled by traffic between New York city and the Catskills, is due to open tomorrow morning. The section is between Chester and Goshen in Orange county, and the work was done by John Arborio, Inc., of Poughkeepsie under a $2,624,038 contract awarded in March, 1953.

Two other sections totaling about 11½ miles between Chester and the thruway are being constructed and are scheduled to be finished next summer when the thruway bridge across the Hudson is due to be completed.

The estimated total cost of improving Route 17 from the thruway northwestward to the Middletown by-pass is estimated at nearly $15,000,000, and before the end of next summer it will be a modern express route from New York city to within about four miles of the Sullivan county line.

The Lane Construction Corp., of Meridan, Conn., bid low at $5,800,503.90 on Sept. 16 for 9.73 miles of grading and structural work on the route in the Wurtsboro area, and that work started this week.

The Wurtsboro section is the worst bottleneck, and it is to have a modern highway with center mall and a contract for the work is expected to be awarded late in 1955.

Plans are also reported nearing completion for a section to by-pass Liberty. It will extend 5½ miles northwesterly from Ferndale to connect with the completed Parksville by-pass, and will cost about $7,500,000.

Other sections of the route are under study.

Queen Mother Sails for U.S. And Canada for Month Visit

London, Oct. 21 (AP)—Tugmen eased the liner Queen Elizabeth out of Southampton Harbor in a loyal gesture to Britain's Queen Mother today—and then began debating whether to join the waterfront strike which has paralyzed Britain's major seaports.

Queen Mother Elizabeth, for whom the ship was named, sailed on the huge liner for New York and a month's visit to the United States and Canada.

It had been feared that the 18-day dock stoppage, now involving more than 43,000 men, might hamper her departure.

The liner was brought into the harbor stern-first upon arrival from Cherbourg Monday so it would be easier to maneuver into the open sea if the tugmen quit work.

But a spokesman for the tug workers told reporters last night, "We will see the Queen off before we decide anything," and they kept their word.

The walkout, loudly backed by British Communists, stems from a demand by dockers for the right to reject overtime work. Fewer than half of the strikers have the backing of various unions involved.

Young Queen Elizabeth II, who began this morning a two day tour of South Lancashire, made a pointed change in her schedule to avoid the picketed Liverpool dock area.

She and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh had arranged to visit the Canada dock works at Liverpool but Buckingham Palace announced last night they would see the Liverpool School of Tropical Medicine instead.

The still-growing stoppage held 298 ships idle in London, Liverpool, Birkenhead, Hull, Southhampton, Garston and Rochester.

Fewer than 33,000 of the nation's 76,000 cargo handlers were working.

Export shipments worth more than 80 million pounds (224 million dollars) were piled up on the warves.

Food reserves, especially of imported eggs, butter and bacon were dwindling.

Prime Minister Winston Churchill's government gave no sign of any immediate intention to use troops for unloading the ships.

Purdy Verdict May Be Given

It developed today that the death on Tuesday of George Purdy, 66, of 129 Murray street, may be ruled an accidental death, resulting from an automobile accident on October 9.

District Attorney Howard C. St. John revealed that results of an autopsy ordered by his office indicate Purdy died of a ruptured spleen. A coroner's ruling on whether or not the death resulted from the accident probably will be issued by Coroner Francis J. McCardle after investigation.

AS LATE AS this morning, however, McCardle said he was not officially involved in the case as coroner, although he had been engaged as funeral director. Purdy, it was pointed out, had been under a doctor's care both prior to and after the accident, and at the time of the accident his injuries were reported as minor, with a fractured kneecap the apparent injury.

According to the district attorney's office, Purdy was the driver of an automobile involved in a collision with an automobile operated by Clifford Every of Route 1, Box 97, Kingston.

YWCA Has Broad Service in City; In Chest Program

This is the third of a series of articles released by the Kingston Area Community Chest. Stories about each of the seven participating organizations are being prepared to show what the agencies are doing to justify public support. The order of release has no significance, it was reported, when this article about the YWCA was released.

The local Young Women's Christian Association is affiliated with one of the largest women's organizations in the world. A YW headquarters is maintained at 209 Clinton avenue. "Y" clubs are open to all girls and women of Kingston and the surrounding area. Young women or old, married or single, school girls or housewives, as well as employed girls, are invited to participate in the "Y" program for recreation, fellowship and community service.

During the past year, 16 organized groups were active under the leadership and guidance of the YWCA, with an enrollment of 560. They were four teen-age groups, two young adult, four adult and six classes. The total membership is 741 with 116 volunteer committee members and board members.

OF THE 16 organized groups, 12 have weekly meetings, three meet each month and one adult group meets monthly. Club programs include speakers, discussions, trips, service projects, suppers and parties. Programs are planned by each group which gives them practical experience in cooperative effort and democratic processes.

In addition, to the regular program carried on at the YWCA, the Kingston Association is active in community betterment, through its clubs, throughout the year. Active groups of the YW include the Business and Professional Womens' Club, the Womens' Club, the New-comers Club, the Junior Married Women's Club, the Fortnightly Club, the Y-Aides, the Tri-Hi, the So-Y'se, the Live Y'ers and the Subteeners.

An indication of the broad public service performed by YW groups are indicated by the following activities: Sang carols for shut-ins and at the Home for the Aged, packed candy for the Mayor's Christmas Cheer committee; made dolls for distribution to needy at Christmas; sent two girls to camp for the summer; made button boards, scrap books and painted spools for the Cerebral Palsy Clinic; supplied two workers Saturday mornings for three months at the Tuberculosis and Health Clinic; helped with mailing Christmas seals; made financial contributions to many other worthwhile causes.

The local YW also participated in numerous all-association projects including the Round-the-World cafeteria dinner, Socks for Christmas, Hudson Valley Hobby Show, the summer auction and the old newspaper collection project.

400 Volunteers To Conduct Chest Campaign in Area

Present indications are that nearly 400 voluntary workers will assist in conducting the first united drive for funds in Kingston and the area. The financial requirements of seven agencies for 1955 will be raised through this single effort.

The Public Service Division of the Kingston Area Community Chest, headed by Louis G. Bruhn, has completed its organization and many of the solicitation contacts have already been made. Bruhn is being assisted by Dr. Herbert Schwartz and John B. Wilkie. Dr. Schwartz has organized Chest collections in all health services and Wilkie will contact public employe groups.

AT THE PRESENT TIME Mrs. John Glennon and James Hanstein are actively engaged in completing plans for solicitations in the residential and suburban divisions respectively. The other divisions actively working are initial gifts, industrial, as well as the business and commercial.

The first general report session of work completed to date will be held tonight at the Red Feather headquarters at 256 Clinton avenue.

Chest President George B. Matthews announced today that a final report session for the initial gifts, industrial, business and commercial and the public service divisions will be set for next week at a meeting of the board of directors tonight.

400 Volunteers To Conduct Chest Campaign in Area

Present indications are that nearly 400 voluntary workers will assist in conducting the first united drive for funds in Kingston and the area. The financial requirements of seven agencies for 1955 will be raised through this single effort.

The Public Service Division of the Kingston Area Community Chest, headed by Louis G. Bruhn, has completed its organization and many of the solicitation contacts have already been made. Bruhn is being assisted by Dr. Herbert Schwartz and John B. Wilkie. Dr. Schwartz has organized Chest collections in all health services and Wilkie will contact public employe groups.

AT THE PRESENT TIME Mrs. John Glennon and James Hanstein are actively engaged in completing plans for solicitations in the residential and suburban divisions respectively. The other divisions actively working are initial gifts, industrial, as well as the business and commercial.

The first general report session of work completed to date will be held tonight at the Red Feather headquarters at 256 Clinton avenue.

Chest President George B. Matthews announced today that a final report session for the initial gifts, industrial, business and commercial and the public service divisions will be set for next week at a meeting of the board of directors tonight.

Chiropractors Hold Monthly Meeting

The Hudson Valley District of the Chiropractic Association of New York State, Inc., held its October meeting at the offices of Drs. Nelson and Helen Peet in Beacon.

Dr. Dudolph Gossel, the guest speaker, spoke on the Unlimited Power of the Brain. A business meeting followed and plans were formulated to support the veterans bill sponsored by the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars that would give veterans, now in VA Hospitals, the benefit of chiropractic health care.

Local chiropractors attending were Warren J. Sussin and Robert J. Levintan.

GEOGRAPHICAL SAFETY OUTMODED

In both world wars of the past, we've been fairly immune from direct attack largely because of geography. To the east, the west and the south were the major oceans and allies. To the north, in addition to Canada, was the vast expanse of the Arctic.

For foes with conventional weapons, on opposite sides of the globe, we were simply "too far away" to be handed a knockout blow.

Just how much our position has changed was pointed up rather sharply, we think, by some dovetailing recent news reports. Their messages, briefly, were these:

One. At this year's Moscow May Day parade, the Russians showed off their newest bomber, a long-range, four-engine jet which could probably carry an A-bomb to most of our larger cities. Now, in a dispatch from London, a former Soviet Air Force colonel says the number of bombers in action should already be 40 to 60. Planes which are even better, he warns, can be expected at any time.

Two. Navy Secretary Charles S. Thomas is willing to go even further. He said in a recent speech that the Reds have developed A-bombing planes which can now fly "faster than sound."

Three. An unnamed Communist, reportedly seeking U. S. asylum, says Russia has set up airplane bases less than 200 miles from the North Pole on two floating islands of ice. The aforementioned long-range bombers have thus moved 1000 miles closer, he claims, to U. S. industrial centers.

Four. American Aviation, a magazine of the aircraft industry, reports of new Red reconnaissance planes "capable of flying over Alaska and even reaching San Francisco." Some intelligence reports suggest that they've already done so, it adds, and are pin-pointing possible targets.

Five. According to other stories, Russian subs and helicopters have been making regular spying missions near and over Canada's Arctic. A chief objective, it's said, is the new Distant Early Warning Line. This is a shield of radar stations intended to give us a six-hour warning of airborne attacks from the north.

Fit these reports together and they form an alarming picture. Exactly how true they are is something we cannot know, since the stories, except for one, are not from official sources. But even if only half are true, this much would seem to be certain:

The public must realize fully that our old geographical safeguards at last have been overcome. Our only security now is our power to answer force with force at the earliest sign of attack—and that depends, for the moment at least, on possession of overseas bases.

As our leaders have told us many times, a withdrawal to isolationism would condemn us to death and ruin.

MANAGERS COME AND GO

Holders of important offices and baseball managers are alike in one respect. They are both expected to perform miracles, and if they fail, they lose their jobs. This explains Lou Boudreau's recent discharge as manager of the Boston Red Sox. He was frankly developing a young team which might take two or three years to become proficient. Yet because he did not show results in a year or two, he has been dismissed.

He has this consolation: he will get a managership somewhere else. Big league managers always do. Bucky Harris and Steve O'Neill have been fired and hired so often that they must have to stop and think where they belong at any given moment.

The reason for these frequent discharges is that it is easy to blame the manager for the team's shortcomings, and much easier to fire him than to get new players. And if, as often happens, the new man starts at a salary less than that of his predecessor, that is a further saving. On this account, having been fired never stands in the way of getting a new job. Baseball must be the only occupation in which this is true.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

WHY THEY HATE US

There can no longer be any doubt about the general European dislike for Americans and many minds speculate upon the phenomenon. Some say that it is due to McCarthyism which offends the European intellectuals, most of whom have so long been in the strait jacket of Stalinism that they react nervously to any expose involving events as far back as the 1930's. Others really accept "American imperialism" as a fact, Soviet propaganda having established in their minds the belief that the United States must suffer a deep depression if war and the preparation for war ceases.

Indro Montanelli, an Italian journalist, writing for the "Corriere della Sera" of Milan, adds a footnote to the discussion that may stimulate some pondering on the general subject of virtuous conduct. I read his article in the "Rome Daily American." Montanelli first gives all the reasons why Europe should be grateful to us but he finds no gratitude except among the Germans, who, he feels, might have reasons for complaint as ". . . . She (Germany), without American intervention, would have been slave of Hitler but master of the world! . . ."

He then explains the ingratitude of the other Europeans in the following pungent paragraph:

"Unfortunately all these claims on our gratitude are obscured by one defect of which there isn't the slightest hope that Americans can be cured because it's in their blood, it's constitutional. It is the craze for improving us, for making us kinder to each other, juster, richer, happier."

This, of course, is human nature acting normally. It is a paraphrase of the adage "God helps those who help themselves," which is so true because those who are helped too ardently by others become dependents and hate being dependents. That is why the do-gooder is so despised, even by those who gain advantage from his benefactions. Although he means well, he is generally a pain in the neck. Alcoholics Anonymous discovered very early that only an alcoholic can save an alcoholic because there is no one whom the drunken man, who knows he is wrong, hates more than one who never does wrong. Perhaps if our teenagers were members of good gangs there would be fewer crime problems among them. Good gangsters could do no worse than the sociologists and psychiatrists have done with young people whose difficulties arise not from lack of knowledge but from an inability to overcome the resistance of youth to the directives toward perfection.

Montanelli pursues his theme:

". . . They (the American people) never insisted on their government obtaining any direct material advantages from their victorious intervention. They asked for no colonies, no commercial servitude. On the contrary, they accepted further taxation to succour the defeated. All they asked was that these defeated nations should become better, that they should love each other and America, renounce their rivalries, carry out social reforms, and use DDT and refrigerators! And this was their mistake. From this developed the antagonism toward America."

How utterly true! For more than a century before 1948, Americans spent, so far as can be estimated, nearly $200,000,000, giving the Chinese people schools, hospitals, universities, churches, etc., etc. So far as I can discover, neither Czarist nor Soviet Russia ever spent anything on the Chinese people but took much away from them. Nevertheless, Red China is not our friend and Lin Piao's army killed our sons in Korea at the behest of the Kremlin and the ordinary Chinese offered not even a show of resistance when the Communists tortured his good friends, the missionaries who devoted their lives to his improvement.

Maybe we do too much for no return and arouse the suspicion that we must have a hidden motive or we should not do so much and be so anxious about it. It is like the British lady who once explained American aid to Great Britain to me as evidence of British kindness to the United States, as otherwise all our people would be out of work. I asked facetiously: "Would it not be cheaper to spend the money on public works or even to put one-sixth of our work force on the dole?"

I don't think she liked me after that any more than Aneurin Bevan likes to remember how much it cost the United States to keep his party in power.

That Body of Yours

"MANAGER-SICKNESS"

We are all aware of the stresses of modern life with its merciless competition and its continual striving to set up new records which strain our emotional and physical resources to the utmost. Men occupying responsible positions, such as business executives, are particularly affected and in their ceaseless effort to be "successful" they keep themselves in a state of perpetual inner tension and thus undermine their own health. This unreasonable way of living brings in its wake a more or less well defined group of symptoms and signs for which German authors have coined the term "Manager-Krankeit" which means "Manager-Sickness." Similar observations have also been made among the professional classes, notably among doctors.

At the beginning, the disturbances are mild but as time goes on exhaustion and irritability become increasingly apparent, though the patient himself may not pay any heed to them. Believing, as he does, that he is indispensable, he does not allow himself adequate relaxation and holidays which would ease the tension and give him a chance to recuperate.

At first, these states of inner tension produce only functional (not organic) disturbances but, unless these functional disorders are properly treated, they may lead to the development of actual changes in the structure of certain organs, notably the heart and bloodvessels, and a fatal organic disease may be the final outcome.

Many outstanding authorities regard haste and excessive worry as the main causes of a lowered life expectancy, the risk being greatest in those perpetually engaged in a race against time. One of the great misfortunes is that it is largely the men of great drive and initiative who are affected, men who are still in the prime of life.

What can be done to help such patients, men who are of great value to the community? It is felt that, to be successful, treatment must be started early and must not hinder patients too greatly in normal performance of their duties. If it is possible to overcome exhaustion and irritability in their early stages, before they have become dangerous, it may be hoped that serious developments — such as coronary thrombosis, angina pectoris and irregularity of the heart function will be prevented and valuable manpower thus preserved.

We must realize that these tension states are just as much in need of thorough treatment as a fractured leg of an attack of pneumonia.

Everything Is Modernized Nowadays---but Politics

Larsen's Washington News Notebook

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

Washington (NEA) — The Maine election has brightened the financial outlook of the Democratic National Committee.

As of the first of October it had a deficit of $139,829.60. But since the voters of Maine elected a Democratic governor and indicated a Democratic trend generally the dough has been rolling in much faster. There's belief in the committee that it could end up the year in the black, especially if they win one or both houses of Congress.

The inspiration of the Maine results brought total contributions, from the first of the year to the first of October, up to $773,366.57. Much of that came in during the last few weeks, after Maine, with pledges of more money later.

It's close to the total of $800,853.35 taken in during all of 1953.

MORE IMPORTANT than the "Maine money" which the national committee is getting is the increase of funds going to Democratic candidates around the country generally, reported by the congressional campaign groups.

In spite of this improved financial outlook the Republican National Committee is still the wealthier outfit, as proved by its spending. Its biggest expenditure, compared to what the Democrats can afford, is for network TV and radio shows for President Eisenhower and other key officials.

The Democrats aren't spending anything nationally for network TV and radio.

In 1953 total contributions to the Republican National Committee were $1,339,538.15. Through Aug. 30 of this year the committee received $783,905.74. Spokesmen there are mum on what the Maine election has done to contributions, claiming that it's too early to talk about it.

DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE spokesmen claim that Chairman Stephen Mitchell—in spite of reports that he has alienated some top Democrats including former President Truman—has been an outstanding fund-getter and financial manager.

Ever since right after the 1952 defeat he has worked tirelessly among state groups on the party's financial problems. He has succeeded in selling them on accepting a quota which they must meet to finance the national committee.

In this effort he succeeded in getting the states to accept the national committee as a service organization which would supply them with essential ideas, plans and tools for local use.

This has been the traditional function of a national committee. But the staff has come up with a range of "do-it-yourself" ideas in the form of radio programs, advertising campaigns and research on national problems, which have proved exceptionally effective.

THE COMMITTEE staff has helped spark the party in spite of the let-down which could be expected after the '52 defeat, and the lack of a positive national program around which to rally.

The Democratic Digest, a monthly magazine modeled after the Readers' Digest format, is just one of the good ideas which the committee has come up with. It's a sprightly roundup of Democratic news and ideas and sold by subscription.

The publication is not paying its own way yet. But it is serving as a good means for disseminating news and ideas among party workers, and to the press, radio and TV more effectively than a combination of other more expensive techniques formerly used.

There are many rumors that Mitchell will be supplanted by a new chairman soon, because of some of the things he has said in the current campaign and because other Democratic bigwigs have found his personality a little too abrasive. But if he goes he will leave his successor an organization in surprisingly good financial shape and enjoying good morale.

Today in Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Oct. 21—This is the election that the Republicans deserve to win. But, if the reports from far and wide are to be credited, this is the election they are going to lose. A highly placed Republican in the Eisenhower administration said privately to this writer the other day: "If the Democrats get control of Congress, it will not be because they won the election but because the Republicans lost it."

The distinction goes to the heart of present-day political customs and practices.

For the American people have not yet been told why they should be grateful to the Republican administration at Washington, and it may be wondered whether down at the grass roots there will be adequate organization work done between now and election day to get the simple truth to the voters.

That truth is best expressed by this statement: The American people were saved from the worst economic crash in history when the ending of the Korean war forced a curtailment of government expenditures and started a downward spiral of unemployment.

Timely measures prevented the unemployment rolls from reaching more than about 5 per cent. This is a relatively low figure.

It is true that there are 3,100,000 unemployed in America now, but there were close to 9,000,000 in 1934 when the Roosevelt administration succeeded in winning the biggest majority in Congress that the Democratic party ever had.

What the unemployed today may not realize is that their best chance for employment is in the steady building of a stable economy.

What the 60,000,000 who are employed do not realize is that the 3,100,000 figure of unemployed would have grown substantially larger if the Eisenhower administration had not taken prompt measures to steady the national economy and cushion the shock that came with the ending of the Korean war.

Never has so much been done in such a short time to avert a major depression. European statesmen who are detached from American politics privately sing the praises of the Eisenhower administration and say it has averted a world-wide economic disaster that could have given the Communists a bigger chance than ever before to penetrate the countries of the free world.

Take the highly emotional issue of peace or war. In 1952 the nation was troubled not so much by the number actually engaged in Korea but by the potential numbers about to be drafted for a prolonged war.

The Eisenhower administration has reduced the draft calls and has pledged that it will not go into more wars without the consent of the people's agents—the Congress of the United States.

An important campaign was won in 1916 by the Democrats on the issue of peace. Today peace is as deeply emotional an issue as it ever was, but one hears little about it on the stump and in the precincts where the voters are soon to be mobilized.

Take the question of Communists in government. Vice President Nixon has just expressed it effectively in saying:

"We find that the issue in 1952 was not the issue of relative loyalty of the Democrats and the Republicans. That was never the issue then—it is not the issue now. The issue was not the loyalty of those in high places. It was their blindness.

"There were a few men, unfortunately, in the previous administration who underestimated this Communist danger, and who covered it up when it was brought to their attention. They made the greatest error that an administration could make in this very important field. You know what it was. They failed to heed the warnings of J. Edgar Hoover and the FBI.

"Let me give you an example. Between 1939 and 1945, the FBI laid reports on the desks of top agencies in this government four different times regarding the members of the Hiss espionage ring. Four times those reports were pigeonholed. Four times the people that were named in them, instead of being fired, were promoted. No wonder the American people lost confidence in the Truman administration's ability or will to deal with this problem."

But Mr. Nixon's is a single voice. That's what all the Republican speakers should have been talking about for months. Apart from Korea and communism, the big issue in 1952 was corruption. The housing scandals since revealed are the most shocking in American history. But the Republicans have not put the responsibility for this where it belongs—on the Democratic Congress which passed the loose laws and the Truman regime which administered those laws even more loosely than they were written.

The Republicans have an excellent case, politically speaking, while the Democrats have defensively very little to offer. Then why aren't the Republicans winning? That's a good question and maybe in the next few days the Republicans will be posing it to themselves from the White House down to the precinct workers and perhaps they will be presenting their case more forcefully than they have in the past several months.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Oct. 20 — Monsignor Joseph A. McCaffrey, pastor of the Church of the Holy Cross in a tough, sordid neighborhood of the so-called Broadway area, has written, at my request, a discussion of the character and problems of New York policemen. This priest was chaplain of the New York Police Department for 30 years. I asked him to write his opinion of the New York cop at a time when the morale of the department had been shaken very seriously by a number of adverse factors, including the unjust harassment of good policemen by the federal Department of Justice and federal grand juries on charges of violation of the civil rights of vicious characters arrested under violent conditions.

This discussion will be divided into two installments. I believe it will immediately establish in the reader's judgment the qualifications of the pleader and the merit of the articles.

I KNOW POLICEMEN

Rt. Rev. Joseph A. McCaffrey

I wish that all the people of the City of New York could know the New York policemen as I know them. For thirty years I was privileged to occupy the position of a chaplain in the New York Police Department, and during that time I came to know the men intimately—more intimately in some things than even their fellow policemen and their superior officers, and it is from this knowledge of them that I write.

It is not my purpose to extol them for the outstanding work they do in solving crime, in apprehending criminals or in protecting the lives and property of our citizens, for which the department does not always receive sufficient credit. It is rather my purpose to write of them, not as police officers but as men to whom are entrusted our lives and our property.

Most policemen look upon their position not merely as a job but as a profession, a calling. It is their life work and they are proud of it. They are determined to uphold the honor of the department and they expect to make any sacrifice for it. Possibly that determination to uphold the honor of the department can be illustrated by an incident which happened some years ago.

Ptl. O'Rourke, on vacation with his family, was driving outside of the city of Detroit when his car was stopped and surrounded by gangsters. Guns were pointed at him through the windows on both sides of his car and at the command "stick 'em up" his reply was: "I can't. I'm a New York cop." The result: He was shot in the head and blinded for life. Noblesse oblige. Ptl. O'Rourke's action was not exceptional, but typical of the devotion New York policemen have for the honor of their profession.

The police officer is conscientious in the performance of his duty. Too frequently, most of us fail to recognize that. We see a traffic officer standing on his post four hours in sub-zero weather or with the hot sun beating down upon him, with cars whizzing past him, not knowing the moment a careless or excited driver will strike him down. We see this, but we little appreciate the physical hardship he is enduring or the mental strain he is under. We know of the men patrolling their lonely posts at dead of night, never knowing what moment they will be called upon to engage in a life and death struggle with a criminal or a band of criminals. We see and know these things but we give them little thought because it is what we expect of policemen. And our expectations are realized, because the police officer is conscientious in the performance of his duty.

The courage of our policemen is never questioned. How could it be? Almost daily we read of their bravery, and not all of the accounts of their courageous acts find their way into the public press. Whether it be rushing into a burning building to carry out women or children, or diving into icy waters to rescue a person, or shooting it out with gangsters or facing any of the other dangers in his day's work, the police officer is always ready, at the risk of his own life, to protect the lives of his fellow citizens.

The New York policemen are upright, honest and honorable men. Few indeed outside of the department can know the temptations to which a policeman is subjected. Few indeed know of the innumerable times that policemen are offered bribes to neglect to perform their duty. Few know of the almost innumerable times that offers of such gratuities are rejected. It is true that there are those who, through weakness or greed, succumb to temptations, thus bringing disgrace upon themselves, their families and their fellow policemen, but such are exceptions. So exceptional that the bright light of publicity is focused upon them, for their actions are not commonplace but always headline news.

GEOGRAPHICAL SAFETY OUTMODED

In both world wars of the past, we've been fairly immune from direct attack largely because of geography. To the east, the west and the south were the major oceans and allies. To the north, in addition to Canada, was the vast expanse of the Arctic.

For foes with conventional weapons, on opposite sides of the globe, we were simply "too far away" to be handed a knockout blow.

Just how much our position has changed was pointed up rather sharply, we think, by some dovetailing recent news reports. Their messages, briefly, were these:

One. At this year's Moscow May Day parade, the Russians showed off their newest bomber, a long-range, four-engine jet which could probably carry an A-bomb to most of our larger cities. Now, in a dispatch from London, a former Soviet Air Force colonel says the number of bombers in action should already be 40 to 60. Planes which are even better, he warns, can be expected at any time.

Two. Navy Secretary Charles S. Thomas is willing to go even further. He said in a recent speech that the Reds have developed A-bombing planes which can now fly "faster than sound."

Three. An unnamed Communist, reportedly seeking U. S. asylum, says Russia has set up airplane bases less than 200 miles from the North Pole on two floating islands of ice. The aforementioned long-range bombers have thus moved 1000 miles closer, he claims, to U. S. industrial centers.

Four. American Aviation, a magazine of the aircraft industry, reports of new Red reconnaissance planes "capable of flying over Alaska and even reaching San Francisco." Some intelligence reports suggest that they've already done so, it adds, and are pin-pointing possible targets.

Five. According to other stories, Russian subs and helicopters have been making regular spying missions near and over Canada's Arctic. A chief objective, it's said, is the new Distant Early Warning Line. This is a shield of radar stations intended to give us a six-hour warning of airborne attacks from the north.

Fit these reports together and they form an alarming picture. Exactly how true they are is something we cannot know, since the stories, except for one, are not from official sources. But even if only half are true, this much would seem to be certain:

The public must realize fully that our old geographical safeguards at last have been overcome. Our only security now is our power to answer force with force at the earliest sign of attack—and that depends, for the moment at least, on possession of overseas bases.

As our leaders have told us many times, a withdrawal to isolationism would condemn us to death and ruin.

MANAGERS COME AND GO

Holders of important offices and baseball managers are alike in one respect. They are both expected to perform miracles, and if they fail, they lose their jobs. This explains Lou Boudreau's recent discharge as manager of the Boston Red Sox. He was frankly developing a young team which might take two or three years to become proficient. Yet because he did not show results in a year or two, he has been dismissed.

He has this consolation: he will get a managership somewhere else. Big league managers always do. Bucky Harris and Steve O'Neill have been fired and hired so often that they must have to stop and think where they belong at any given moment.

The reason for these frequent discharges is that it is easy to blame the manager for the team's shortcomings, and much easier to fire him than to get new players. And if, as often happens, the new man starts at a salary less than that of his predecessor, that is a further saving. On this account, having been fired never stands in the way of getting a new job. Baseball must be the only occupation in which this is true.

'These Days'

WHY THEY HATE US

There can no longer be any doubt about the general European dislike for Americans and many minds speculate upon the phenomenon. Some say that it is due to McCarthyism which offends the European intellectuals, most of whom have so long been in the strait jacket of Stalinism that they react nervously to any expose involving events as far back as the 1930's. Others really accept "American imperialism" as a fact, Soviet propaganda having established in their minds the belief that the United States must suffer a deep depression if war and the preparation for war ceases.

Indro Montanelli, an Italian journalist, writing for the "Corriere della Sera" of Milan, adds a footnote to the discussion that may stimulate some pondering on the general subject of virtuous conduct. I read his article in the "Rome Daily American." Montanelli first gives all the reasons why Europe should be grateful to us but he finds no gratitude except among the Germans, who, he feels, might have reasons for complaint as ". . . . She (Germany), without American intervention, would have been slave of Hitler but master of the world! . . ."

He then explains the ingratitude of the other Europeans in the following pungent paragraph:

"Unfortunately all these claims on our gratitude are obscured by one defect of which there isn't the slightest hope that Americans can be cured because it's in their blood, it's constitutional. It is the craze for improving us, for making us kinder to each other, juster, richer, happier."

This, of course, is human nature acting normally. It is a paraphrase of the adage "God helps those who help themselves," which is so true because those who are helped too ardently by others become dependents and hate being dependents. That is why the do-gooder is so despised, even by those who gain advantage from his benefactions. Although he means well, he is generally a pain in the neck. Alcoholics Anonymous discovered very early that only an alcoholic can save an alcoholic because there is no one whom the drunken man, who knows he is wrong, hates more than one who never does wrong. Perhaps if our teenagers were members of good gangs there would be fewer crime problems among them. Good gangsters could do no worse than the sociologists and psychiatrists have done with young people whose difficulties arise not from lack of knowledge but from an inability to overcome the resistance of youth to the directives toward perfection.

Montanelli pursues his theme:

". . . . They (the American people) never insisted on their government obtaining any direct material advantages from their victorious intervention. They asked for no colonies, no commercial servitude. On the contrary, they accepted further taxation to succour the defeated. All they asked was that these defeated nations should become better, that they should love each other and America, renounce their rivalries, carry out social reforms, and use DDT and refrigerators! And this was their mistake. From this developed the antagonism toward America."

How utterly true! For more than a century before 1948, Americans spent, so far as can be estimated, nearly $200,000,000, giving the Chinese people schools, hospitals, universities, churches, etc., etc. So far as I can discover, neither Czarist nor Soviet Russia ever spent anything on the Chinese people but took much away from them. Nevertheless, Red China is not our friend and Lin Piao's army killed our sons in Korea at the behest of the Kremlin and the ordinary Chinese offered not even a show of resistance when the Communists tortured his good friends, the missionaries who devoted their lives to his improvement.

Maybe we do too much for no return and arouse the suspicion that we must have a hidden motive or we should not do so much and be so anxious about it. It is like the British lady who once explained American aid to Great Britain to me as evidence of British kindness to the United States, as otherwise all our people would be out of work. I asked facetiously: "Would it not be cheaper to spend the money on public works or even to put one-sixth of our work force on the dole?"

I don't think she liked me after that any more than Aneurin Bevan likes to remember how much it cost the United States to keep his party in power.

That Body of Yours

"MANAGER-SICKNESS"

We are all aware of the stresses of modern life with its merciless competition and its continual striving to set up new records which strain our emotional and physical resources to the utmost. Men occupying responsible positions, such as business executives, are particularly affected and in their ceaseless effort to be "successful" they keep themselves in a state of perpetual inner tension and thus undermine their own health. This unreasonable way of living brings in its wake a more or less well defined group of symptoms and signs for which German authors have coined the term "Manager-Krankeit" which means "Manager-Sickness." Similar observations have also been made among the professional classes, notably among doctors.

At the beginning, the disturbances are mild but as time goes on exhaustion and irritability become increasingly apparent, though the patient himself may not pay any heed to them. Believing, as he does, that he is indispensable, he does not allow himself adequate relaxation and holidays which would ease the tension and give him a chance to recuperate.

At first, these states of inner tension produce only functional (not organic) disturbances but, unless these functional disorders are properly treated, they may lead to the development of actual changes in the structure of certain organs, notably the heart and bloodvessels, and a fatal organic disease may be the final outcome.

Many outstanding authorities regard haste and excessive worry as the main causes of a lowered life expectancy, the risk being greatest in those perpetually engaged in a race against time. One of the great misfortunes is that it is largely the men of great drive and initiative who are affected, men who are still in the prime of life.

What can be done to help such patients, men who are of great value to the community? It is felt that, to be successful, treatment must be started early and must not hinder patients too greatly in normal performance of their duties. If it is possible to overcome exhaustion and irritability in their early stages, before they have become dangerous, it may be hoped that serious developments — such as coronary thrombosis, angina pectoris and irregularity of the heart function will be prevented and valuable manpower thus preserved.

We must realize that these tension states are just as much in need of thorough treatment as a fractured leg of an attack of pneumonia.

Everything Is Modernized Nowadays---but Politics

Larsen's Washington News Notebook

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

Washington (NEA) — The Maine election has brightened the financial outlook of the Democratic National Committee.

As of the first of October it had a deficit of $139,829.60. But since the voters of Maine elected a Democratic governor and indicated a Democratic trend generally the dough has been rolling in much faster. There's belief in the committee that it could end up the year in the black, especially if they win one or both houses of Congress.

The inspiration of the Maine results brought total contributions, from the first of the year to the first of October, up to $773,366.57. Much of that came in during the last few weeks, after Maine, with pledges of more money later.

It's close to the total of $800,853.35 taken in during all of 1953.

MORE IMPORTANT than the "Maine money" which the national committee is getting is the increase of funds going to Democratic candidates around the country generally, reported by the congressional campaign groups.

In spite of this improved financial outlook the Republican National Committee is still the wealthier outfit, as proved by its spending. Its biggest expenditure, compared to what the Democrats can afford, is for network TV and radio shows for President Eisenhower and other key officials.

The Democrats aren't spending anything nationally for network TV and radio.

In 1953 total contributions to the Republican National Committee were $1,339,538.15. Through Aug. 30 of this year the committee received $783,905.74. Spokesmen there are mum on what the Maine election has done to contributions, claiming that it's too early to talk about it.

DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE spokesmen claim that Chairman Stephen Mitchell—in spite of reports that he has alienated some top Democrats including former President Truman—has been an outstanding fund-getter and financial manager.

Ever since right after the 1952 defeat he has worked tirelessly among state groups on the party's financial problems. He has succeeded in selling them on accepting a quota which they must meet to finance the national committee.

In this effort he succeeded in getting the states to accept the national committee as a service organization which would supply them with essential ideas, plans and tools for local use.

This has been the traditional function of a national committee. But the staff has come up with a range of "do-it-yourself" ideas in the form of radio programs, advertising campaigns and research on national problems, which have proved exceptionally effective.

THE COMMITTEE staff has helped spark the party in spite of the let-down which could be expected after the '52 defeat, and the lack of a positive national program around which to rally.

The Democratic Digest, a monthly magazine modeled after the Readers' Digest format, is just one of the good ideas which the committee has come up with. It's a sprightly roundup of Democratic news and ideas and sold by subscription.

The publication is not paying its own way yet. But it is serving as a good means for disseminating news and ideas among party workers, and to the press, radio and TV more effectively than a combination of other more expensive techniques formerly used.

There are many rumors that Mitchell will be supplanted by a new chairman soon, because of some of the things he has said in the current campaign and because other Democratic bigwigs have found his personality a little too abrasive. But if he goes he will leave his successor an organization in surprisingly good financial shape and enjoying good morale.

Today in Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Oct. 21—This is the election that the Republicans deserve to win. But, if the reports from far and wide are to be credited, this is the election they are going to lose. A highly placed Republican in the Eisenhower administration said privately to this writer the other day: "If the Democrats get control of Congress, it will not be because they won the election but because the Republicans lost it."

The distinction goes to the heart of present-day political customs and practices.

For the American people have not yet been told why they should be grateful to the Republican administration at Washington, and it may be wondered whether down at the grass roots there will be adequate organization work done between now and election day to get the simple truth to the voters.

That truth is best expressed by this statement: The American people were saved from the worst economic crash in history when the ending of the Korean war forced a curtailment of government expenditures and started a downward spiral of unemployment.

Timely measures prevented the unemployment rolls from reaching more than about 5 per cent. This is a relatively low figure.

It is true that there are 3,100,000 unemployed in America now, but there were close to 9,000,000 in 1934 when the Roosevelt administration succeeded in winning the biggest majority in Congress that the Democratic party ever had.

What the unemployed today may not realize is that their best chance for employment is in the steady building of a stable economy.

What the 60,000,000 who are employed do not realize is that the 3,100,000 figure of unemployed would have grown substantially larger if the Eisenhower administration had not taken prompt measures to steady the national economy and cushion the shock that came with the ending of the Korean war.

Never has so much been done in such a short time to avert a major depression. European statesmen who are detached from American politics privately sing the praises of the Eisenhower administration and say it has averted a world-wide economic disaster that could have given the Communists a bigger chance than ever before to penetrate the countries of the free world.

Take the highly emotional issue of peace or war. In 1952 the nation was troubled not so much by the number actually engaged in Korea but by the potential numbers about to be drafted for a prolonged war.

The Eisenhower administration has reduced the draft calls and has pledged that it will not go into more wars without the consent of the people's agents—the Congress of the United States.

An important campaign was won in 1916 by the Democrats on the issue of peace. Today peace is as deeply emotional an issue as it ever was, but one hears little about it on the stump and in the precincts where the voters are soon to be mobilized.

Take the question of Communists in government. Vice President Nixon has just expressed it effectively in saying:

"We find that the issue in 1952 was not the issue of relative loyalty of the Democrats and the Republicans. That was never the issue then—it is not the issue now. The issue was not the loyalty of those in high places. It was their blindness.

"There were a few men, unfortunately, in the previous administration who underestimated this Communist danger, and who covered it up when it was brought to their attention. They made the greatest error that an administration could make in this very important field. You know what it was. They failed to heed the warnings of J. Edgar Hoover and the FBI.

"Let me give you an example. Between 1939 and 1945, the FBI laid reports on the desks of top agencies in this government four different times regarding the members of the Hiss espionage ring. Four times those reports were pigeonholed. Four times the people that were named in them, instead of being fired, were promoted. No wonder the American people lost confidence in the Truman administration's ability or will to deal with this problem."

But Mr. Nixon's is a single voice. That's what all the Republican speakers should have been talking about for months. Apart from Korea and communism, the big issue in 1952 was corruption. The housing scandals since revealed are the most shocking in American history. But the Republicans have not put the responsibility for this where it belongs—on the Democratic Congress which passed the loose laws and the Truman regime which administered those laws even more loosely than they were written.

The Republicans have an excellent case, politically speaking, while the Democrats have defensively very little to offer. Then why aren't the Republicans winning? That's a good question and maybe in the next few days the Republicans will be posing it to themselves from the White House down to the precinct workers and perhaps they will be presenting their case more forcefully than they have in the past several months.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Oct. 20 — Monsignor Joseph A. McCaffrey, pastor of the Church of the Holy Cross in a tough, sordid neighborhood of the so-called Broadway area, has written, at my request, a discussion of the character and problems of New York policemen. This priest was chaplain of the New York Police Department for 30 years. I asked him to write his opinion of the New York cop at a time when the morale of the department had been shaken very seriously by a number of adverse factors, including the unjust harassment of good policemen by the federal Department of Justice and federal grand juries on charges of violation of the civil rights of vicious characters arrested under violent conditions.

This discussion will be divided into two installments. I believe it will immediately establish in the reader's judgment the qualifications of the pleader and the merit of the articles.

I KNOW POLICEMEN
Rt. Rev. Joseph A. McCaffrey

I wish that all the people of the City of New York could know the New York policemen as I know them. For thirty years I was privileged to occupy the position of a chaplain in the New York Police Department, and during that time I came to know the men intimately—more intimately in some things than even their fellow policemen and their superior officers, and it is from this knowledge of them that I write.

It is not my purpose to extol them for the outstanding work they do in solving crime, in apprehending criminals or in protecting the lives and property of our citizens, for which the department does not always receive sufficient credit. It is rather my purpose to write of them, not as police officers but as men to whom are entrusted our lives and our property.

Most policemen look upon their position not merely as a job but as a profession, a calling. It is their life work and they are proud of it. They are determined to uphold the honor of the department and they expect to make any sacrifice for it. Possibly that determination to uphold the honor of the department can be illustrated by an incident which happened some years ago.

Ptl. O'Rourke, on vacation with his family, was driving outside of the city of Detroit when his car was stopped and surrounded by gangsters. Guns were pointed at him through the windows on both sides of his car and at the command "stick 'em up" his reply was: "I can't. I'm a New York cop." The result: He was shot in the head and blinded for life. Noblesse oblige. Ptl. O'Rourke's action was not exceptional, but typical of the devotion New York policemen have for the honor of their profession.

The police officer is conscientious in the performance of his duty. Too frequently, most of us fail to recognize that. We see a traffic officer standing on his post four hours in sub-zero weather or with the hot sun beating down upon him, with cars whizzing past him, not knowing the moment a careless or excited driver will strike him down. We see this, but we little appreciate the physical hardship he is enduring or the mental strain he is under. We know of the men patrolling their lonely posts at dead of night, never knowing what moment they will be called upon to engage in a life and death struggle with a criminal or a band of criminals. We see and know these things but we give them little thought because it is what we expect of policemen. And our expectations are realized, because the police officer is conscientious in the performance of his duty.

The courage of our policemen is never questioned. How could it be? Almost daily we read of their bravery, and not all of the accounts of their courageous acts find their way into the public press. Whether it be rushing into a burning building to carry out women or children, or diving into icy waters to rescue a person, or shooting it out with gangsters or facing any of the other dangers in his day's work, the police officer is always ready, at the risk of his own life, to protect the lives of his fellow citizens.

The New York policemen are upright, honest and honorable men. Few indeed outside of the department can know the temptations to which a policeman is subjected. Few indeed know of the innumerable times that policemen are offered bribes to neglect to perform their duty. Few know of the almost innumerable times that offers of such gratuities are rejected. It is true that there are those who, through weakness or greed, succumb to temptations, thus bringing disgrace upon themselves, their families and their fellow policemen, but such are exceptions. So exceptional that the bright light of publicity is focused upon them, for their actions are not commonplace but always headline news.

Boy Scout News

Do a good turn daily, is the Scout slogan. We, of Troop 20, Hurley, did our good turn Sunday, Oct. 17, 1954, by going to Sholam Hill, which is above Lackawack. There a man and wife live alone and are on in years. A couple of years back, he lost his arm in an auto accident and just before that he was crippled while working on a power line. His name is William Moran, Jr. We of Troop 20 (which at this time has 19 boys) selected a group to go up there to split wood, stack it up and saw logs into stove length. The following boys were present on this good turn:

Sea Explorers: Boatswain Michael Brown, Terry Reed, crew leader; Robert Harjies, assistant crew leader; and crew members Sherwood Landers, Dick Snyder.

Scouts: Robert Hannel, senior patrol leader; Jon Rowe, assistant patrol leader; and Scouts Charles Palen and Charles Kolodzijski.

The leaders of this group were Skipper John V. Kemble Sr. and Scoutmaster John V. Kemble Jr.

This shows that we of Troop 20, Hurley, are living up to the scout slogan.

Eight explorers, high-ranking scouts, and leaders of Troop 9, sponsored by the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, camped on top of Hunter Mountain last weekend for the purpose of studying the New York State Conservation Department's method of detecting and reporting fires.

Hurricane Hazel's big blow the night before, however, prevented the forest ranger and his jeep from reaching the fire tower, and the boys had to be satisfied with an explanation of the operation. The hurricane nevertheless provided an unexpected opportunity for a conservation "good turn". The Scouts cleared fallen trees, brush and limbs from the foot trails on their hike.

The trek up the mountain started at the Devil's Tombstone campsite. Since other mountain climbing parties were in the vicinity, the boys elected to give them the lean-tos on the trails for their encampments, and the scouts hiked to the top where they slept out in the open.

Early Sunday morning a mountain top worship service was conducted by Scoutmaster Bill Daum and Assistant Scoutmaster Benson Rogers. The descent to the Devil's Tombstone campsite was made along Becker Trail.

Scouts who participated in the event were Dick Burns, Bob Campbell, Bill Craft, Bob DuMond, Roland Pope, and Dave Rylance.

Groves Requests Farmers to Fill Out Census Forms

John T. Groves of Port Ewen, Ulster county crew chairman for the 1954 Census of Agriculture, has requested all farmers to fill out the forms they have received through the mail and hold them until enumerators make their calls.

Groves explained that there is a force of 20 enumerators working in the county under his direction and they will make their calls at the various farm places throughout the county.

The 1954 census is the 16th in a series of nationwide farm enumerations, the first of which was conducted in 1840.

Groves pointed out that farmers are requested to fill out every section of the form, if possible. If additional help is necessary to complete the census form, the enumerators will assist the farmers, he said.

1 YEAR OLDER... AND A STORE-FULL OF BANG-UP VALUES!

Boy Scout News

Do a good turn daily, is the Scout slogan. We, of Troop 20, Hurley, did our good turn Sunday, Oct. 17, 1954, by going to Shokan Hill, which is above Lackawack. There a man and wife live alone and are on in years. A couple of years back, he lost his arm in an auto accident and just before that he was crippled while working on a power line. His name is William Morsn, Jr. We of Troop 20 (which at this time has 19 boys) selected a group to go up there to split wood, stack it up and saw logs into stove length. The following boys were present on this good turn:

Sea Explorer: Boatswain Michael Brown, Terry Reed, crew leader; Robert Harjes, assistant crew leader; and crew members Sherwood Landers, Dick Brewer.

The leaders of this group were Skipper John V. Kemble Sr. and Scoutmaster John V. Kemble Jr.

This shows that we of Troop 20, Hurley, are living up to the scout slogan.

Eight explorers, high-ranking scouts, and leaders of Troop 3, sponsored by the Kingston Lutheran church, had the weekend, camped on top of Hunter Mountain last weekend for the purpose of studying the New York State Conservation Department's method of detecting and reporting fires.

Hurricane Hazel's big blow the night before, however, prevented the forest ranger and his jeep from reaching the fire tower, and the boys had to be satisfied with a hike instead. However, the hurricane provided an unexpected opportunity for a conservation "good turn". The Scouts cleared fallen trees, brush and limbs from the foot trails on their hike.

The trek up the mountain started at the Devil's Tombstone campsite. Since other groups had used this campsite the most recently, the boys elected to go from the lean-tos on the trails for their encampments, and the scouts hiked to the top where they slept out in the open.

Early Sunday morning a mountain top worship service was conducted by Scoutmaster Bill Dunn and Assistant Scoutmaster Benson Rogers. The descent to the Devil's Tombstone campsite was made along the trail.

Scouts who participated in the hike were Bill Burns, Bob Campbell, Bill Craft, Bob Dumond, Roland Pope, and Dave Rylance.

Groves Requests Farmers to Fill Out Census Forms

John T. Groves of Port Ewen, Ulster county crew chairman for the 1954 Census of Agriculture, has requested all farmers to fill out the forms they have received through the mail and hold them until enumerators make their visits.

Groves explained that there is a force of 29 enumerators working in the county under his direction and they will make their calls at the various farm places throughout the county.

The 1954 census is the 16th in a series of nationwide farm enumerations, the first of which was conducted in 1840.

Groves pointed out that farmers are requested to fill out every section of the form, if possible. If additional help is necessary to complete the census forms, the enumerators will assist the farmers, he said.

Color and Flavor

Brown meat cubes, when you are making stew, in plenty of fat so they will have a rich brown color and good flavor. Pour off fat before adding the other ingredients for the stew so you won't have a greasy dish.

Expert Didn't Take 'Normal' Play

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

When the All-American Regional tournament begins in about a week at Milwaukee, my good friends, Joe Cohan and Ollie Emrich, will surely be on hand to defend the men's pair title they won in this tournament last year.

I'm inclined to doubt, however, that they will enjoy any hand this year as they enjoyed one of the hands, shown today, in last year's tournament.

Emrich opened the deuce of spades from the West hand, and Cohan thought carefully before playing to the first trick. The "normal" play is the king of spades, but Cohan had a good reason for choosing a different play.

Before we discuss Cohan's play, let's see what happened at most of the other tables. The East player put up the king of spades at the first trick, losing to the ace. Declarer then took a trump finesse losing to the king of hearts. East naturally returned the jack of spades, hoping that his partner had the queen.

This normal sequence of plays allowed declarer to win with the queen of spades, draw the rest of the trumps, and knock out the king of diamonds. The defenders could take one spade trick to add to their two red kings, but then South was ready to discard his losing clubs on dummy's good diamonds. All of these declarers therefore made their game contract in hearts.

Cohan could see that he would be given the king of hearts at an early stage of the play and that he wouldn't then know whether to try for two spade tricks or two club tricks. It all depended on which black queen West held, since obviously South held the ace of spades for his strong bidding.

Cohan solved his problem by playing the jack of spades at the first trick. South won with the queen of spades, and it was therefore clear that West couldn't have the queen of spades but might have the queen of clubs.

South now tried the trump finesse, losing to the king. Knowing that the spades wouldn't produce enough tricks. Cohan shifted to the ten of clubs. This set up two club tricks, so that the defenders beat the game contract with one heart, one diamond, and two clubs.

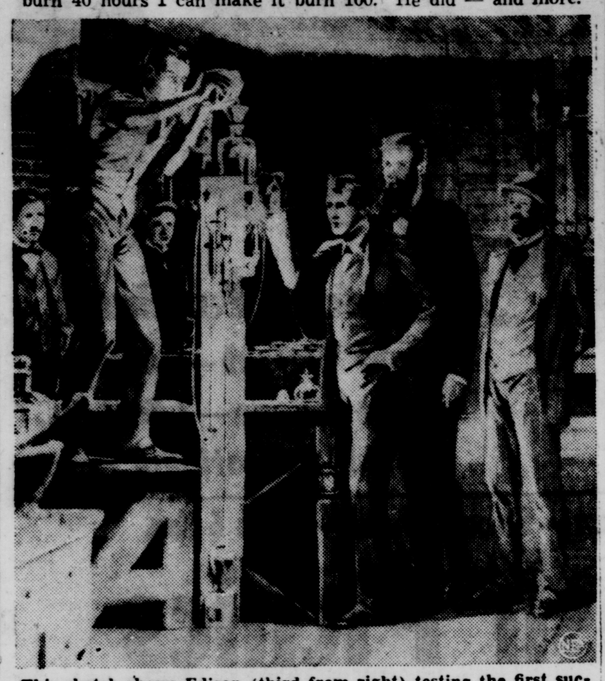
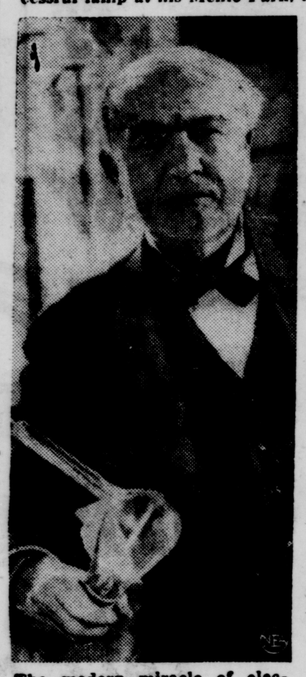
Edison's Electric Lamp Is 75 Years Old Today

If the lights in your home shine a little brighter today, it's because they realize that it's the 75th birthday of heir great-great-granddaddy — Thomas Alva Edison's first practical incandescent electric lamp. From it has descended a long line of progeny, until today more than 10,000 types of filament lamp are available. There were arc lights as early as 1809. Edison started experimenting with them in 1875, but soon concluded that a successful home light would have to be incandescent — that is, glow brightly at white heat without consuming the material. After long experimentation, he finally succeeded on Ocober 21, 1879, at his Menlo Park, N. J. laboratory. This lamp burned for 40 hours. Edison said: "If it will burn 40 hours I can make it burn 100." He did — and more.



This sketch shows Edison (third from right) testing the first successful lamp at his Menlo Park, N. J., laboratory on Oct. 21, 1879.



The modern miracle of electronics grew from Edison's incandescent lamp. In 1883 he discovered that by placing a small metal plate between the legs of a filament he could control the flow of current. This proved to be the basis of today's electron tube.

This is the world's first practical incandescent electric lamp, invented by Thomas Edison 75 years ago. For its first lighting, he made a filament out of a piece of thread from his wife's sewing basket.

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

The Ruminator has been ruminating over the approaching elections, in an effort to uncover some "contrary opinions" which might be of interest.

From the standpoint of the elections themselves, I must say that from the present reported trends of voter sentiment it would seem rash to forecast Republican majorities in either the House or the Senate, merely for the sake of being contrary.

ON TOP OF the apparent Democratic swing, the blunders and bloopers all appear in the Republican ranks. In writing something recently on events which might alter voting at the last minute I included "blunders." But it looks as if the Republicans are suffering from blunders more than the Democrats. The list is growing: from Wilson's kennel-dog story, to the gossip in New Jersey concerning Case, on west to Utah and Congressman Stringfellow.

Prior to these minor bungles, however, there is the major miscalculation, or ill-judged policy, of the Republican high-command in permitting the split to widen between the liberal and conservative ranks within the party. Fundamentally, a serious error was made in not granting sufficient recognition to the so-called Taft wing of the GOP. Serious—perhaps lasting—damage has been done by this policy. It is likely to have more effect than current mishaps in influencing voters.

FROM A CONTRARY viewpoint, it is still possible for a "reaction" to set in which will favor Republican chances, but it would have to be classed as "wishful-thinking" at the moment. There is still a large "undecided" vote, if the polls may be relied upon, and we know from 1952 that this mass can move in one direction (as we contrarily and accurately guessed prior to General Eisenhower's election). However, there is little in the wind which suggests this undecided mass of voters will swing to the Republican side. The only thing which could do it, as I see it, would be that these Americans (who as a people tend to side with the "under-dog") will vote Republican simply because they feel "sorry" for all the mishaps and blunders which have occurred. Sentiment is a peculiar human trait. It acts surprisingly, at times. It surely will be a surprise if the Republicans hold the majorities.

Let us now turn to other trends, for a moment.

Here there is more logical room for contrary opinions.

IT IS GENERALLY believed that the Democrats will win control of the House, and possibly of the Senate. Therefore, those who plan their business and financial policies with the political trends in mind, are already making plans with that viewpoint in mind.

In the stock market, for exemple, traders and investors who feel that a Democratic swing will be bearish on prices are doubtless selling now — ahead of the event. If it should happen that there is an increase in selling pressure on the market—and if prices drop substantially during the remainder of October—then one would expect a "contrary" reaction after election, even if the Democrats win out. Which is to say, that the "expected event" will have been discounted (at least partially) in advance.

THEN THERE is the question which will confront businessmen and investors as to what differences there will be in "business and financial climate" if the Republicans lose control. And there are two ways to look at this. You see, it gets quite involved.

First, the Democrats are inclined as a party to be more liberal in their views toward conservative financial policies and toward "spending." Inflation, for example, is more likely, I think, if the President is hamstrung with a Democratic Congress. So we have the situation where a Democratic Congress might stimulate prosperity even more than a Republican Congress — although the stimulation might arise from inflationary policies, mainly.

ON THE OPPOSITE side, you have the changed sentiment to deal with, if the Democrats win. The Republicans are looked upon as "the businessman's party." Therefore, businessmen tend to have more confidence and courage under a Republican regime. There may be some important loss of ground, then, in this respect.

It is difficult to weigh these cross-currents accurately, in advance. As a guess, the Ruminator thinks that perhaps the more probable outcome will be this: Business and financial "disappointments" are unlikely to be reflected at once, but are likely to show up over months—thereby making the 1955 outlook doubtful. It will be several months before the new Congress gets into harness and initiates new policies. So in the meantime I suspect that—if the Democrats win, as now expected—nothing very eventful will happen quickly. But there will be many fingers crossed during "the waiting period," you may be sure!

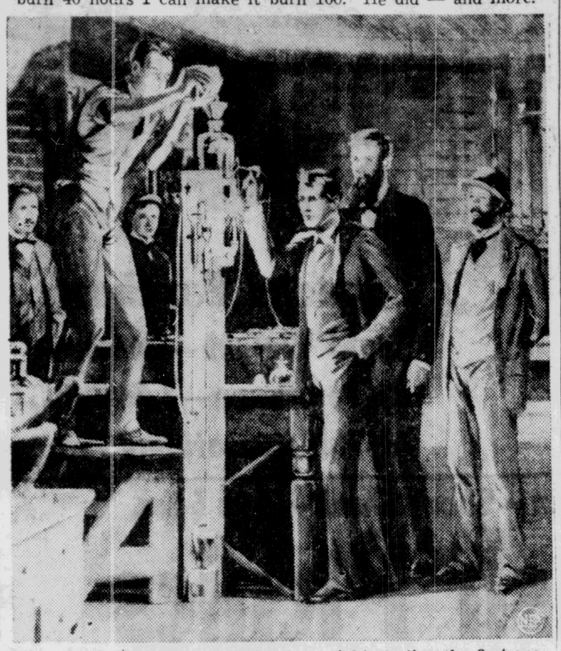
Edison started experimenting with them in 1875, but soon concluded that a successful home light would have to be incandescent — that is, glow brightly at white heat without consuming the material. After long experimentation, he finally succeeded on Ocober 21, 1879, at his Menlo Park, N. J. laboratory. This lamp burned for 40 hours. Edison said: "If it will burn 40 hours I can make it burn 100." He did — and more.



This sketch shows Edison (third from right) testing the first successful lamp at his Menlo Park, N. J., laboratory on Oct. 21, 1879.

The modern miracle of electronics grew from Edison's incandescent lamp. In 1883 he discovered that by placing a small metal plate between the legs of a filament he could control the flow of current. This proved to be the basis of today's electron tube.

This is the world's first practical incandescent electric lamp, invented by Thomas Edison 75 years ago. For its first lighting, he made a filament out of a piece of thread from his wife's sewing basket.

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

The Ruminator has been ruminating over the approaching elections, in an effort to uncover some "contrary opinions" which might be of interest.

From the standpoint of the elections themselves, I must say that from the present reported trends of voter sentiment it would seem rash to forecast Republican majorities in either the House or the Senate, merely for the sake of being contrary.

ON TOP OF the apparent Democratic swing, the blunders and bloopers all appear in the Republican ranks. In writing something recently on events which might alter voting at the last minute I included "blunders." But it looks as if the Republicans are suffering from blunders more than the Democrats. The list is growing: from Wilson's kennel-dog story, to the gossip in New Jersey concerning Case, on west to Utah and Congressman Stringfellow.

Prior to these minor bungles, however, there is the major miscalculation, or ill-judged policy, of the Republican high-command in permitting the split to widen between the liberal and conservative ranks within the party. Fundamentally, a serious error was made in not granting sufficient recognition to the so-called Taft wing of the GOP. Serious—perhaps lasting—damage has been done by this policy. It is likely to have more effect than current mishaps in influencing voters.

FROM A CONTRARY viewpoint, it is still possible for a "reaction" to set in which will favor Republican chances, but it would have to be classed as "wishful-thinking" at the moment. There is still a large "undecided" vote, if the polls may be relied upon, and we know from 1952 that this mass can move in one direction (as we contrarily and accurately guessed prior to General Eisenhower's election). However, there is little in the wind which suggests this undecided mass of voters will swing to the Republican side. The only thing which could do it, as I see it, would be that these Americans (who as a people tend to side with the "under-dog") will vote Republican simply because they feel "sorry" for all the mishaps and blunders which have occurred. Sentiment is a peculiar human trait. It acts surprisingly, at times. It surely will be a surprise if the Republicans hold the majorities.

Let us now turn to other trends, for a moment.

Here there is more logical room for contrary opinions.

IT IS GENERALLY believed that the Democrats will win control of the House, and possibly of the Senate. Therefore, those who plan their business and financial policies with the political trends in mind, are already making plans with that viewpoint in mind.

In the stock market, for exemple, traders and investors who feel that a Democratic swing will be bearish on prices are doubtless selling now — ahead of the event. If it should happen that there is an increase in selling pressure on the market—and if prices drop substantially during the remainder of October—then one would expect a "contrary" reaction after election, even if the Democrats win out. Which is to say, that the "expected event" will have been discounted (at least partially) in advance.

THEN THERE is the question which will confront businessmen and investors as to what differences there will be in "business and financial climate" if the Republicans lose control. And there are two ways to look at this. You see, it gets quite involved.

First, the Democrats are inclined as a party to be more liberal in their views toward conservative financial policies and toward "spending." Inflation, for example, is more likely, I think, if the President is hamstrung with a Democratic Congress. So we have the situation where a Democratic Congress might stimulate prosperity even more than a Republican Congress — although the stimulation might arise from inflationary policies, mainly.

ON THE OPPOSITE side, you have the changed sentiment to deal with, if the Democrats win. The Republicans are looked upon as "the businessman's party." Therefore, businessmen tend to have more confidence and courage under a Republican regime. There may be some important loss of ground, then, in this respect.

It is difficult to weigh these cross-currents accurately, in advance. As a guess, the Ruminator thinks that perhaps the more probable outcome will be this: Business and financial "disappointments" are unlikely to be reflected at once, but are likely to show up over months—thereby making the 1955 outlook doubtful. It will be several months before the new Congress gets into harness and initiates new policies. So in the meantime I suspect that—if the Democrats win, as now expected—nothing very eventful will happen quickly. But there will be many fingers crossed during "the waiting period," you may be sure!

Potato Chip Rimmed Apple Pie Recipe

Well, the football season has begun and chances are your home is the meeting place for after-the-game crowds of cold, excited and extremely hungry young people.

What to serve? Here is something that is sure to please and "pep-up" spirits, just in case the favorite team didn't win:

Bake an open apple pie in large, deep pie plate. Ten minutes before removing pie from the oven, lay a ring of whole potato chips on the surface just inside the pastry rim. Bake pie after dinner so that it will be warm when the crowd comes and serve with steaming cups of hot chocolate. Why I'll bet you'll be their favorite "player."

And, of course, we all know that Halloween will bring out those little "trick or treat" friends. So, when they ring your doorbell this year, why not really delight them with a bag of potato chips. Children sure love 'em . . . and so do grown-ups.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, Jr.

Businessmen to Hold Dinner on Nov. 13

Woodstock, Oct. 21 — The Woodstock Business Association will hold a dinner Saturday, Nov. 13, place to be announced, it was decided at a meeting of the association Monday night at Pinecrest Lodge. Members and their guests will attend. There will be both speeches and entertainment. Ed Bauman is making arrangements with sources in New York for several films to be shown. Serving on the committee for the dinner are Joseph Deutsch, president and Harry Alpern, vice president.

As in the past, the association will again pay for the paint that the youngsters in the village will use to decorate the windows of the various business houses along the main street Halloween Eve. There will be a total of $25 awarded in prizes. The windows will be assigned as in the past by Walter Van Wagenen, principal of the school.

Members of the association expressed the belief that the young people in the township should have recreational facilities such as weekly dances, perhaps a dramatic group, a musical group and other activities. They are studying the matter thoroughly to the end that they will assist in such a project. Their plans and ideas will be announced promptly upon completion of a study.

IT WAS UNANIMOUSLY decided that the Credit Bureau, which the association maintained several years ago will be re-activated. Through the Credit Bureau, members will make requests to the committee in charge to assist them in effecting collections on indebtednesses which are of long standing.

Several other projects were discussed, mainly how Woodstock may be best benefited. Once again it was emphasized that Woodstock is not just a "summer resort" but a fine, fast growing all-year-'round community with tremendous potentialities in view of new developments in the area. Members of the association have been invited to attend the meeting of the Square Club, Thursday night, Oct. 21, to hear Al Kurdt, executive secretary of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce speak on that subject.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

Businessmen to Hold Dinner on Nov. 13

Woodstock, Oct. 21 — The Woodstock Business Association will hold a dinner Saturday, Nov. 13, place to be announced, it was decided at a meeting of the association Monday night at Pinecrest Lodge. Members and their guests will attend. There will be both speeches and entertainment. Ed Bauman is making arrangements with sources in New York for several films to be shown. Serving on the committee for the dinner are Joseph Deutsch, president and Harry Alpern, vice president.

As in the past, the association will again pay for the paint that the youngsters in the village will use to decorate the windows of the various business houses along the main street Halloween Eve. There will be a total of $25 awarded in prizes. The windows will be assigned as in the past by Walter Van Wagenen, principal of the school.

Members of the association expressed the belief that the young people in the township should have recreational facilities such as weekly dances, perhaps a dramatic group, a musical group and other activities. They are studying the matter thoroughly to the end that they will assist in such a project. Their plans and ideas will be announced promptly upon completion of a study.

IT WAS UNANIMOUSLY decided that the Credit Bureau, which the association maintained several years ago will be re-activated. Through the Credit Bureau, members will make requests to the committee in charge to assist them in effecting collections on indebtednesses which are of long standing.

Several other projects were discussed, mainly how Woodstock may be best benefited. Once again it was emphasized that Woodstock is not just a "summer resort" but a fine, fast growing all-year-'round community with tremendous potentialities in view of new developments in the area. State Is Stalking Heart Disease Among Employes

Albany, Oct. 21 (AP)—Quietly and effectively, the state of New York is stalking a killer among its employes.

The search is being carried out by the cardiovascular center at the Albany Medical College.

THE OBJECT of the methodical hunt: Heart disease.

After nearly two years of study doctors at the center have detected that nine per cent of more than 2,000 state employes have some form of cardiovascular ailment.

The figure, the center says, is identical with findings of other surveys. Coronary artery disease and high blood pressure account for most of the cases.

A fair number of the cases diagnosed had not been detected previously, the center reports.

A LITTLE MORE than two years ago Gov. Dewey announced that the state was launching a $50,000-a-year program aimed at cutting down heart disease among its employes.

Early this month, the center reported it had completed the first round of examinations—which took in about 90 per cent of those eligible—and started around again. Examinations are not compulsory.

The center said the nine per cent found with heart disease now are under the care of their own doctors.

The center emphasized that all of the individuals in whom heart disease was detected had continued to work regularly and that most were "little, if at all, restricted in their activities."

Ordinance Would Restrict Business

Saugerties, Oct. 21—The Village Board of Trustees at its regular meeting Monday night acted toward the restriction of undesirable businesses within the village limits.

The proposed ordinance would restrict the following:

Those businesses which create dangerous hazards such as fire and explosion.

Those businesses which would be obnoxious and create nuisances such as junk yards, slaughter houses and rendering plants.

The Board of Trustees also approved the applications for active membership in the R. A. Snyder Fire Co., of Edward Whitaker and in the Washington Hook and Ladder Co., of Daniel Hogan. Also approved was the application for exemption papers by Thomas Cauley of the R. A. Snyder Co.

Bus Routes Approved At Public Hearing

Saugerties, Oct. 21—The Mt. View Coach Lines, Inc., and Julius Lipton of the Lipton Bee Line both received permission to use the village streets in their proposed new routes at the public hearings held prior to the Village Board meeting Monday night at the Municipal Building.

As there were no objections the resolutions were passed unanimously by the board.

Ordinance Would Restrict Business

Saugerties, Oct. 21—The Village Board of Trustees at its regular meeting Monday night acted toward the restriction of undesirable businesses within the village limits.

The board authorized Attorney Louis P. Francello to draft an ordinance for approval by the voters which will cover the restrictions against the establishment of undesirable plants in accordance with the recommendations of the Zoning Investigating Committee which were submitted in its report in August.

The proposed ordinance would restrict the following:

Those businesses which would cause undue noise, smoke, fumes, smells, dirt, dust and other annoyances of such a nature as to interfere with the health, peace and quiet of the community.

Those businesses which create dangerous hazards such as fire and explosion.

Those businesses which would be obnoxious and create nuisances such as junk yards, slaughter houses and rendering plants.

The Board of Trustees also approved the applications for active membership in the R. A. Snyder Fire Co., of Edward Whitaker and in the Washington Hook and Ladder Co., of Daniel Hogan. Also approved was the application for exemption papers by Thomas Cauley of the R. A. Snyder Co.

To avoid conflict with the Community Halloween Party sponsored by the Saugerties Youth Council Monday night, Nov. 1 the board postponed the regular meeting scheduled for that evening.

Reds' Warships Seen in Pacific; NoHostileActions

Pearl Harbor, Oct. 21 (AP)—Communist warships have been contacted in the Pacific but have showed no hostile intent, the commander-in-chief of the U. S. Pacific fleet said yesterday. .

Adm. Felix B. Stump declared at a news conference that none of the Communist warships or submarines has acted in a hostile manner. He didn't identify the Communist craft but he obviously referred to Russia.

The admiral indicated the Communist vessels which he said have been sighted throughout the Pacific were unaware that they had been seen, thus suggesing the contacts were made by U. S. submarines.

"We constantly observe movements of vessels in different parts of the Pacific, submarines and various types of craft whom we have identified as Communist," Stump said.

His remarks followed a two-day conference between Stump and the commanders of navy forces from the Far East, Japan, the Philippines, the west coast and Hawaii.

Conference Slated On Child Health

A child health conference conducted by the Ulster County Health Department will be held at the clinic rooms, 25 East O'Reilly street Oct. 26 from 10 a. m., to noon.

These clinics are limited to infant and preschool children for the purpose of improving child health through early recognition of defects, advice regarding nutrition, instruction of parents in understanding of growth and development, handling of minor behavior difficulties and the administering of immunizations for smallpox, diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough.

These are well child clinics for the maintenance of health and prevention of disease, not for the care of the sick child. Children under the regular health supervision of their own physician are not admitted unless the physician desires this service to be taken over by the Child Health Conference. In this manner, duplication of service is avoided, facilitating the work of the private physician.

Cashin Speaks In Behalf of Drive

County Judge John M. Cashin, speaking in behalf of the Kingston Area Community Chest at a noon-hour rally of Hiltebrant shipyard workers Wednesday said, "You men are builders. You build the ships that protect the United States and the American way of life. The youth service agencies banded together in the Community Chest are builders, too, building a youth who are conscious and proud of their American heritage. They, too, build for the protection of the United States."

Cashin spoke to 500 Hiltebrant employes group outside in the shipyard against a backdrop of cranes and partially completed ship hulls.

In a more serious vein, Cashin recalled prior appearances at the shipyard in connection with War Bond and other wartime fund raising drives. "Your response in every instance was wonderful. If you fellows do as well on this appeal—and I am sure you will—we need have no fear about the future of our youth welfare agencies in Kingston."

"I believe in all organizations, part and parcel, who are represented in the Kingston Area Community Chest," the judge continued. "Rarely do I have kids brought before me as Children's Court judge who are members of these organizations."

"We can't have too many youth organizations. Anything for youth, I'm for! And as family men, I feel sure you're for them, too!"

Prior to Judge Cashin's remarks, Stephen D. Hiltebrant, an official of the shipyard company, introduced Edward K. Lefren, chairman of the industrial division of the Community Chest.

Lefren said "it is the strength of groups like yours, your union, and management, that are making Community Chests all over the country successful." Lefren answered the frequently asked question as to what constituted the "Kingston Area" by pointing out that Port Ewen, the Town of Ulster, Hurley, and other communities adjacent to Kingston have their own Boy Scout and Girl Scout troops who are serviced by the organization supported financially by Community Chest and that young people from all these areas utilize the Kingston YMCA and YWCA. He also noted that a contribution to the Kingston Area Community Chest releases a giver from any obligation to contribute further to these organizations in this area. Lefren also announced that Hiltebrant had adopted the payroll deduction plan for contributions and that handling of pledge cards would be in the hands of the company shop stewards. It was again reiterated that no solicitation at home would be made in the case of workers who pledge at their place of employment.

Joseph M. Genthner, executive director of the chest, pointed up his brief remarks with one key phrase, "If you go into the Kingston YMCA, YWCA or Jewish Community Center, you will find the buildings thronged with the children of the workers of the Kingston area. Need I say more?"

WEEKLY FOOD REVIEW

(By The Associated Press)

Housewives shopping at the meat counter this weekend will find prices generally unchanged to a bit higher than last week Sirloin steak, frying and stewing chickens and smoked hams will be the most popular specials.

Advertising also will feature eggs, which are reduced again across the country, and apples, which are in abundant supply and offer a wide selection.

Steaks, which have been on the expensive side, will be trimmed by three to six cents a pound in some sections.

Frying chickens will be up two to four cents a pound in most cities but still remain a good buy, according to meat men. Specialists say stewing chickens and turkeys also are worth consideration. Smoked hams will be featured in many stores.

RIB ROASTS and veal will hold at about last week's levels. One major chain plans an increase of two to four cents a pound in leg of lamb and a slight rise in center cut pork chops.

Egg prices will be down around six cents a dozen over most of the country and as much as 11 cents in some areas.

The poultry & Egg National Board says eggs are selling about 25 cents a dozen lower than a year ago and notes that egg production for 1954 is running around two billion more than in 1953.

Hens are coming to market in record numbers, according to the board, because of low egg prices which have caused many farmers to market them for meat instead of keeping them. There are still large numbers of hens ready for market which farmers have not sold because of unfavorable prices, the board states.

COFFEE WILL BE cheaper in many stores this weekend as a result of wholesale price cuts of five cents a pound by two major roasters.

Produce men say the best buys in vegetables are cabbage, potatoes, onions, winter squash and cauliflower. Also recommended are Brussel sprouts, sweet potatoes, celery and turnips. Lettuce and carrots are lower and moderately priced.

Among vegetables going higher are cucumbers, honey dew melons, beans and tomatoes.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has some words this week on apples, which are one of the best buys available at present.

"Dunking for apples on Halloween," says the USDA, "is as traditional as the very goblins and Jack O'Lanterns that dwell mischievously in dark places. There is no need to curtail the use of apples to the elfish delight of Halloween games and they're just the thing to satisfy a 'trick or treat' youngster. With an abundant supply now forecast, they belong in the fruit bowl, as well as in pies, dumplings, desserts and tasty tart sauce."

THE USDA ESTIMATES the country's commercial apple crop at more than 103 million bushels, nearly 700,000 bushels more than earlier estimates. Eastern apple orchards weathered the recent hurricanes far better than had been first believed, the agency says.

Oranges are in greater supply in most stores and prices are lower. Otherwise it is pretty much a case of dwindling supplies at the fruit counter. Grapefruit and most types of grapes are higher.

WEEKLY FOOD REVIEW

(By The Associated Press)

Housewives shopping at the meat counter this weekend will find prices generally unchanged to a bit higher than last week Sirloin steak, frying and stewing chickens and smoked hams will be the most popular specials.

Advertising also will feature eggs, which are reduced again across the country, and apples, which are in abundant supply and offer a wide selection.

Steaks, which have been on the expensive side, will be trimmed by three to six cents a pound in some sections.

Frying chickens will be up two to four cents a pound in most cities but still remain a good buy, according to meat men. Specialists say stewing chickens and turkeys also are worth consideration. Smoked hams will be featured in many stores.

RIB ROASTS and veal will hold at about last week's levels. One major chain plans an increase of two to four cents a pound in leg of lamb and a slight rise in center cut pork chops.

Egg prices will be down around six cents a dozen over most of the country and as much as 11 cents in some areas.

The poultry & Egg National Board says eggs are selling about 25 cents a dozen lower than a year ago and notes that egg production for 1954 is running around two billion more than in 1953.

Hens are coming to market in record numbers, according to the board, because of low egg prices which have caused many farmers to market them for meat instead of keeping them. There are still large numbers of hens ready for market which farmers have not sold because of unfavorable prices, the board states.

COFFEE WILL BE cheaper in many stores this weekend as a result of wholesale price cuts of five cents a pound by two major roasters.

Produce men say the best buys in vegetables are cabbage, potatoes, onions, winter squash and cauliflower. Also recommended are Brussel sprouts, sweet potatoes, celery and turnips. Lettuce and carrots are lower and moderately priced.

Among vegetables going higher are cucumbers, honey dew melons, beans and tomatoes.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has some words this week on apples, which are one of the best buys available at present.

"Dunking for apples on Halloween," says the USDA, "is as traditional as the very goblins and Jack O'Lanterns that dwell mischievously in dark places. There is no need to curtail the use of apples to the elfish delight of Halloween games and they're just the thing to satisfy a 'trick or treat' youngster. With an abundant supply now forecast, they belong in the fruit bowl, as well as in pies, dumplings, desserts and tasty tart sauce."

THE USDA ESTIMATES the country's commercial apple crop at more than 103 million bushels, nearly 700,000 bushels more than earlier estimates. Eastern apple orchards weathered the recent hurricanes far better than had been first believed, the agency says.

Oranges are in greater supply in most stores and prices are lower. Otherwise it is pretty much a case of dwindling supplies at the fruit counter. Grapefruit and most types of grapes are higher.

Buy it, sell it, rent it, trade it through Freeman want ads. 5000 is the number to call. Ask for a Classified Want-Ad Taker.

Science Club Visits Defense Radio Section

On Tuesday afternoon the Newton Science Club of Kingston High School, consisting of ten members accompanied by Richard Whiston of the faculty visited the Radio Section of the Ulster Kingston Civil Defense Council.

Peter Spader, KN2HGO, who has his amateur license, arranged the trip. Pete is enrolled as a CD volunteer in the communications section and in case of emergency he would be ready and able to man the radio for Civil Defense.

Those who made the visit were Jerome Kinsburg, William Delaney, Emily Bight, Richard DiDonna, Edward Hill, Richard Whiston, Walter Donnaruma, Marcel Flamm and Charles Spader.

Set Up in 1867

The U. S. Office of Education was set up in 1867 as an independent agency, but since that time it has been attached to the Department of the Interior, later to the Federal Security Agency and in 1953 to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

New Powdered Milk Mixes Easily Even in Ice Water

NEW INSTANT NONFAT DRY MILK dissolves while you stir in water.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

The Newspaper Food Editors Conference produced many items of food news. One was the introduction of instant non-fat dry milk that mixes instantly even in ice water.

As Harold W. Comfort, executive vice-president of the Borden Company, host of the luncheon at the St. Regis Hotel explained its importance to the homemaker, we mixed our own. Yes, it works. In a few seconds the creamy colored powder poured into a glass of water and stirred with a spoon, turned into a milk ready for drinking with a really pleasant sweet taste.

Mr. Comfort explained that after years of research, they had produced a powder with improved taste, low moisture content which gives better keeping quality, and neither lumps nor cakes when reconstituted in water.

It comes in two packages—in a one-pound package which makes five quarters of nonfat milk and in a three-quart premeasured package. The three-quart size contains three individually wrapped envelopes. Each makes one quart of the milk.

One-half cup of this instant nonfat dry milk, the manufacturers state, contains as much protein as about ½ pound sirloin steak or five eggs.

Nonfat dry milk contains protein, calcium and riboflavin, everything that regular fluid milk contains except fat, which should be welcome news to the overweight.

The new instant form, as introduced at the conference, will be nationally distributed within a few days.

TOMORROW'S DINNER: Grapefruit, tuna and olive casserole, steamed rice, snap beans, enriched bread, butter or margarine, cole slaw, lemon sponge cake, coffee, tea, milk.

Serving Grapes

Remove seedless grapes from stems and pile in a glass serving bowl. Top with sweetened whipped cream sprinkled with freshly-grated nutmeg or curls of unsweetened chocolate. To make the chocolate curls use a swivel-blade vegetable peeler and have the chocolate slightly soft.

Men like these: slices of American cheese on rye topped with dill pickle.

Easily Made

Party-pretty appetizers are easily made. Put a large spoonful of cottage cheese (the cream-style kind) on a slice of bologna. Roll the edges of the bologna over to make a cornucopia and fasten with a cocktail pick. Insert a couple of matchstick pieces of pickle in the center of the cornucopia.

Aluminum melts at 659.7 degrees Centigrade; pure iron at 1535 degrees Centigrade.

Shokan

Shokan, Oct. 21 — The Olive No. 1 Election District roll of potential voters as completed by the local registration board October 9, bears the names of 481 persons of whom 247 are females. The book may be viewed at the polling place in Winchell's Store.

Mrs. Raymond Acker of Odessa, Tex., is visiting her mother, Bertha Ostrander BoVee of West Hurley. The two women motored from Odessa where Mrs. BoVee has been spending some time with her daughter.

The Ladies' Aid of the Shokan Reformed Church will serve a turkey supper Wednesday night, Oct. 27, in the church hall. Mrs. Arthur Henkle of Boiceville is chairman of the supper committee.

Early morning and late afternoon travel over the Onteora Trail grows increasingly heavy as more and more people in Olive and Shandaken obtain employment in Kingston and other Hudson river areas. Many of these workers come from the south side of the reservoir.

John McGovern, having sold his village home, has gone to Connecticut. Report has it that the dwelling which has housed two doctors during the past 10 years or so will be used as a summer home by the city buyers.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Townsend were among the Mt. Tremper people calling in the village Saturday.

The two new houses of Rudolph Juralek in the church hill neighborhood of Shokan are nearing completion. The Juraleks plan to sell the larger of these dwellings.

Members of the Olive Republican committee this year are the following: Homer Markle, Patrick O'Keefe, George Reitmeir, Howard Trowbridge, Bradford Kelder and Loren Barringer. Nominated for reelection, Oct. 19, as officers of the town Republican club are: Edgar Timmerman, chairman; Frank Carle, secretary; Claude Bell, treasurer, and Tessie Nygard, membership secretary. Evelyn Lang is slated to become vice-chairman of the club.

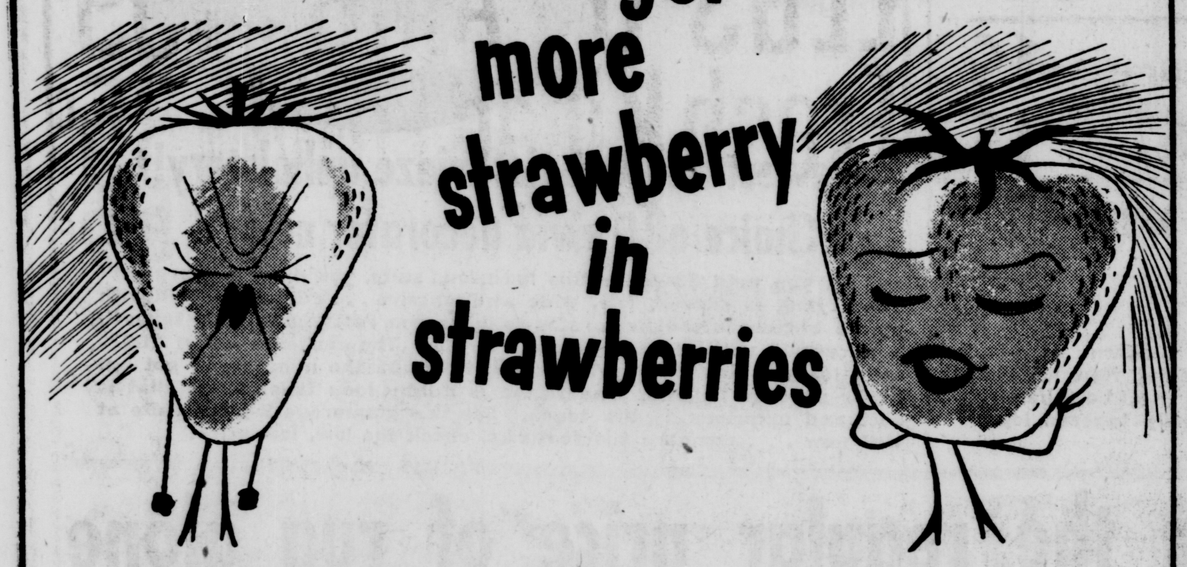
how to get more strawberry in strawberries



TOO-SOONERS

That wondrous and heavenly flavor beloved by millions is slow in arriving in a strawberry—doesn't really get there until that berry is mellow with sunshine and ruby-red with ripeness. Pick a strawberry a few days too soon and what have you? Something so tart it will make you wince and wish you'd bought bananas.

JUST-RIGHTERS

Strawberries destined for a Dulany package are watched by eagle eyes until they've become crowded with delectable flavor—their cheeks literally bulging out with red-ripe and juicy goodness. Then they're quickly plucked and plopped into the flavor-capturing quick-freeze. That's why Dulany strawberries taste the most strawberry of all strawberries.

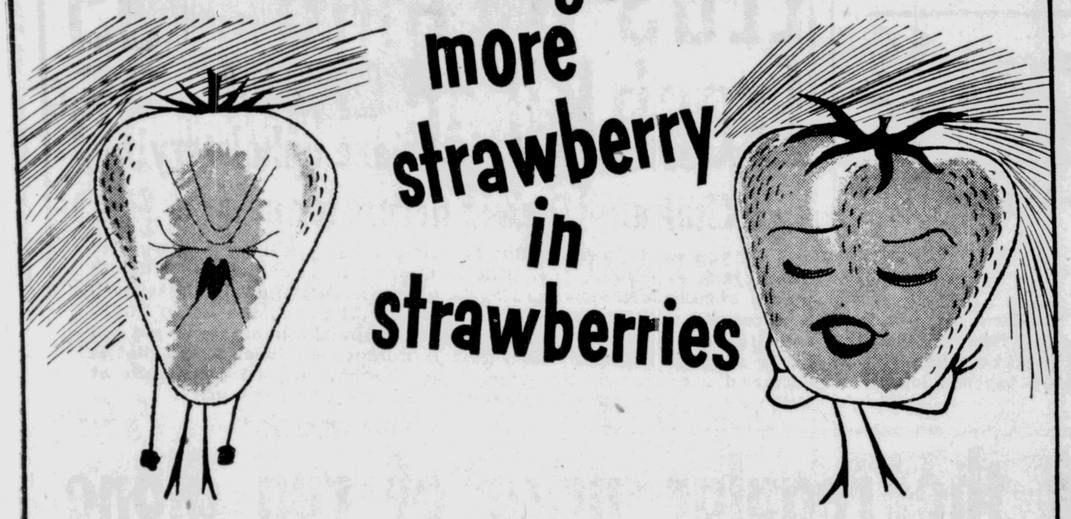
how to get more strawberry in strawberries



TOO-SOONERS

That wondrous and heavenly flavor beloved by millions is slow in arriving in a strawberry—doesn't really get there until that berry is mellow with sunshine and ruby-red with ripeness. Pick a strawberry a few days too soon and what have you? Something so tart it will make you wince and wish you'd bought bananas.

JUST-RIGHTERS

Strawberries destined for a Dulany package are watched by eagle eyes until they've become crowded with delectable flavor—their cheeks literally bulging out with red-ripe and juicy goodness. Then they're quickly plucked and plopped into the flavor-capturing quick-freeze. That's why Dulany strawberries taste the most strawberry of all strawberries.

and now you know strawberries

U. S. Blocks . . .

the White House.

HE WILL SPEAK at the annual Alfred E. Smith memorial dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

The President spoke last night to 1,800 guests at a Sheraton-Astor Hotel dinner marking the 300th anniversary of Jewish life in the United States. His address was carried nationwide on television and radio.

Mentioning some obstacles still in the way of achievement of an enduring peace, the President declared:

"The principal and continuing factor is the persistently aggressive design of Moscow and Peiping, which shows no evidence of genuine change despite their professed desire to relax tensions and to preserve peace."

BUT EISENHOWER went on to say that much progress has been made toward thwarting the spread of communism — through the new Western Europe Defense Alliance agreement and through the Southeast Asia Pact recently signed at Manila, for example.

He also mentioned improvement of the situations in Suez, Trieste and Guatemala. He cited other areas and other fields, too, and added:

"In these many ways our nation will continue tirelessly in its quest for peace based on justice. In recent months we have come far—and yet we know that the road ahead is long and difficult."

Truman and Stevenson both let fly in speeches last Saturday night at the Eisenhower administration's handling of foreign policy.

IN KANSAS CITY Truman called for election of a Democratic-controlled Congress Nov. 2 to end what he termed a Republican spectacle of "blunder after blunder" in international affairs. He said "frenzied diplomacy" had cost the United States the confidence of allies.

Stevenson, at San Francisco, blamed the Republicans "for the unhappy fact that our prestige and esteem and international respect for the U. S. has fallen to an all-time low." The former Illinois governor said the Republican party "is deeply, hopelessly divided" on foreign policy.

Eisenhower's address was interrupted seven times by applause—the first interruption coming when he was 14 minutes along in his half hour speech.

He got a standing ovation when he started and another when he concluded.

THE PRESIDENT said that in America's quest for peace with the other free nations, three avenues must be trod by this country.

"First, we must tirelessly seek—through the United Nations, through every other available means—to establish the conditions for honorable peace.

"Second, we must promote the unity and collective strength of other free peoples.

"Third, we must maintain enough military strength to deter aggression and promote peace."

In elaborating on the latter point, Eisenhower pledged that America's forces "will never be used to initiate war against any nation; they will be used only for the defense of the free world."

Firemen to Discuss Pancake Supper Today

There will be a meeting of the Veteran Volunteer Firemen, the pancake supper committee and all volunteer firemen of the city at 8 p. m. today at Rapid Hose Engine House, Hone street. All are requested to attend this meeting as final preparations for the pancake supper to be held at the auditorium October 28 will be made.

President Pulls

left," the President told the cheering party workers:

"We have the difficult task of dramatizing and selling moderate party government."

HE ADDED that his administration is "one that is attacked from both sides" but that the Republican party was working to "save the basic principles the United States of America was founded on."

The President was applauded and cheered loudly when he entered the meeting of campaign workers and they interrupted his talk with applause several times.

He displayed the familiar Eisenhower smile in response to his welcome, and frequently at other times as he spoke informally.

A longtime sports fan, the President delved into the history of sports for an analogy to depict the present situation of his administration.

RECALLING the Firpo-Dempsey fight, in which Jack Dempsey recovered from a first-round battering to defeat Luis Angel Firpo, Eisenhower said "we have carried a cause through the first round."

But, he said, voters must be acquainted with the fact that "the job is only partly done."

Several thousand persons lined the midtown area streets as Eisenhower drove from the Sheraton Astor Hotel, where he spent the night, to the Roosevelt Hotel for the party workers gathering.

Journeying on uptown in sunny but crisp autumn weather after the party meeting, the President made the first stop of the three-borough tour at the George Washington Carver housing development.

THE 13-BUILDING project, bounded by Park and Madison avenues in the area from 99th to 106th streets, wil have 1,246 low rent apartments for 5,438 persons.

It is a state-aided project which will cost an estimated 21 million dollars. During his 15-minute inspection stopover, the President turned to reporters and said:

"This is something I want you to see."

He then termed it a project "where New York state jumped in and has done a great job on slum clearance without federal aid."

The President, with Dewey and Ives at his side, shook hands with several workmen.

ONE OF THEM, Bernard Moskowitz, a carpenter from Brooklyn, volunteered the information that he had "guarded" the President overseas.

"You did?" asker the President.

"Yes, I was with the 1st Division, 16th infantry regiment," Moskowitz said. He added that he was a private first class and served as an MP, and that he was in Africa, Sicily and Europe.

"Were you wounded," asked Eisenhower.

The workman said he was, but that he recovered and was in good condition now. "Fine, fine," said the President, slapping him on the back.

IVES ALSO MOVED through the crowd of workmen introducing himself and chatting with them.

After inspecting the housing development, the presidential motorcade headed on northward into the Bronx.

But here, as sometimes happens to all motorists, a wrong turn apparently was made at a point where highway construction work was under way.

A police detail and some reporters had been waiting just a bit farther on, but they were left scratching their head in bewilderment when the motorcade failed to show up.

Finally they began to get radio reports from other police with the touring group, reporting the Presidential party traversing various streets in the area.

Then, after about 30 minutes, the motorcade came sailing by the police and reporters, presumably on the right track at last.

'Body' Disappears

A truck driver reported to Sgt. Charles A. Hoehing of the Kingston Police Department at 3 a. m. today that he had seen a man's body along Albany avenue extension near the railroad overpass, and that he attempted to revive the man without success. The report was relayed to the Ulster county sheriffs office and deputies were dispatched to the location, only to find the "body" gone. A search of the entire area failed to turn up any trace of the man.

15 Are Injured

Edgefield, S. C., Oct. 21 (AP)—A school bus smashed into a pickup truck and careened down a 25-foot embankment near here today, injuring at least 14 pupils and one woman. Sheriff C. R. Jackson said an earlier report by his office that a boy had been killed was incorrect. He said the accident occurred 14 miles west of here while the bus was bringing the pupils to the Edgefield schools.

Softening Up

Soften up the oven cleaning job. Put a bowl of ammonia or an ammonia-soaked old dish cloth in it overnight. Scrub the next day with soap or detergent and hot water.

Harriman . . .

The resulting controversy will "help Harriman," said Mitchell in speaking with newsmen after appearing on a television program here.

MEANWHILE, campaign strategists in the Harriman camp expressed belief that they were riding a national trend in favor of the Democrats. They saw no reason for Harriman to become embroiled in a dispute over the pier leases.

Last night, Harriman told an audience that he put at 1,450 persons in Utica:

"The Republicans are desperate men and are fighting back with any means, fair or foul. But they will not succeed in their desperate tactics."

He called for a "return to the philosophy of Franklin Roosevelt" and promised if elected to "carry on where Herbert Lehman left off." Lehman, now a U. S. senator, was the last Democrat elected governor of New York.

TAKING A TACK new to his campaign, Harriman said Gov. Dewey's Republican administration had "slept through the greatest explosion in history" and had done nothing to prepare the state for an atomic age.

"As governor, I will see to it that the Department of Commerce becomes atomic minded," he pledged.

Harriman spoke in Utica at the close of a whirlwind one-day upstate tour by chartered bus that took him to Schenectady, Gloversville, Johnstown, Little Falls, Herkimer and Ilion.

He flew back to New York city to breakfast with railroad labor leaders this morning, attend a luncheon at noon, a rally in the evening and the Alfred E. Smith dinner tonight.

SUMMING UP his version of campaign issues, Harriman said in his Utica speech:

That the Republicans have brought on widespread unemployment requiring "affirmative, aggressive action."

That the GOP is guilty of a "triple-cross" on farmers.

That the Dewey administration has failed to prepare for what he termed "a crisis" in crowding of the public schools.

That "the pirates are quarreling among themselves about how to split the booty" in development of hydroelectric power on the Niagara and St. Lawrence rivers. "That's one steal we'll put an end to," Harriman declared.

He promised that if elected "we're going to establish a division in the office of the governor that will look after the interests of the housewife and the consumer."

Wiley Is Attacked

Moscow, Oct. 21 (AP)—The Literary Gazette today devoted three full columns to an attack on U. S. Senator Alexander Wiley (R-Wis.), calling him an "atomic demagogue." There was no apparent news peg for the article, which referred to Wiley also as "the McCarthy of American foreign policy." Wiley is chairman of the Senate's Foreign Relations Committee. The Gazette accused him of "threatening witnesses with blacklisting and making threats against whole peoples "not with jail but with hydrogen and atomic weapons."

San Salvador, El Salvador, Oct. 21 (AP)—A strong earthquake was felt throughout this Central American republic at 1 a. m. (12 midnight EST) today. Electric service in San Salvador was knocked out for three hours, but no other damage was reported.

Anderson Cites Need of Hospital Campaign Goal

The importance of attaining the $450,000 goal in the current Kingston Hospital Development Fund campaign was stressed today by Bev. Anderson, general chairman.

Kingston Hospital has embarked upon a long-range program to provide greatly needed additional facilities for its service area, Anderson explained. The investment in this phase of the program is $1,200,000 for constructing and equipping an addition to the present building, plus a sum of $140,000 to retire existing mortgages.

Of the total amount, $600,000 is already on hand as a result of the 1950 Building Fund appeal, and another $290,000 is anticipated in federal and state grants Anderson said. The balance of $450,000 to be raised at this time represents only a little more than one-third of the total investment.

SPECIAL COMMITTEES are already functioning in the drive to secure the goal. The public appeal is scheduled to begin about Nov. 14.

"We are now in a position similar to that of a baseball pitcher who has two strikes on the opposing batter," Anderson said. "He must deliver the third strike in order to claim the benefit of the first two."

"In the same way, we must invest that $450,000 in order to claim the full benefit of the $890,000 already available."

EVERY $1,000 contributed now actually means a total of $3,000 going into completion of the project, Anderson pointed out.

Expressing confidence in the success of the drive, Anderson noted that the original plans of 1950 have already been revised in order that the most urgent needs be met and the greatest number of additional benefits provided consistent with financial probabilities. Plans for the addition to the existing facilities will permit full use to be made of the medical techniques that have developed since the present building was constructed, and will enable hospital staff to work more efficiently, he said.

The development program seeks not only to meet the accumulated need for additional facilities but projects the future demands which must be faced as rapidly as additional funds become available, Frank B. Matthews, president of the hospital's board of trustees, said.

To Resume Talks

New Delhi, India, Oct. 21 (AP)—India and Pakistan have agreed to resume negotiations in their dispute over Indus river basin waters. Robert L. The negotiations will be held in Washington beginning Nov. 15.

HE WILL SPEAK at the annual Alfred E. Smith memorial dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

The President spoke last night to 1,800 guests at a Sheraton-Astor Hotel dinner marking the 300th anniversary of Jewish life in the United States. His address was carried nationwide on television and radio.

Mentioning some obstacles still in the way of achievement of an enduring peace, the President declared:

"The principal and continuing factor is the persistently aggressive design of Moscow and Peiping, which shows no evidence of genuine change despite their professed desire to relax tensions and to preserve peace."

BUT EISENHOWER went on to say that much progress has been made toward thwarting the spread of communism — through the new Western Europe Defense Alliance agreement and through the Southeast Asia Pact recently signed at Manila, for example.

He also mentioned improvement of the situations in Suez, Trieste and Guatemala. He cited other areas and other fields, too, and added:

"In these many ways our nation will continue tirelessly in its quest for peace based on justice. In recent months we have come far—and yet we know that the road ahead is long and difficult."

Truman and Stevenson both let fly in speeches last Saturday night at the Eisenhower administration's handling of foreign policy.

IN KANSAS CITY Truman called for election of a Democratic-controlled Congress Nov. 2 to end what he termed a Republican spectacle of "blunder after blunder" in international affairs. He said "frenzied diplomacy" had cost the United States the confidence of allies.

Stevenson, at San Francisco, blamed the Republicans "for the unhappy fact that our prestige and esteem and international respect for the U. S. has fallen to an all-time low." The former Illinois governor said the Republican party "is deeply, hopelessly divided" on foreign policy.

Eisenhower's address was interrupted seven times by applause—the first interruption coming when he was 14 minutes along in his half hour speech.

He got a standing ovation when he started and another when he concluded.

THE PRESIDENT said that in America's quest for peace with the other free nations, three avenues must be trod by this country.

"First, we must tirelessly seek—through the United Nations, through every other available means—to establish the conditions for honorable peace.

"Second, we must promote the unity and collective strength of other free peoples.

"Third, we must maintain enough military strength to deter aggression and promote peace."

In elaborating on the latter point, Eisenhower pledged that America's forces "will never be used to initiate war against any nation; they will be used only for the defense of the free world."

Firemen to Discuss Pancake Supper Today

There will be a meeting of the Veteran Volunteer Firemen, the pancake supper committee and all volunteer firemen of the city at 8 p. m. today at Rapid Hose Engine House, Hone street. All are requested to attend this meeting as final preparations for the pancake supper to be held at the auditorium October 28 will be made.

President Pulls

left," the President told the cheering party workers:

"We have the difficult task of dramatizing and selling moderate party government."

HE ADDED that his administration is "one that is attacked from both sides" but that the Republican party was working to "save the basic principles the United States of America was founded on."

The President was applauded and cheered loudly when he entered the meeting of campaign workers and they interrupted his talk with applause several times.

He displayed the familiar Eisenhower smile in response to his welcome, and frequently at other times as he spoke informally.

A longtime sports fan, the President delved into the history of sports for an analogy to depict the present situation of his administration.

RECALLING the Firpo-Dempsey fight, in which Jack Dempsey recovered from a first-round battering to defeat Luis Angel Firpo, Eisenhower said "we have carried a cause through the first round."

But, he said, voters must be acquainted with the fact that "the job is only partly done."

Several thousand persons lined the midtown area streets as Eisenhower drove from the Sheraton Astor Hotel, where he spent the night, to the Roosevelt Hotel for the party workers gathering.

Journeying on uptown in sunny but crisp autumn weather after the party meeting, the President made the first stop of the three-borough tour at the George Washington Carver housing development.

THE 13-BUILDING project, bounded by Park and Madison avenues in the area from 99th to 106th streets, wil have 1,246 low rent apartments for 5,438 persons.

It is a state-aided project which will cost an estimated 21 million dollars. During his 15-minute inspection stopover, the President turned to reporters and said:

"This is something I want you to see."

He then termed it a project "where New York state jumped in and has done a great job on slum clearance without federal aid."

The President, with Dewey and Ives at his side, shook hands with several workmen.

ONE OF THEM, Bernard Moskowitz, a carpenter from Brooklyn, volunteered the information that he had "guarded" the President overseas.

"You did?" asker the President.

"Yes, I was with the 1st Division, 16th infantry regiment," Moskowitz said. He added that he was a private first class and served as an MP, and that he was in Africa, Sicily and Europe.

"Were you wounded," asked Eisenhower.

The workman said he was, but that he recovered and was in good condition now. "Fine, fine," said the President, slapping him on the back.

IVES ALSO MOVED through the crowd of workmen introducing himself and chatting with them.

After inspecting the housing development, the presidential motorcade headed on northward into the Bronx.

But here, as sometimes happens to all motorists, a wrong turn apparently was made at a point where highway construction work was under way.

A police detail and some reporters had been waiting just a bit farther on, but they were left scratching their head in bewilderment when the motorcade failed to show up.

Finally they began to get radio reports from other police with the touring group, reporting the Presidential party traversing various streets in the area.

Then, after about 30 minutes, the motorcade came sailing by the police and reporters, presumably on the right track at last.

'Body' Disappears

A truck driver reported to Sgt. Charles A. Hoehing of the Kingston Police Department at 3 a. m. today that he had seen a man's body along Albany avenue extension near the railroad overpass, and that he attempted to revive the man without success. The report was relayed to the Ulster county sheriffs office and deputies were dispatched to the location, only to find the "body" gone. A search of the entire area failed to turn up any trace of the man.

15 Are Injured

Edgefield, S. C., Oct. 21 (AP)—A school bus smashed into a pickup truck and careened down a 25-foot embankment near here today, injuring at least 14 pupils and one woman. Sheriff C. R. Jackson said an earlier report by his office that a boy had been killed was incorrect. He said the accident occurred 14 miles west of here while the bus was bringing the pupils to the Edgefield schools.

Harriman . . .

The resulting controversy will "help Harriman," said Mitchell in speaking with newsmen after appearing on a television program here.

MEANWHILE, campaign strategists in the Harriman camp expressed belief that they were riding a national trend in favor of the Democrats. They saw no reason for Harriman to become embroiled in a dispute over the pier leases.

Last night, Harriman told an audience that he put at 1,450 persons in Utica:

"The Republicans are desperate men and are fighting back with any means, fair or foul. But they will not succeed in their desperate tactics."

He called for a "return to the philosophy of Franklin Roosevelt" and promised if elected to "carry on where Herbert Lehman left off." Lehman, now a U. S. senator, was the last Democrat elected governor of New York.

TAKING A TACK new to his campaign, Harriman said Gov. Dewey's Republican administration had "slept through the greatest explosion in history" and had done nothing to prepare the state for an atomic age.

"As governor, I will see to it that the Department of Commerce becomes atomic minded," he pledged.

Harriman spoke in Utica at the close of a whirlwind one-day upstate tour by chartered bus that took him to Schenectady, Gloversville, Johnstown, Little Falls, Herkimer and Ilion.

He flew back to New York city to breakfast with railroad labor leaders this morning, attend a luncheon at noon, a rally in the evening and the Alfred E. Smith dinner tonight.

SUMMING UP his version of campaign issues, Harriman said in his Utica speech:

That the Republicans have brought on widespread unemployment requiring "affirmative, aggressive action."

That the GOP is guilty of a "triple-cross" on farmers.

That the Dewey administration has failed to prepare for what he termed "a crisis" in crowding of the public schools.

That "the pirates are quarreling among themselves about how to split the booty" in development of hydroelectric power on the Niagara and St. Lawrence rivers. "That's one steal we'll put an end to," Harriman declared.

He promised that if elected "we're going to establish a division in the office of the governor that will look after the interests of the housewife and the consumer."

Wiley Is Attacked

Moscow, Oct. 21 (AP)—The Literary Gazette today devoted three full columns to an attack on U. S. Senator Alexander Wiley (R-Wis.), calling him an "atomic demagogue." There was no apparent news peg for the article, which referred to Wiley also as "the McCarthy of American foreign policy." Wiley is chairman of the Senate's Foreign Relations Committee. The Gazette accused him of "threatening witnesses with blacklisting and making threats against whole peoples "not with jail but with hydrogen and atomic weapons."

Anderson Cites Need of Hospital Campaign Goal

The importance of attaining the $450,000 goal in the current Kingston Hospital Development Fund campaign was stressed today by Bev. Anderson, general chairman.

Kingston Hospital has embarked upon a long-range program to provide greatly needed additional facilities for its service area, Anderson explained. The investment in this phase of the program is $1,200,000 for constructing and equipping an addition to the present building, plus a sum of $140,000 to retire existing mortgages.

Of the total amount, $600,000 is already on hand as a result of the 1950 Building Fund appeal, and another $290,000 is anticipated in federal and state grants Anderson said. The balance of $450,000 to be raised at this time represents only a little more than one-third of the total investment.

SPECIAL COMMITTEES are already functioning in the drive to secure the goal. The public appeal is scheduled to begin about Nov. 14.

"We are now in a position similar to that of a baseball pitcher who has two strikes on the opposing batter," Anderson said. "He must deliver the third strike in order to claim the benefit of the first two."

"In the same way, we must invest that $450,000 in order to claim the full benefit of the $890,000 already available."

EVERY $1,000 contributed now actually means a total of $3,000 going into completion of the project, Anderson pointed out.

Expressing confidence in the success of the drive, Anderson noted that the original plans of 1950 have already been revised in order that the most urgent needs be met and the greatest number of additional benefits provided consistent with financial probabilities. Plans for the addition to the existing facilities will permit full use to be made of the medical techniques that have developed since the present building was constructed, and will enable hospital staff to work more efficiently, he said.

The development program seeks not only to meet the accumulated need for additional facilities but projects the future demands which must be faced as rapidly as additional funds become available, Frank B. Matthews, president of the hospital's board of trustees, said.

Bari, Italy, Oct. 21 (AP) — A Communist Albanian gunboat seized an Italian fishing boat in the Adriatic today and forced it into the Albanian port of Durazzo, Bari port authorities said. Hawk Highways Are South Ridges

"Hawk Highways" became the object of study by members of the John Burroughs Natural History Society on Sunday, Oct. 17, when six members and three guests spent six hours on the ridges of the Shawangunks watching the hawks migrate.

The birds apparently find a mountain ridge running in a more or less southerly direction, the observers reported. On days when a westerly wind strikes this slope and is deflected upward, the hawks glide along parallel to the ridge, buoyed up by the rising air currents. Thus such ridges become "hawk highways" as the birds migrate southward in the fall.

DURING THE PAST TWO years, the Burroughs Society made such observations at the Hawk Mountain Sanctuary, 150 miles further south in the Kittatinny Mountains. Society members had the guidance of Dr. Maurice Broun, a noted ornithologist, who, as curator, has been making observations on hawk migrations there for 20 years.

The local group saw 99 hawks going south during their watch. Of these, 79 were sharp-shinned hawks, and there were six each of sparrow and red-tailed, two each of Coopers and red-shouldered, and one each of pigeon, broad-winged, marsh and the goshawk. Also observed were two large flocks of crows and one of geese. Flitting from tree to tree was an almost continuous stream of Myrtle warblers, all going in the same direction.

Members participating were Dr. A. M. Cragin, Dr. Heinz Meng, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dunbar, Daniel Smiley, Jr., Priscilla Smiley. Guests were Courtney Offut, Dan C. Smiley and Anne Smiley.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Oct. 21 (AP)—The stock market moved higher today, with steel shares taking over the leadership.

Advances went to a point or two in key stocks. Buyers also sought the motor, television, aircraft, cement and airline stocks.

Trading was active, although at a slightly slower pace than it was yesterday, when 2,380,000 shares changed hands in a strong market.

The steels became active in late morning, when large blocks appeared on the tape. Within a short time, issues like Inland Steel, Armco, Youngstown, Bethlehem and Republic were ahead a point or more. U. S. Steel was up fractionally at a new high.

Cement stocks, popular because of expected extensive highway programs, improved by a point or so in most instances. Most aircrafts were higher, but they encountered some profit-taking.

Sewer Contracts Awarded by BPW; Study Proposed

Five contracts for sewer projects were awarded by the Board of Public Works yesterday and the board considered a planning board proposal dealing with a general study of the city sewer system, including future planning.

The contracts awarded included one to James Berardi on a bid of $8,256 for the rebuilding of a combined sanitary and storm water sewer on Jansen avenue between Foxhall avenue and East Chester street.

ANOTHER, ALSO AWARDED to Berardi, at $7,548, was for the building of a storm water sewer on Gill street between East Union and Walnut street, to relieve the flooding of private property during heavy rains.

Joseph Gruner, of Highland, was awarded the contract, on a bid of $6,608 for the building of a sanitary sewer in Wilkie avenue. He was also awarded the contract on a bid of $1,049.50 for installing a sanitary sewer in Lounsbery Place.

Berardi, on a bid of $6,727, was awarded the contract for a sanitary sewer project on Sylvester street.

A RESOLUTION ADOPTED by the city planning board and forwarded to the BPW, proposed completion of storm and sanitary sewer projects in the city before a property development is inhabited and it suggested a study of sewer facilities and those which may be required due to future growth. It was referred to City Engineer Arthur F. Hallinan.

On recommendation of the city engineer the board voted to pay $816.15 to contractor R. J. Marshall, who was awarded the contract for sewer work in Mary's avenue. The amount had ben held as surety on payrolls and materials. The city retains $125.56 for nine months.

IT WAS ALSO VOTED to pay $4,270.78 to the same contractor for work done on the force main project on Foxhall avenue, and to retain $499.28.

The board decided that a light, which had been missing since the replacement of a pole near 61 Downs street, should be installed, that a second light was needed on Janet street, and referred a request by Alderman Arthur Smith, for one near 227 W. Chestnut street, to the light committee.

Hawk Highways Are South Ridges

"Hawk Highways" became the object of study by members of the John Burroughs Natural History Society on Sunday, Oct. 17, when six members and three guests spent six hours on the ridges of the Shawangunks watching the hawks migrate.

The birds apparently find a mountain ridge running in a more or less southerly direction, the observers reported. On days when a westerly wind strikes this slope and is deflected upward, the hawks glide along parallel to the ridge, buoyed up by the rising air currents. Thus such ridges become "hawk highways" as the birds migrate southward in the fall.

DURING THE PAST TWO years, the Burroughs Society made such observations at the Hawk Mountain Sanctuary, 150 miles further south in the Kittatinny Mountains. Society members had the guidance of Dr. Maurice Broun, a noted ornithologist, who, as curator, has been making observations on hawk migrations there for 20 years.

The local group saw 99 hawks going south during their watch. Of these, 79 were sharp-shinned hawks, and there were six each of sparrow and red-tailed, two each of Coopers and red-shouldered, and one each of pigeon, broad-winged, marsh and the goshawk. Also observed were two large flocks of crows and one of geese. Flitting from tree to tree was an almost continuous stream of Myrtle warblers, all going in the same direction.

Members participating were Dr. A. M. Cragin, Dr. Heinz Meng, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dunbar, Daniel Smiley, Jr., Priscilla Smiley. Guests were Courtney Offut, Dan C. Smiley and Anne Smiley.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Oct. 21 (AP)—The stock market moved higher today, with steel shares taking over the leadership.

Advances went to a point or two in key stocks. Buyers also sought the motor, television, aircraft, cement and airline stocks.

Trading was active, although at a slightly slower pace than it was yesterday, when 2,380,000 shares changed hands in a strong market.

The steels became active in late morning, when large blocks appeared on the tape. Within a short time, issues like Inland Steel, Armco, Youngstown, Bethlehem and Republic were ahead a point or more. U. S. Steel was up fractionally at a new high.

Cement stocks, popular because of expected extensive highway programs, improved by a point or so in most instances. Most aircrafts were higher, but they encountered some profit-taking.

Sewer Contracts Awarded by BPW; Study Proposed

Five contracts for sewer projects were awarded by the Board of Public Works yesterday and the board considered a planning board proposal dealing with a general study of the city sewer system, including future planning.

The contracts awarded included one to James Berardi on a bid of $8,256 for the rebuilding of a combined sanitary and storm water sewer on Jansen avenue between Foxhall avenue and East Chester street.

ANOTHER, ALSO AWARDED to Berardi, at $7,548, was for the building of a storm water sewer on Gill street between East Union and Walnut street, to relieve the flooding of private property during heavy rains.

Joseph Gruner, of Highland, was awarded the contract, on a bid of $6,608 for the building of a sanitary sewer in Wilkie avenue. He was also awarded the contract on a bid of $1,049.50 for installing a sanitary sewer in Lounsbery Place.

Berardi, on a bid of $6,727, was awarded the contract for a sanitary sewer project on Sylvester street.

A RESOLUTION ADOPTED by the city planning board and forwarded to the BPW, proposed completion of storm and sanitary sewer projects in the city before a property development is inhabited and it suggested a study of sewer facilities and those which may be required due to future growth. It was referred to City Engineer Arthur F. Hallinan.

On recommendation of the city engineer the board voted to pay $816.15 to contractor R. J. Marshall, who was awarded the contract for sewer work in Mary's avenue. The amount had ben held as surety on payrolls and materials. The city retains $125.56 for nine months.

IT WAS ALSO VOTED to pay $4,270.78 to the same contractor for work done on the force main project on Foxhall avenue, and to retain $499.28.

The board decided that a light, which had been missing since the replacement of a pole near 61 Downs street, should be installed, that a second light was needed on Janet street, and referred a request by Alderman Arthur Smith, for one near 227 W. Chestnut street, to the light committee.

By DICK KLEINER

ARCHIE BLEYER thinks the Chordettes' new record, "Mr. Sand-Man," will outsell his own fabulous seller, "Hernando's Hideaway," and become Cadence's top money-maker. One New York disc jockey, Jazzbo Collins, played "Mr. Sand-Man" for a solid hour. Which should have brought the genuine sand-man.

Realism in music is fine and dandy, but composer Carmen Dragon is going all out on that kick. He's been riding railroads with recording equipment, taping all the railroad sounds. Dragon (no relation to Ollie) is going to write a symphony called, naturally, "Railroad," which he hopes will capture "the vibrational energy of a train in operation."

It should have one movement called "Andante, Topeka and Santa Fe."

When Andre Kostelanetz plans a new recording, he says the meeting of his associates resembles a military general staff planning a new offensive.

Perhaps that's why the results are technically so perfect. Kostelanetz says his team checks every possible angle of the recording —even the humidity in the recording studio. (It has to be 40 per cent or less before Kostelanetz will lift a baton.)

And when the final note has been played, and the whole thing is on tape, the balding, blue-eyed maestro says he's still not sure if he's satisfied.

"You have to get perspective," he says, "before you know if it's good or not. Generally, that perspective doesn't come for perhaps three months. Then you are far enough removed from the actual recording to tell. Sometimes I am disappointed. More often, though, I'm extra-pleased."

So, generally, are his fans. They've come to expect the best — whether it be a straight classical performance, or Kostelanetz leading his orchestra through a rich, stringy arrangement of popular songs. He is one conductor, basically a classical artist, who openly admits he likes popular stuff.

"I know some classical musicians," he says, "who look down on popular music. I think looking down on anything is a bore. I like popular music. And so do many other classical artists—Jascha Heifetz, the violinist, once wrote a popular song under another name.

He says that recording popular music isn't easy. After all these years and all these big selling albums, however, he's reduced it to a formula. It takes two things, according to the Kostelanetz Theory, to get a good popular recording.

"The arrangement must be simple," he says ,"and it must be played with feeling."

Now you know the secret. Go buy a baton.

President Drops 'Teaser'

New York, Oct. 21 (AP)—President Eisenhower visited briefly yesterday with the West Point Society of New York State and came up with a teaser on whether he might be planning to pass up a bid for a second term. Eisenhower told the society members: "I regret I am not free these days to attend a kind of luncheon like this." Then he paused, grinned broadly, and added: "But just give me a little time and I'll be back in the crowd cheering for some other poor sucker who's up there." The big question among the members was—what did he mean by a "little time?" Two more years? Or six?

Prices on Foods Are Low And Winter Outlook Is Good

By SAM DAWSON

New York, Oct. 21 (AP)—The outlook for eating this coming winter is pretty good today.

Prices of most foodstuffs are down — at the farm level — to about where they were before the start of the Korean war sent them scampering upward. Large surpluses of many of the primary foodstuffs tend to keep them stable.

The chief upward pressure on food prices at the grocery level comes from the creeping rise in costs of preparation and distribution.

Drouth or disease or tropical hurricanes have cut some crops in some sections—but shortages exist in very few commodities. Storms hurt the apple crop in the east. Rains cut into the onion crop in the southwest and on the west coast. Unseasonable hot weather took a toll of lettuce in California.

BUT THE STORY in general is one of plenty. And when a major crop has been cut this year by weather or governmental planting restrictions, there is usually a sizable hold-over from previous years on which to fall back.

Another round in coffee price cutting started this week on the Pacific coast and spread to the east. Future trading on the New York Coffee & Sugar Exchange shows that traders are looking for lower prices when the next crop is harvested in Brazil. In that country governmental agencies are reported buying up the green beans in an attempt to bolster sagging prices.

THE TURKEY CROP in this country is close to the record set in 1952, while wholesale prices are reported the lowest in 12 years, offering consumers something to be thankful for come Thanksgiving. Poultry prices are down and so are eggs, although chicken farmers are expecting the price to stiffen with the moulting season.

Meat supplies are abundant this fall. Bargains are advertised every week by the butchers.

So eating prospects are very pleasant, indeed. And grocers report that if Americans are tightening their buying of some big ticket items, they certainly aren't skimping at the food markets. In spite of a slight drop in retail food prices, grocers' dollar sales volume is holding high this year.

All this is pleasant for the consumer. For the farmer it's something else again.

PRICES OF FARM products climbed steeply after the Korean war started in June of 1950. They reached a peak in early spring of 1951. Since then they have slipped back 21 per cent.

This has come about in spite of government price support programs and is due largely to bumper crops which produced more than the American public consumes.

Exporting of foodstuffs became increasingly more difficult because other countries have raised barriers against our goods to conserve and bolster their dollar and gold reserves. Also, in many cases, they have surpluses of their own to market and strenuously oppose attempts of our government to dispose of the stores of grains and dairy products that have piled up in government storehouses in recent years.

WASHINGTON CUT BACK on the acreage which farmers could plant to some of these major crops this year. But the present harvest shows that many of these acres were put to other crops, and surpluses in these are now depressing the markets.

It adds up to abundance of food this winter—a depressing price outlook for the farmer—and a headache for Washington.

Nebraska is the only state which is contained wholly within the Missouri river basin.

No Progress Noted

Seoul, Oct. 21 (AP)—A South Korean government spokesman said today there was no progress at all" in a 2½ hour meeting between President Syngman Rhee and Gen. John E. Hull, UN Far East commander, over the dollar-hwan currency dispute. Hull had no comment except to say the talks would continue tomorrow. The dispute over the exchange rate and the handling of a new 700 million dollar U. S. aid program has plunged South Korean-United States relations to their lowest ebb since the armistice.

THE MARQUEE

T.V. — STAGE — RADIO — RECORDS — PEOPLE

By DICK KLEINER

ARCHIE BLEYER thinks the Chordettes' new record, "Mr. Sand-Man," will outsell his own fabulous seller, "Hernando's Hideaway," and become Cadence's top money-maker. One New York disc jockey, Jazzbo Collins, played "Mr. Sand-Man" for a solid hour. Which should have brought the genuine sand-man.

Realism in music is fine and dandy, but composer Carmen Dragon is going all out on that kick. He's been riding railroads with recording equipment, taping all the railroad sounds. Dragon (no relation to Ollie) is going to write a symphony called, naturally, "Railroad," which he hopes will capture "the vibrational energy of a train in operation."

It should have one movement called "Andante, Topeka and Santa Fe."

When Andre Kostelanetz plans a new recording, he says the meeting of his associates resembles a military general staff planning a new offensive.

Perhaps that's why the results are technically so perfect. Kostelanetz says his team checks every possible angle of the recording —even the humidity in the recording studio. (It has to be 40 per cent or less before Kostelanetz will lift a baton.)

And when the final note has been played, and the whole thing is on tape, the balding, blue-eyed maestro says he's still not sure if he's satisfied.

"You have to get perspective," he says, "before you know if it's good or not. Generally, that perspective doesn't come for perhaps three months. Then you are far enough removed from the actual recording to tell. Sometimes I am disappointed. More often, though, I'm extra-pleased."

So, generally, are his fans. They've come to expect the best — whether it be a straight classical performance, or Kostelanetz leading his orchestra through a rich, stringy arrangement of popular songs. He is one conductor, basically a classical artist, who openly admits he likes popular stuff.

"I know some classical musicians," he says, "who look down on popular music. I think looking down on anything is a bore. I like popular music. And so do many other classical artists—Jascha Heifetz, the violinist, once wrote a popular song under another name.

He says that recording popular music isn't easy. After all these years and all these big selling albums, however, he's reduced it to a formula. It takes two things, according to the Kostelanetz Theory, to get a good popular recording.

"The arrangement must be simple," he says ,"and it must be played with feeling."

Now you know the secret. Go buy a baton.

No Progress Noted

Seoul, Oct. 21 (AP)—A South Korean government spokesman said today there was no progress at all" in a 2½ hour meeting between President Syngman Rhee and Gen. John E. Hull, UN Far East commander, over the dollar-hwan currency dispute. Hull had no comment except to say the talks would continue tomorrow. The dispute over the exchange rate and the handling of a new 700 million dollar U. S. aid program has plunged South Korean-United States relations to their lowest ebb since the armistice.

President Drops 'Teaser'

New York, Oct. 21 (AP)—President Eisenhower visited briefly yesterday with the West Point Society of New York State and came up with a teaser on whether he might be planning to pass up a bid for a second term. Eisenhower told the society members: "I regret I am not free these days to attend a kind of luncheon like this." Then he paused, grinned broadly, and added: "But just give me a little time and I'll be back in the crowd cheering for some other poor sucker who's up there." The big question among the members was—what did he mean by a "little time?" Two more years? Or six?

Prices on Foods Are Low And Winter Outlook Is Good

By SAM DAWSON

New York, Oct. 21 (AP)—The outlook for eating this coming winter is pretty good today.

Prices of most foodstuffs are down — at the farm level — to about where they were before the start of the Korean war sent them scampering upward. Large surpluses of many of the primary foodstuffs tend to keep them stable.

The chief upward pressure on food prices at the grocery level comes from the creeping rise in costs of preparation and distribution.

Drouth or disease or tropical hurricanes have cut some crops in some sections—but shortages exist in very few commodities. Storms hurt the apple crop in the east. Rains cut into the onion crop in the southwest and on the west coast. Unseasonable hot weather took a toll of lettuce in California.

BUT THE STORY in general is one of plenty. And when a major crop has been cut this year by weather or governmental planting restrictions, there is usually a sizable hold-over from previous years on which to fall back.

Another round in coffee price cutting started this week on the Pacific coast and spread to the east. Future trading on the New York Coffee & Sugar Exchange shows that traders are looking for lower prices when the next crop is harvested in Brazil. In that country governmental agencies are reported buying up the green beans in an attempt to bolster sagging prices.

THE TURKEY CROP in this country is close to the record set in 1952, while wholesale prices are reported the lowest in 12 years, offering consumers something to be thankful for come Thanksgiving. Poultry prices are down and so are eggs, although chicken farmers are expecting the price to stiffen with the moulting season.

Meat supplies are abundant this fall. Bargains are advertised every week by the butchers.

So eating prospects are very pleasant, indeed. And grocers report that if Americans are tightening their buying of some big ticket items, they certainly aren't skimping at the food markets. In spite of a slight drop in retail food prices, grocers' dollar sales volume is holding high this year.

All this is pleasant for the consumer. For the farmer it's something else again.

PRICES OF FARM products climbed steeply after the Korean war started in June of 1950. They reached a peak in early spring of 1951. Since then they have slipped back 21 per cent.

This has come about in spite of government price support programs and is due largely to bumper crops which produced more than the American public consumes.

Exporting of foodstuffs became increasingly more difficult because other countries have raised barriers against our goods to conserve and bolster their dollar and gold reserves. Also, in many cases, they have surpluses of their own to market and strenuously oppose attempts of our government to dispose of the stores of grains and dairy products that have piled up in government storehouses in recent years.

WASHINGTON CUT BACK on the acreage which farmers could plant to some of these major crops this year. But the present harvest shows that many of these acres were put to other crops, and surpluses in these are now depressing the markets.

It adds up to abundance of food this winter—a depressing price outlook for the farmer—and a headache for Washington.

Nebraska is the only state which is contained wholly within the Missouri river basin.

MRS. ALLEN CHIECO, the former Miss Marian Elizabeth Goodrich of Binghamton. (Brentwood photo).

Marian E. Goodrich, Allen Chieco Are Wed at St. Joseph's

The wedding of Miss Marian Elizabeth Goodrich of 425 Robinson street, Binghamton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis C. Goodrich of Esopus, and Allen Chieco of RD 1, Kirkwood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Chieco of Haverstraw, was solemnized Sunday, Oct. 17, at 3 p. m. at St. Joseph's Church, this city. The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Stephen P. Connelly, pastor, performed the double ring ceremony.

Mrs. Frank Rafferty was organist. The church was decorated with white chrysanthemums and gladioli.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of rose point lace over bridal satin, with a scalloped bodice embroidered with iridescent paillettes, long tapered sleeves and an illusion yoke. Her bouffant skirt, with panels of lace terminated in a circular court train. A French illusion veil, three-quarter length, was attached to a rose point lace bridal cap, scalloped with sequins. She carried a crescent-shaped bouquet of white pompons with an orchid in the center.

Miss Barbara Mott of Esopus, a cousin, as maid of honor, wore a full skirted floor-length gown of shrimp colored nylon tulle with sculptured bodice, accordion pleated at the waist and a bolero jacket, matching head band of stylized flowers with an afternoon veil. She carried a crescent shaped bouquet of blue tinted pompons with satin bows.

The attendants were Miss Gertrude Mott and Miss Janet Mott, cousins, both of New York. Their gowns and headpieces in aqua were in identical style to the maid of honor and each carried crescent-shaped bouquets of yellow pompons with satin bows.

Best man was John Martz of Congers, brother-in-law of the groom. Ushers were John Harrison of Sidney and Donald Pagani of Binghamton.

A reception was held at the Governor Clinton Hotel immediately following the ceremony for 100 guests. The couple later left for a wedding trip to Canada. For traveling, the bride wore a gray flannel suit with alligator shoes and purse and hat of aqua feathers. She wore an orchid corsage. They will make their future home at RD1, Kirkwood.

The bride is a graduate of Hartwick College, Oneonta, and is employed as a psychiatric social worker at Binghamton State Hospital.

The bridegroom attended Fordham University and New York University after serving three and one-half years in the Marine Corps during World War 2. He is a member of the New York State Police and is currently stationed in Binghamton.

Memoirs of Mrs. Chase Give Story Of Fashions in This Country

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

For 60 years Edna Woolman Chase has been molding the fashion tastes of women all over the world as employe, editor-in-chief and finally chairman of the editorial board of Vogue magazine.

Her memoirs, "Always in Vogue," published today by Doubleday, trace the fashion history of America from the days of the little dressmaker to the present mass production which makes Paris fashions available to every woman in the country within weeks of their unveiling.

And for 60 years this gentle, soft-spoken lady of Quaker upbringing has been worrying about quite another matter. She spoke about it at a small and intimate luncheon celebrating the publication of her book, as she chatted with a few friends and well-wishers. Said the aristocratic and ladylike Mrs. Chase:

"I THINK AMERICAN women look wonderful practically all of the time. But why can't somebody do something about the men?"

Having seen women through the hazards of the dust-ruffle skirt, the bustle, the flapper sack, the Empress Eugenie era, the football shoulders of World War 2, the new look and now the new new look, Mrs. Chase feels that the distaff side is well prepared to cope with fashion as it comes. But men—well!

"It does seem to me they could look more attractive," murmured Mrs. Chase wistfully. "I have observed and reported men's fashion's as well as women's for all these years, and I give you my word of honor, I could take a man's suit of 1890 from some musty closet, and it would not vary a half--inch from the things they are wearing today.

"THEY HAVE the same coat and trousers, the same shirt and collar, and always that tie that has to go straight down the middle.

"Women experiment with colors and fabrics and necklines —especially necklines. Why couldn't men wear ascots for a change, or knot their ties on the side—or do something to change the monotony of it all?"

She looked critically at the well-tailored and conservative literary editor of the New York Times, who sat at her left, and said triumphantly:

"You see, Mr. Brown, you are wearing your tie exactly the same way as every other man in the room. Your suit is brown, theirs are gray or blue—and that's the only difference. Nature didn't intend it so, you know. The males of every other species—the birds and the beasts —are the ones with the gay plumage and the handsome pelts. Only in the human race are the males the drab ones, while the females gild and glorify themselves just to attract them. It doesn't seem fair."

"WELL, NOW that you mention it, I suppose it isn't," stammered the blushing Mr. Brown, hastily covering his tie with his hand. "But I just never happened to wear an ascot."

Mrs. Chase warmed to her subject.

"I don't mean," she said, "that I approve of those horrible sports shirts that men wear sometimes when they want to be emancipated. Or those shorts they sometimes wear in summer —their legs aren't attractive enough for those. But back in the days of George Washington and Alexander Hamilton men had real elegance. They wore satins and velvets and laces, and nobody accused them of being foppish.

"It's too bad our men of today can't go back to those handsome fashions of long ago, and live up to their womenfolk."

There was a crusading light in the eyes of Edna Woolman Chase and a prophetic note in her gently modulated voice as she smiled at the flustrated men around the luncheon table and added:

"Maybe they will."

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

For 60 years Edna Woolman Chase has been molding the fashion tastes of women all over the world as employe, editor-in-chief and finally chairman of the editorial board of Vogue magazine.

Her memoirs, "Always in Vogue," published today by Doubleday, trace the fashion history of America from the days of the little dressmaker to the present mass production which makes Paris fashions available to every woman in the country within weeks of their unveiling.

And for 60 years this gentle, soft-spoken lady of Quaker upbringing has been worrying about quite another matter. She spoke about it at a small and intimate luncheon celebrating the publication of her book, as she chatted with a few friends and well-wishers. Said the aristocratic and ladylike Mrs. Chase:

"I THINK AMERICAN women look wonderful practically all of the time. But why can't somebody do something about the men?"

Having seen women through the hazards of the dust-ruffle skirt, the bustle, the flapper sack, the Empress Eugenie era, the football shoulders of World War 2, the new look and now the new new look, Mrs. Chase feels that the distaff side is well prepared to cope with fashion as it comes. But men—well!

"It does seem to me they could look more attractive," murmured Mrs. Chase wistfully. "I have observed and reported men's fashion's as well as women's for all these years, and I give you my word of honor, I could take a man's suit of 1890 from some musty closet, and it would not vary a half--inch from the things they are wearing today.

"THEY HAVE the same coat and trousers, the same shirt and collar, and always that tie that has to go straight down the middle.

'Women experiment with colors and fabrics and necklines—especially necklines. Why couldn't men wear ascots for a change, or knot their ties on the side—or do something to change the monotony of it all?"

She looked critically at the well-tailored and conservative literary editor of the New York Times, who sat at her left, and said triumphantly:

"You see, Mr. Brown, you are wearing your tie exactly the same way as every other man in the room. Your suit is brown, theirs are gray or blue—and that's the only difference. Nature didn't intend it so, you know. The males of every other species—the birds and the beasts—are the ones with the gay plumage and the handsome pelts. Only in the human race are the males the drab ones, while the females gild and glorify themselves just to attract them. It Doesn't seem fair."

"WELL, NOW that you mention it, I suppose it isn't," stammered the blushing Mr. Brown, hastily covering his tie with his hand. "But I just never happened to wear an ascot."

Mrs. Chase warmed to her subject.

"I don't mean," she said, "that I approve of those horrible sports shirts that men wear sometimes when they want to be emancipated. Or those shorts they sometimes wear in summer—their legs aren't attractive enough for those. But back in the days of George Washington and Alexander Hamilton men had real elegance. They wore satins and velvets and laces, and nobody accused them of being foppish.

"It's too bad our men of today can't go back to those handsome fashions of long ago, and live up to their womenfolk."

There was a crusading light in the eyes of Edna Woolman Chase and a prophetic note in her gently modulated voice as she smiled at the flustrated men around the luncheon table and added:

"Maybe they will."

Social Agencies Council Appoints Committee to Study Day Care Center

Appointment of a committee to continue study on a Day Care Center organization was authorized during Monday's meeting of the Council of Social Agencies at 74 John street in a panel discussion program.

Participating members were Mrs. Herbert Shultz, moderator and acting president of the group, Mrs. George Dingee, president of the Fair Street Nursery; Miss Elma Kullmann of the Welfare Department, Clarence Rowland, manager of Fuller Shirt Factory, Mrs. Dorothy Narel, women's program director of WKNY and TV and guest panelist, Miss Mary Collins, consultant in Child Care, Catholic Charities, Diocese of New York.

Each panelist presented a different phase of the topic and the problems involved.

A DAY CARE CENTER is a welfare program functioning under state regulations by providing a full day program for pre-school children of working parents. Admission is predicated on the requirement that parents' income must be below a certain minimum amount. Nursery School is distinct from a Day Care Center in its hours, being a half day program, its function and management.

The establishment of a Center, it was pointed out by Mr. Rowland, would increase the purchasing power of a community by making it possible for both parents of a family to work if so necessary. From a survey he has made, such a center could be utilized and in his opinion, industry would be willing to take part in the organization and subsidization of such a project.

Mrs. Narel discussed her contact with the need for such a Center and the parents' viewpoint.

IF ACTION is to be taken, the first step would likely be a survey made of the need. Then if results show a Day Care Center essential, it should be made a community project with representative agencies participating in all phases of its organization.

It was brought to the attention of the Council that a future meeting should be reserved to study the problem of acquiring an adequate staff to assist Edmund Burhans in the probation department of Ulster county. A committee was appointed to investigate this question.

Story of Kingston Burning by British Told at Chapter Day

Chapter Day was celebrated by Wiltwyck Chapter, DAR, Saturday to commemorate the burning of Kingston by the British on that date 177 years ago.

After the pledge of allegiance and the singing of the National Anthem, Mrs. Raymond R. Gross, regent, told the story. She said the soldiers were encamped on what is now the City Hall grounds, watching for the British who they knew had landed at Kingston Point.

She said a Negro led the soldiers through the lowlands toward the upper part of Wiltwyck. At the Senate House a tea was being held and as the British marched, the sun shone on their gold buttoned red uniforms. Because of this reflection, Mrs. Gross said, the people saw them and fled in panic to Hurley and other out-lying districts and the town was burned with but one building saved, now the residence of Dr. and Mrs. Bibby.

THE REGENT then welcomed the guests and spoke of the fact that Mrs. William A. Frey has been a member of Wiltwyck Chapter for 61 years.

Mrs. C. Franklin Pierce, music chairman, introduced Miss Margaret Danford, a member of the high school choir, who sang old English songs popular in Washington's time. Miss Danford, who was dressed in Colonial costume, also sang Clouds by Ernest Charles.

Tea was served in the dining room with Mrs. William Ochs presiding at the tea table. The entertainment committee acted as hostesses.

In November, a luncheon will be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel preceding the regular meeting.

Moehle, supervising principal of the district.

The annual convention of the New York State School Boards Association will play host to approximately 3,500 school officials including school administrators, board members, school attorneys and clerks.

Mr. Gordon, who is president of the board of education, will act as an usher at the opening session of the conference.

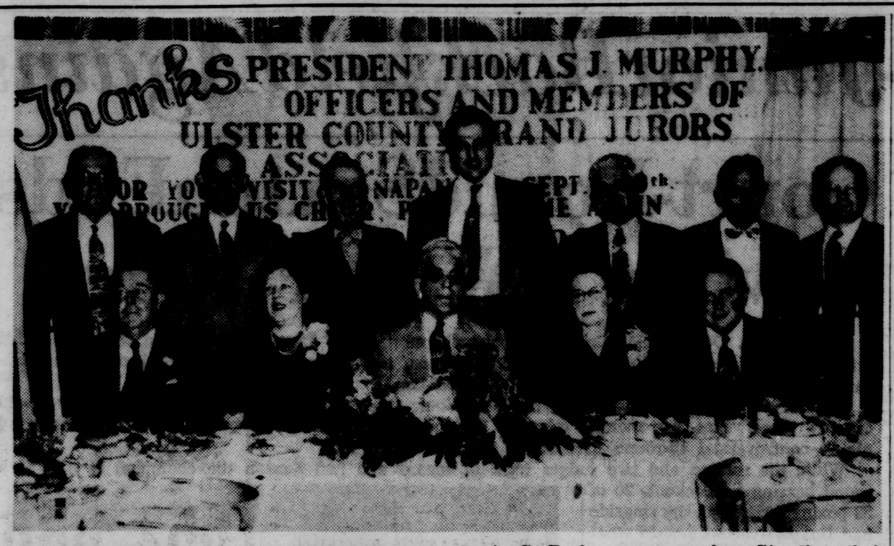
Two Persons Injured In Two-Car Mishap

Two persons with injuries resulting from a two-car collision at Broadway and East Chestnut street were treated at Benedictine Hospital early yesterday afternoon and discharged.

They were Josephine Bujack, 28, of 75 Third avenue, who suffered contusions of the head, and Lawrence Bujack, 3, with contusions of the head and chest.

Police said Michael Muzzucca, 29, of 32 Broadway, driving north on Broadway at 1:30 p. m., stopped his 1954 sedan at East Chestnut street to pick up a passenger and was struck in the rear by a 1951 sedan operated by John Bujak, 23, of 75 Third avenue.

Officers McCullough and McGrane, who investigated reported the left rear fender and bumper of the Muzzucca car was damaged. There was no apparent damage to the Bujack car.



GRAND JURORS HOLD DINNER—Officers and guests of the Ulster County Grand Jurors' Association attending the annual banquet Wednesday night at the Flamingo Restaurant, Route 9W, were seated (l-r) County Judge John M. Cashin, Mrs. Raymond Schuler, chairman of the banquet committee; Thomas J. Murphy, president; Mrs. Anne M. Ashdown, secretary and Louis G. Bruhn, guest speaker. Standing (l-r) Blaine Wright, former board director of the jurors; District Attorney Howard C. St. John, Fred Baumgarten, chairman of the board of directors; John J. Schick, assistant district attorney; Chester Elliott, vice-president; Edwin W. Ashby, commissioner of jurors and Arthur A. Davis, Jr., county attorney. (Freeman Photo)

Start of Jurors Outlined During Annual Banquet

Recalling that the first grand jury in the state of New York received its charge from Justice Jay in Kingston on September 9, 1777, Louis G. Bruhn, former district attorney of Ulster county, called upon members of the Ulster County Grand Jurors' Association to continue to follow the heritage.

Bruhn made his plea during the annual fall banquet of the jurors Wednesday night at the Flamingo restaurant, Route 9W, when he said he always referred to the jurors as the cornerstone of justice.

Interspersing a few remarks from the charge Justice Jay gave to the first grand jury in Kingston in 1777, Bruhn asked that the high principals of grand jurors continue here in Ulster county in an effort to defend the rights and the laws designed to protect all citizens.

THE FORMER district attorney also touched briefly on the ever-present problem of juvenile delinquency and quickly said that he felt the three key points in combatting this problem were the home, school and church.

Referring to his present post as a member of the Kingston Board of Education, Bruhn said the schools actually have a "big job." To discipline the children alone is vital, he pointed out. The speaker added that is is a known fact that parents are often much too want "to pass the buck," making it even more tougher for the schools and teachers to properly discipline the pupils.

He said that sometimes punishment is certainly necessary but the speaker added that he also felt that mercy in many cases also is necessary.

Bruhn summed up his brief talk on the delinquency discussion with a call for all to work in harmony and to exchange ideas.

Before Bruhn was presented to the audience by County Judge John M. Cashin, Thomas J. Murphy, president of the Grand Jurors' Association, and District Attorney Howard C. St. John, who acted as master of ceremonies, introduced various officers and guests.

AMONG THOSE seated at the speaker's table and who made brief talks included Arthur A. Davis, Jr., county attorney; Edwin W. Ashby, commissioner of jurors; Chester Elliott, New Paltz, vice-president; Fred Baumgarten, Stone Ridge, chairman of the board of directors; Mrs. Raymond Schuler, chairman of the banquet committee; Vincent G. Connelly, confidential law secretary to Justice Roscoe V. Elsworth; John J. Schick, assistant district attorney; Mrs. Anne M. Ashdown, secretary and Edmund Zeidler, treasurer.

A banner from the Institution for Male Defective Delinquents in Napanoch was formally presented to President Murphy and the jurors from Major Thomas J. Hanlon, superintendent at the institution, who also made a brief address.

HANLON SAID the banner, which was made by the inmates at Napanoch, was being given to the jurors in appreciation of their recent visit to Napanoch.

The Napanoch Institution superintendent praised the work of the jurors and said the spirt shown by the association members was, in his opinion, one of the most important issues. He said such spirit, shown by all, would go a long way in reducing juvenile delinquency. "Your visits to Napanoch bring us encouragement and does much for our boys out there," Hanlon said.

Also speaking on behalf of the institution was Col. Lloyd Wilklow, assistant superintendent.

Before introducing the guest speaker, County Judge Cashin also spoke a glowing tribute to the outstanding work going on at Napanoch.

He regarded, he said, the Napanoch Institution as one of the finest penal institutions in the state. He also called upon those jurors who have never made the annual trips to Napanoch to do so. "You will come away from there better citizens," he promised.

WORDS OF PRAISE from President Murphy for Maj. Hanlon and his staff at Napanoch concluded the program.

During the early portion of the program, jurors and their guests stood in silence in memory of the late Rev. Daniel L. Haynes, former chaplain.

The birthdays of two guests were recognized, those of Commissioner Ashby and Ward Dierfelter. Among others introduced to the assemblage were Blaine Wright of Napanoch, former board director; Justice of the Peace Percy Gazlay of the Town of Rochester and Raymond Schuler, former supervisor of the Fourth ward in Kingston.

Entertainment was provided by Jack Carter and Joe Brophy, the Cedar Rest Boys.

Leaflets Are Dropped

Taipeh, Formosa, Oct. 21 (AP)—Nationalist Chinese Air Force planes scattered anti-Communist leaflets on towns and villages along southern Fukien Province late yesterday while Reds and Nationalists exchanged artillery fire in the Amoy and Tachen island areas. A newsman returning from the Nationalist-held island of Quemoy said up to 40 rounds daily were being fired onto Nationalist islands in the area, but that little damage resulted.

Newcomers Hear Interesting Talk On Decorations

A large audience enjoyed the interesting talk, Current Trends in Interior Decoration, given by Mrs. Frank Preston at the meeting Wednesday of the Newcomers at the YWCA.

Mrs. Preston stated that there were three keynotes to the modern decoration. The first is restraint, the second, elegance and the third, new invention.

Regarding restraint, she said, one should do away with the clutter of bricabrac and center the decorating scheme around one beautiful object. Elegance is to be found in the use of colors and fabrics. New invention is exemplified in such things as panel lighting, plastic ceiling and new coatings for fabrics. In regard to the latter, the latest invention is the Sylmer Process which treats fabrics making them water repellent, resistant to abrasion and increasing the wearability.

Mrs. Preston told about this year's National Homes Furnishings Show in New York city. There were 12 rooms decorated by the I. D. A. showing the latest in furniture, flooring and lighting. A greal deal of French provincial furniture was used. An unusual flooring was made of cork with strips of aluminum forming the pattern. The colors featured were mostly in shades of pink, purple and gold taken from the color schemes of the coronation of Queen Elizabeth and this year's show, Kismet.

Mrs. Preston showed a group of beautifully hand printed fabrics samples from the famous Fortuni Company in Italy. Although all the fabrics shown were cotton they gave the appearance of rich brocade.

Before the talk 24 newcomers enjoyed a delicious luncheon prepared by members. Tea was served at the conclusion of the meeting.

Four new members were welcomed. They were Mrs. John Overduf, Mrs. Robert Miller, Mrs. John Vines and Mrs. John McDole.

Betty Cline Weds Edgar L. MacDaniel

The wedding of Miss Betty C. Cline to Edgar L. MacDaniel took place Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the First Church of the Nazarene. The Rev. E. E. Herron performed the double ring ceremony.

For the occasion the church altar was decorated with vases of white chrysanthemums.

George E. Ronk was soloist and sang the Lord's Prayer. Mrs. Bartsch, organist, accompanied him and played the traditional wedding music.

The bride was given in marriage by her foster father, Charles Joy, of Zena. She wore a strapless ballerina length wedding gown with full lace skirt and tulle inserts, laced formfitting jacket with long sleeves with catch at neck. She carried a French lace covered prayerbook with white orchid and pompons on the streamers.

Sister of the bridegroom, Miss Audrey MacDaniel, of Hurley was maid of honor. She wore a ballerina length gown of pink satin with a matching headpiece and carried yellow chrysanthemums.

David R. Stevenson of Quonset Point, Rhode Island served as best man. Both the bridegroom and best man wore their navy blue uniforms.

Serving as ushers were Ronald Wirth of Hurley and Donald Kiersted of Kingston.

Following the ceremony, a reception for approximately 35 guests was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Joy of Zena.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls, the bride wore a blue grey suit with navy accessories and a white orchid. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. MacDaniel will live in East Greenwich, Rhode Island.

The bride attended Kingston High School. The bridegroom also attended Kingston High School and now is serving in the navy.

Social Agencies Council Appoints Committee to Study Day Care Center

Appointment of a committee to continue study on a Day Care Center organization was authorized during Monday's meeting of the Council of Social Agencies at 74 John street in a panel discussion program.

Participating members were Mrs. Herbert Shultz, moderator and acting president of the group, Mrs. George Dingee, president of the Fair Street Nursery; Miss Elma Kullmann of the Welfare Department, Clarence Rowland, manager of Fuller Shirt Factory, Mrs. Dorothy Narel, women's program director of WKNY and TV and guest panelist, Miss Mary Collins, consultant in Child Care, Catholic Charities, Diocese of New York.

Each panelist presented a different phase of the topic and the problems involved.

A DAY CARE CENTER is a welfare program functioning under state regulations by providing a full day program for pre-school children of working parents. Admission is predicated on the requirement that parents' income must be below a certain minimum amount. Nursery School is distinct from a Day Care Center in its hours, being a half day program, its function and management.

The establishment of a Center, it was pointed out by Mr. Rowland, would increase the purchasing power of a community by making it possible for both parents of a family to work if so necessary. From a survey he has made, such a center could be utilized and in his opinion, industry would be willing to take part in the organization and subsidization of such a project.

Mrs. Narel discussed her contact with the need for such a Center and the parents' viewpoint.

IF ACTION is to be taken, the first step would likely be a survey made of the need. Then if results show a Day Care Center essential, it should be made a community project with representative agencies participating in all phases of its organization.

It was brought to the attention of the Council that a future meeting should be reserved to study the problem of acquiring an adequate staff to assist Edmund Burhans in the probation department of Ulster county. A committee was appointed to investigate this question.

Story of Kingston Burning by British Told at Chapter Day

Chapter Day was celebrated by Wiltwyck Chapter, DAR, Saturday to commemorate the burning of Kingston by the British on that date 177 years ago.

After the pledge of allegiance and the singing of the National Anthem, Mrs. Raymond R. Gross, regent, told the story. She said the soldiers were encamped on what is now the City Hall grounds, watching for the British who they knew had landed at Kingston Point.

She said a Negro led the soldiers through the lowlands toward the upper part of Wiltwyck. At the Senate House a tea was being held and as the British marched, the sun shone on their gold buttoned red uniforms. Because of this reflection, Mrs. Gross said, the people saw them and fled in panic to Hurley and other out-lying districts and the town was burned with but one building saved, now the residence of Dr. and Mrs. Bibby.

THE REGENT then welcomed the guests and spoke of the fact that Mrs. William A. Frey has been a member of Wiltwyck Chapter for 61 years.

Mrs. C. Franklin Pierce, music chairman, introduced Miss Margaret Danford, a member of the high school choir, who sang old English songs popular in Washington's time. Miss Danford, who was dressed in Colonial costume, also sang Clouds by Ernest Charles.

Tea was served in the dining room with Mrs. William Ochs presiding at the tea table. The entertainment committee acted as hostesses.

In November, a luncheon will be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel preceding the regular meeting.

Onteora Teachers Will Attend Syracuse Meeting

Four members of the board of education of the Onteora Central School will attend the conference of the New York State School Boards Association from Sunday, October 24 to October 26 in Syracuse. Fred D. Cure, Pine Hill; Mrs. Marie Kleine, Shady; Mrs. Edna Bishop, West Shokan and Philip Gordon, Phoenicia will make the trip to Syracuse. They will be accompanied by John H. Moehle, supervising principal of the district.

The annual convention of the New York State School Boards Association will play host to approximately 3,500 school officials including school administrators, board members, school attorneys and clerks.

Mr. Gordon, who is president of the board of education, will act as an usher at the opening session of the conference.

Two Persons Injured In Two-Car Mishap

Two persons with injuries resulting from a two-car collision at Broadway and East Chestnut street were treated at Benedictine Hospital early yesterday afternoon and discharged.

They were Josephine Bujack, 28, of 75 Third avenue, who suffered contusions of the head, and Lawrence Bujack, 3, with contusions of the head and chest.

Police said Michael Muzzucca, 29, of 32 Broadway, driving north on Broadway at 1:30 p. m., stopped his 1954 sedan at East Chestnut street to pick up a passenger and was struck in the rear by a 1951 sedan operated by John Bujak, 23, of 75 Third avenue.

Officers McCullough and McGrane, who investigated reported the left rear fender and bumper of the Muzzucca car was damaged. There was no apparent damage to the Bujack car.

GRAND JURORS HOLD DINNER—Officers and guests of the Ulster County Grand Jurors' Association attending the annual banquet Wednesday night at the Flamingo Restaurant, Route 9W, were seated (l-r) County Judge John M. Cashin, Mrs. Raymond Schuler, chairman of the banquet committee; Thomas J. Murphy, president; Mrs. Anne M. Ashdown, secretary and Louis G. Bruhn, guest speaker. Standing (l-r) Blaine Wright, former board director of the jurors; District Attorney Howard C. St. John, Fred Baumgarten, chairman of the board of directors; John J. Schick, assistant district attorney; Chester Elliott, vice-president; Edwin W. Ashby, commissioner of jurors and Arthur A. Davis, Jr., county attorney. (Freeman Photo)

Start of Jurors Outlined During Annual Banquet

Recalling that the first grand jury in the state of New York received its charge from Justice Jay in Kingston on September 9, 1777, Louis G. Bruhn, former district attorney of Ulster county, called upon members of the Ulster County Grand Jurors' Association to continue to follow the heritage.

Bruhn made his plea during the annual fall banquet of the jurors Wednesday night at the Flamingo restaurant, Route 9W, when he said he always referred to the jurors as the cornerstone of justice.

Interspersing a few remarks from the charge Justice Jay gave to the first grand jury in Kingston in 1777, Bruhn asked that the high principals of grand jurors continue here in Ulster county in an effort to defend the rights and the laws designed to protect all citizens.

THE FORMER district attorney also touched briefly on the ever-present problem of juvenile delinquency and quickly said that he felt the three key points in combatting this problem were the home, school and church.

Referring to his present post as a member of the Kingston Board of Education, Bruhn said the schools actually have a "big job." To discipline the children alone is vital, he pointed out. The speaker added that is is a known fact that parents are often much too want "to pass the buck," making it even more tougher for the schools and teachers to properly discipline the pupils.

He said that sometimes punishment is certainly necessary but the speaker added that he also felt that mercy in many cases also is necessary.

Bruhn summed up his brief talk on the delinquency discussion with a call for all to work in harmony and to exchange ideas.

Before Bruhn was presented to the audience by County Judge John M. Cashin, Thomas J. Murphy, president of the Grand Jurors' Association, and District Attorney Howard C. St. John, who acted as master of ceremonies, introduced various officers and guests.

AMONG THOSE seated at the speaker's table and who made brief talks included Arthur A. Davis, Jr., county attorney; Edwin W. Ashby, commissioner of jurors; Chester Elliott, New Paltz, vice-president; Fred Baumgarten, Stone Ridge, chairman of the board of directors; Mrs. Raymond Schuler, chairman of the banquet committee; Vincent G. Connelly, confidential law secretary to Justice Roscoe V. Elsworth; John J. Schick, assistant district attorney; Mrs. Anne M. Ashdown, secretary and Edmund Zeidler, treasurer.

A banner from the Institution for Male Defective Delinquents in Napanoch was formally presented to President Murphy and the jurors from Major Thomas J. Hanlon, superintendent at the institution, who also made a brief address.

HANLON SAID the banner, which was made by the inmates at Napanoch, was being given to the jurors in appreciation of their recent visit to Napanoch.

The Napanoch Institution superintendent praised the work of the jurors and said the spirt shown by the association members was, in his opinion, one of the most important issues. He said such spirit, shown by all, would go a long way in reducing juvenile delinquency. "Your visits to Napanoch bring us encouragement and does much for our boys out there," Hanlon said.

Also speaking on behalf of the institution was Col. Lloyd Wilklow, assistant superintendent.

Before introducing the guest speaker, County Judge Cashin also spoke a glowing tribute to the outstanding work going on at Napanoch.

He regarded, he said, the Napanoch Institution as one of the finest penal institutions in the state. He also called upon those jurors who have never made the annual trips to Napanoch to do so. "You will come away from there better citizens," he promised.

WORDS OF PRAISE from President Murphy for Maj. Hanlon and his staff at Napanoch concluded the program.

During the early portion of the program, jurors and their guests stood in silence in memory of the late Rev. Daniel L. Haynes, former chaplain.

The birthdays of two guests were recognized, those of Commissioner Ashby and Ward Dierfelter. Among others introduced to the assemblage were Blaine Wright of Napanoch, former board director; Justice of the Peace Percy Gazlay of the Town of Rochester and Raymond Schuler, former supervisor of the Fourth ward in Kingston.

Entertainment was provided by Jack Carter and Joe Brophy, the Cedar Rest Boys.

Members of the banquet committee included Mrs. Schuler, chairman; Mrs. Ashdown, Chester Elliott, Edmund Zeidler and Ward Dierfelter.

Leaflets Are Dropped

Taipeh, Formosa, Oct. 21 (AP)—Nationalist Chinese Air Force planes scattered anti-Communist leaflets on towns and villages along southern Fukien Province late yesterday while Reds and Nationalists exchanged artillery fire in the Amoy and Tachen island areas. A newsman returning from the Nationalist-held island of Quemoy said up to 40 rounds daily were being fired onto Nationalist islands in the area, but that little damage resulted.

Newcomers Hear Interesting Talk On Decorations

A large audience enjoyed the interesting talk, Current Trends in Interior Decoration, given by Mrs. Frank Preston at the meeting Wednesday of the Newcomers at the YWCA.

Mrs. Preston stated that there were three keynotes to the modern decoration. The first is restraint, the second, elegance and the third, new invention.

Regarding restraint, she said, one should do away with the clutter of bricabrac and center the decorating scheme around one beautiful object. Elegance is to be found in the use of colors and fabrics. New invention is exemplified in such things as panel lighting, plastic ceiling and new coatings for fabrics. In regard to the latter, the latest invention is the Sylmer Process which treats fabrics making them water repellent, resistant to abrasion and increasing the wearability.

Mrs. Preston told about this year's National Homes Furnishings Show in New York city. There were 12 rooms decorated by the I. D. A. showing the latest in furniture, flooring and lighting. A greal deal of French provincial furniture was used. An unusual flooring was made of cork with strips of aluminum forming the pattern. The colors featured were mostly in shades of pink, purple and gold taken from the color schemes of the coronation of Queen Elizabeth and this year's show, Kismet.

Mrs. Preston showed a group of beautifully hand printed fabrics samples from the famous Fortuni Company in Italy. Although all the fabrics shown were cotton they gave the appearance of rich brocade.

Before the talk 24 newcomers enjoyed a delicious luncheon prepared by members. Tea was served at the conclusion of the meeting.

Four new members were welcomed. They were Mrs. John Overduf, Mrs. Robert Miller, Mrs. John Vines and Mrs. John McDole.

The next meeting will be held November 2 at the TB offices on John street.

She carried a French lace covered prayerbook with white orchid and pompons on the streamers.

Sister of the bridegroom, Miss Audrey MacDaniel, of Hurley was maid of honor. She wore a ballerina length gown of pink satin with a matching headpiece and carried yellow chrysanthemums.

David R. Stevenson of Quonset Point, Rhode Island served as best man. Both the bridegroom and best man wore their navy blue uniforms.

Valley Stream Sends All-Junior Backfield Against KHS Saturday

Islanders Have Won Two, Tied One This Season

The Streamers of Valley Stream's Central High will send a predominantly Junior squad against Kingston Saturday at Dietz Stadium.

The entire Blue and White backfield is made up of juniors and three of Coach Don Holsapple's seven linemen still have another year to play.

Valley Stream, making its first appearance in Kingston in several years, comes to town geared for a real squeaker.

THE STREAMERS have played three tight ball games to date, winning two by the margin of an extra point. They opened the season with a 13-12 win over Baldwin and then tripped Glen Cove, 7-6. Last Saturday they played a 14-14 tie with Hempstead.

Last year, Kingston shaded the Streamers, 7 to 6, at Valley Stream, proving that no matter the season, the Streamers like them close.

GARRY DRUHL, a junior, is pivot man and is flanked on his right by Fred Schult, junior, Andy Ragona, tackle, senior; and Mel Meyer, junior end.

Coach Holsapple said Kingston's 19-18 loss to the tough Curtis High automatically made the Maroons the favorites for Saturday's test.

"Down here we have high regard for Curtis and Jim Pietractella," said Coach Holsapple. "If you lost to them by only one point, you have to be stronger than we are."

Coach Bill Burke doesn't believe a word of it.

ACTION AGAINST UNIVERSITIES—Walter Byers, left, executive director of the NCAA and Dean A. B. Moore, of the University of Alabama and president of the NCAA executive council, are shown in New Orleans, Wednesday, as they read a statement by the council placing City Collleeg of New York and the University of Miami (Fla.) on probation. The schools were ruled against for alleged violations of NCAA regulations at the council meeting in New Orleans. (AP Wirephoto).

NCAA Rules Miami Out Of Tourneys

New Orleans, Oct. 21 (AP)—The ambitious University of Miami (Fla.) rising to national football prominence in the past few years, today faced the possibility of going through the season undefeated and sitting out New Year's Day without an invitation to a bowl game.

The National Collegiate Athletic Assn. handed Miami and City College of New York one-year probations yesterday for alleged infractions of NCAA regulations.

The 18-member executive council also reprimanded the University of Portland (Ore.) and Western Illinois State College at Macomb for reported violations of other NCAA rules.

The committee on rules infractions reported Portland violated NCAA regulations by conducting tryouts for 11 prospective basketball players last April while Western Illinois State participated in the Corn Bowl football game at Bloomington, Ill., last Nov. 26. The Corn Bowl is not recognized by the NCAA.

THE COUNCIL also announced at its final session that Michigan State College, placed on probation in August, 1953, for conducting football tryouts, had been restored to all "rights and privileges of an NCAA member."

The probationary period handed CCNY bans the New York school's basketball team from playing in the NCAA national championship tournament at Kansas City in 1955. The council's move was the first action taken against CCNY since the school's basketball scandals of 1950 resulted in a complete overhauling of the college's athletic setup.

The council's report said that the "high school records of 14 or more athletes admitted to City College of New York during the years 1945 to 1951 were sufficiently and fraudulently changed to establish eligibility for admission to the college."

The ruling affects only CCNY's basketball team with respect to NCAA-sponsored or approved tournaments or post-season events.

ALL OF MIAMI'S teams, on the other hand, are barred from competing in any NCAA-approved post-season game or tournament. Miami had been regarded as a likely Sugar Bowl team.

President Buell G. Gallagher of CCNY said the school no longer plays "big time" basketball and is hardly a candidate for the 1955 NCAA tournament. He said he thought the NCAA's action "is presumably a routine matter and therefore no surprise."

Dr. Jay W. Pearson, president of the University of Miami, said the university "had been partly ignorant of the rules, but now we will attempt to live up to the spirit as well as the letter of the rules."

Fight's Last Night

(By The Associated Press)

Philadelphia—Johnny Saxton, 146¼, New York, outpointed Kid Gavilan, 145½, Havana, 15. (For world's welterweight title)

Sao Paulo, Brazil — Eduardo Lausse, 161, Argentina, knocked out Nelson Andrade, 166, Rio de Janeiro, 9.

Court-Bound Saxton Ends Gavilan's Welter Reign

Philadelphia, Oct. 21 (AP)—Cries of "robbers" and "jobbed" from hysterical Kid Gavilan and his brain trust still rent the air today as Johnny Saxton, newly crowned welterweight champion, prepared to celebrate his enthronement in New York traffic court—and maybe, in jail.

Saxton, a 24-year-old graduate of the New York Golden Gloves ranks, ended the 28-year-old Cuban's three years, five months reign as 147-pound king last night when he won a unanimous and highly controversial 15-round decision in Convention Hall.

While the referee and two judges were in accord and had Saxton the champion by the 12th round barring a knockout, 20 of 22 boxing writers at the ringside had Gavilan the winner in what had to be the worst fight of his career.

GAVILAN, alternately crying and screaming and alternately retiring and unretiring, sobbed after the fight:

"People don't talk for nothing. I know from the first round on tha I cannot win. The referee he gives Saxton everything his way. I, no want to fight no more. I give my left hand—a give my right hand to the Pennsylvania commission. Everything steenk."

"The Keed he is robbed," screamed his manager Angel Lopez. "The Keed he is jobbed. I know he have to win big but after he take last three rounds I figure for sure they must give him the decision. I say to the Keed 'they cannot take it away from you.' I am wrong. I give you the Pennsylvania commission. They can take the championship and keep it."

"IT WAS A LOUSY, stinking fight," said chairman Frank Wiener of the Pennsylvania Athletic Commission. "If Gavilan fought like I've seen him in the past, Saxton wouldn't have won."

He made that statement to Frank (Blinky) Palermo, manager of the champion, and Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club in the Saxton's dressing room.

Later, Wiener said "if Gavilin's handlers are still crying robbers, crooks and fix after they have had time to cool off, it will cost them. Both Gavilan and Saxton stunk out the house. Let Saxton take his title to Syracuse and fight (Carmen) Basilio, and let Gavilan fight anywhere but in Philadelphia."

There was more action and confusion in Gavilan's dressing room where a fist fight, among other things, occurred than there was in the "fight."

Wiener frowns on return bout contracts and there was none recorded with the commission. However Lopez, in between saying the Keed was through fighting and then maybe not, insisted he had an iron-clad contract for a return bout in New York city within 90 days. Palermo, who had told reporters that Lopez was correct, reversed his field. He said Saxton might face Basilio, the No. 1 contender. First, with the winner to meet Gavilan. Then he said it's up to Norris.

NORRIS SAID "we'll see what happens. I think Gavilan should fight as a middleweight."

Meanwhile, Saxton, bewildered but happy, said "I fought the fight like I planned—to win. I had him puzzled."

The solidly built negro youngster said he would show up in New York's traffic court today where he is scheduled to be sent off to serve 15 days as a traffic "scofflaw" for 12 traffic violations. He voiced hope for a suspended sentence.

What Wiener said about the dull, listless, clinch filled fiasco undoubtedly goes double for the innocent 7,909 fans who shelled out $57,121. The customers booed through most of the inactivity.

THIS OBSERVER had Gavilan in front, 8-4-3. The officials voted for Saxton this way: Referee Pete Pantaleo, 9-6; Judge Jimmy Mina, 7-6-2, and Judge Nat Lobinson, 8-6-1. They all gave Gavilan the last three rounds.

When they didn't pose and wait for the other to lead, the boxers huffed and puffed at close range. The referee warned Gavilan once to stop holding and Wiener once ran to Saxton's corner to tell Palermo to tell his charge to cut out the grabbing.

There were no knockdowns, naturally, and few solid blows were landed. Saxton raked the Kid occasionally with left-right combinations to the head and body. Gavilan in the last three rounds opened up with his flashy flurries, especially in the last minute of the final round when he chased Saxton all over the ring.

Weighing 145½, the lowest he had scaled since Aug. 29, 1951, when he beat Billy Graham in his first of seven successful title defenses, the Keed lacked flash and power. Saxton weighted 146¼.

Les Bingaman, Detroit Lions guard, now weighs 349 pounds. He weighed 245 pounds when he was a high school freshman in Gary, Ind.

Ex-Leaf Paces Rangers to Win

(By The Associated Press)

The new-look New York Rangers have uncovered a promising scoring threat in Danny Lewicki, a 23-year-old left-wing who couldn't make the grade with the Toronto Maple Leafs.

Lewicki spent most of the 1950-51 and 1951-52 seasons with the Leafs, but was shuttled back to the minors the past two campaigns. The Toronto management finally gave up on the youngster and peddled him to the New Yorkers last summer for an estimated $17,500.

So far it's been a profitable investment for the Rangers. Lewicki, who scored the deciding goals in the Rangers' first two victories over Chicago and Toronto, continued his sparkling play last night. The flashy newcomer registered a pair of goals as the New Yorkers turned back the Boston Bruins 6-2 in their home inaugural.

The victory boosted the Rangers into undisputed possession of third place. It also marked the first time they have gone over .500 in the won-lost standings since March 12, 1950.

There are 50 players on the North Carolina State College football roster. Only 14 hail from that state.

Valley Stream Sends All-Junior Backfield Against KHS Saturday

Islanders Have Won Two, Tied One This Season

The Streamers of Valley Stream's Central High will send a predominantly Junior squad against Kingston Saturday at Dietz Stadium.

The entire Blue and White backfield is made up of juniors and three of Coach Don Holsapple's seven linemen still have another year to play.

Valley Stream, making its first appearance in Kingston in several years, comes to town geared for a real squeaker.

THE STREAMERS have played three tight ball games to date, winning two by the margin of an extra point. They opened the season with a 13-12 win over Baldwin and then tripped Glen Cove, 7-6. Last Saturday they played a 14-14 tie with Hempstead.

Last year, Kingston shaded the Streamers, 7 to 6, at Valley Stream, proving that no matter the season, the Streamers like them close.

GARRY DRUHL, a junior, is pivot man and is flanked on his right by Fred Schult, junior, Andy Ragona, tackle, senior; and Mel Meyer, junior end.

Coach Holsapple said Kingston's 19-18 loss to the tough Curtis High automatically made the Maroons the favorites for Saturday's test.

"Down here we have high regard for Curtis and Jim Pietractella," said Coach Holsapple. "If you lost to them by only one point, you have to be stronger than we are."

Coach Bill Burke doesn't believe a word of it.

ACTION AGAINST UNIVERSITIES—Walter Byers, left, executive director of the NCAA and Dean A. B. Moore, of the University of Alabama and president of the NCAA executive council, are shown in New Orleans, Wednesday, as they read a statement by the council placing City Collleeg of New York and the University of Miami (Fla.) on probation. The schools were ruled against for alleged violations of NCAA regulations at the council meeting in New Orleans. (AP Wirephoto).

NCAA Rules Miami Out Of Tourneys

New Orleans, Oct. 21 (AP)—The ambitious University of Miami (Fla.) rising to national football prominence in the past few years, today faced the possibility of going through the season undefeated and sitting out New Year's Day without an invitation to a bowl game.

The National Collegiate Athletic Assn. handed Miami and City College of New York one-year probations yesterday for alleged infractions of NCAA regulations.

The 18-member executive council also reprimanded the University of Portland (Ore.) and Western Illinois State College at Macomb for reported violations of other NCAA rules.

The committee on rules infractions reported Portland violated NCAA regulations by conducting tryouts for 11 prospective basketball players last April while Western Illinois State participated in the Corn Bowl football game at Bloomington, Ill., last Nov. 26. The Corn Bowl is not recognized by the NCAA.

THE COUNCIL also announced at its final session that Michigan State College, placed on probation in August, 1953, for conducting football tryouts, had been restored to all "rights and privileges of an NCAA member."

The probationary period handed CCNY bans the New York school's basketball team from playing in the NCAA national championship tournament at Kansas City in 1955. The council's move was the first action taken against CCNY since the school's basketball scandals of 1950 resulted in a complete overhauling of the college's athletic setup.

The council's report said that the "high school records of 14 or more athletes admitted to City College of New York during the years 1945 to 1951 were sufficiently and fraudulently changed to establish eligibility for admission to the college."

The ruling affects only CCNY's basketball team with respect to NCAA-sponsored or approved tournaments or post-season events.

ALL OF MIAMI'S teams, on the other hand, are barred from competing in any NCAA-approved post-season game or tournament. Miami had been regarded as a likely Sugar Bowl team.

President Buell G. Gallagher of CCNY said the school no longer plays "big time" basketball and is hardly a candidate for the 1955 NCAA tournament. He said he thought the NCAA's action "is presumably a routine matter and therefore no surprise."

Dr. Jay W. Pearson, president of the University of Miami, said the university "had been partly ignorant of the rules, but now we will attempt to live up to the spirit as well as the letter of the rules."

Court-Bound Saxton Ends Gavilan's Welter Reign

Philadelphia, Oct. 21 (AP)—Cries of "robbers" and "jobbed" from hysterical Kid Gavilan and his brain trust still rent the air today as Johnny Saxton, newly crowned welterweight champion, prepared to celebrate his enthronement in New York traffic court—and maybe, in jail.

Saxton, a 24-year-old graduate of the New York Golden Gloves ranks, ended the 28-year-old Cuban's three years, five months reign as 147-pound king last night when he won a unanimous and highly controversial 15-round decision in Convention Hall.

While the referee and two judges were in accord and had Saxton the champion by the 12th round barring a knockout, 20 of 22 boxing writers at the ringside had Gavilan the winner in what had to be the worst fight of his career.

GAVILAN, alternately crying and screaming and alternately retiring and unretiring, sobbed after the fight:

"People don't talk for nothing. I know from the first round on tha I cannot win. The referee he gives Saxton everything his way. I no want to fight no more. I give my left hand—a give my right hand to the Pennsylvania commission. Everything steenk."

"The Keed he is robbed," screamed his manager Angel Lopez. "The Keed he is jobbed. I know he have to win big but after he take last three rounds I figure for sure they must give him the decision. I say to the Keed 'they cannot take it away from you.' I am wrong. I give you the Pennsylvania commission. They can take the championship and keep it."

"IT WAS A LOUSY, stinking fight," said chairman Frank Wiener of the Pennsylvania Athletic Commission. "If Gavilan fought like I've seen him in the past, Saxton wouldn't have won."

He made that statement to Frank (Blinky) Palermo, manager of the champion, and Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club in the Saxton's dressing room.

Later, Wiener said "if Gavilin's handlers are still crying robbers, crooks and fix after they have had time to cool off, it will cost them. Both Gavilan and Saxton stunk out the house. Let Saxton take his title to Syracuse and fight (Carmen) Basilio, and let Gavilan fight anywhere but in Philadelphia."

There was more action and confusion in Gavilan's dressing room where a fist fight, among other things, occurred than there was in the "fight."

Wiener frowns on return bout contracts and there was none recorded with the commission. However, Lopez, in between saying the Keed was through fighting and then maybe not, insisted he had an iron-clad contract for a return bout in New York city within 90 days. Palermo, who had told reporters that Lopez was correct, reversed his field. He said Saxton might face Basilio, the No. 1 contender. First, with the winner to meet Gavilan. Then he said it's up to Norris.

NORRIS SAID "we'll see what happens. I think Gavilan should fight as a middleweight."

Meanwhile, Saxton, bewildered but happy, said "I fought the fight like I planned—to win. I had him puzzled."

The solidly built negro youngster said he would show up in New York's traffic court today where he is scheduled to be sent off to serve 15 days as a traffic "scofflaw" for 12 traffic violations. He voiced hope for a suspended sentence.

What Wiener said about the dull, listless, clinch filled fiasco undoubtedly goes double for the innocent 7,909 fans who shelled out $57,121. The customers booed through most of the inactivity.

THIS OBSERVER had Gavilan in front, 8-4-3. The officials voted for Saxton this way: Referee Pete Pantaleo, 9-6; Judge Jimmy Mina, 7-6-2, and Judge Nat Lopinson, 8-6-1. They all gave Gavilan the last three rounds.

When they didn't pose and wait for the other to lead, the boxers huffed and puffed at close range. The referee warned Gavilan once to stop holding and Wiener once ran to Saxton's corner to tell Palermo to tell his charge to cut out the grabbing.

There were no knockdowns, naturally, and few solid blows were landed. Saxton raked the Kid occasionally with left-right combinations to the head and body. Gavilan in the last three rounds opened up with his flashy flurries, especially in the last minute of the final round when he chased Saxton all over the ring.

Weighing 145½, the lowest he had scaled since Aug. 29, 1951, when he beat Billy Graham in his first of seven successful title defenses, the Keed lacked flash and power. Saxton weighted 146¼.

Ex-Leaf Paces Rangers to Win

(By The Associated Press)

The new-look New York Rangers have uncovered a promising scoring threat in Danny Lewicki, a 23-year-old left-wing who couldn't make the grade with the Toronto Maple Leafs.

Lewicki spent most of the 1950-51 and 1951-52 seasons with the Leafs, but was shuttled back to the minors the past two campaigns. The Toronto management finally gave up on the youngster and peddled him to the New Yorkers last summer for an estimated $17,500.

So far it's been a profitable investment for the Rangers. Lewicki, who scored the deciding goals in the Rangers' first two victories over Chicago and Toronto, continued his sparkling play last night. The flashy newcomer registered a pair of goals as the New Yorkers turned back the Boston Bruins 6-2 in their home inaugural.

The victory boosted the Rangers into undisputed possession of third place. It also marked the first time they have gone over .500 in the won-lost standings since March 12, 1950.

There are 50 players on the North Carolina State College football roster. Only 14 hail from that state.

Whitey Lockman, Giants' first baseman, made 40 putouts in the World Series. He played errorless ball.

BOWLING SCORES

Ken Joseph rallied for scores of 245 and 213 to finish with a gaudy 646 to pace the Central Rec Major League wheel Wednesday night and both scores stood up as the best of the night in local tenpin circles.

Joseph's blast was one of three 600's manufactured at the Central Recs.

Bob Petersen was runnerup with a neat 237-202 for 630 while veteran Freddie Rice piled up 222-200 for 620.

Giving Hornbeck a real battle for runnerup honors last night on a city-wide basis was Rita LaRocca who fired a flat 570 on sticks of 193-173-204 in the Friendship. Eleanor Singer's 206 was high for the league.

Despite his team's setback at the hands of the Black Tops, Bob Faurote emerged as the No. 1 scorer in Wednesday's triple-header basketball show at the YMCA as he bucketed 29 points for the J & E Milk Bar quintet.

Faurote fired in 12 fields and added five charity stripe throws. The Black Tops took the decision on a 10-point edge, 63 to 53.

JOE MARKLE of the Black Tops was runnerup with 23 points while Rick Nagele added 10.

Skip Broadhead and Tom Fleming each totaled 16 points as Lou's Machine Shop took a 61 to 57 squeaker from Harry's Angels. Ray Lawrence had 11 and Bob Maines 12 for the winners. Johnny Godwin sliced the cords for 17, Champ Holstein 16 and Bob Scheffel 12 for the Angels.

In the other contest, Back's Cedaraps tripped the Profs by 66 to 44. Huyler Van Wagenen, the high-scoring forward, dumped in 18 for the winners while Dick Chatham added 13 and Jerry Kaplan 14. Frank Secreto and Harry LaForge were high for the losers with 11 and 10 in that order.

Campy's Future Still Uncertain After Operation

New York, Oct. 21 (AP)—Whether an able bodied Roy Campanella will be behind the plate for the Brooklyn Dodgers next season won't be known for another four or six weeks.

It will be that long before doctors can test the results of the second operation on the veteran catcher's left hand in six months.

Following the four-hour operation yesterday it was announced there was an "excellent chance"—but no out-and-out guarantee—Campy's mitt would return to normal.

Dr. Samuel Schenkman, a neuro-surgeon who performed the operation, and Dr. Lyndon Hill, who assisted, offered the preliminary appraisal of the operation, but added: "No more will be known for from four to six weeks, when further tests will be made."

Twink won the first running of the Spalding Lowe Jenkins Stakes for juveniles at Laurel in 1928.

A's Syndicate Sweats It Out

Chicago, Oct. 21 (AP)—The stock-buying syndicate of the Philadelphia Athletics, sweating out word of an American League blessing that would make their deal official to keep the club in Philadelphia, today was threatened with a big damage suit by Arnold Johnson.

The Chicago industrialist declared he felt "wronged by the Philadelphia group who so suddenly appeared on the scene," and has placed the matter in the hands of a Philadelphia law firm to study the advisability of filing suit.

Four Indicted In Burke Case

Boston, Oct. 21 (AP)—Suffolk County Sheriff Frederick R. Sullivan, 49, was under indictment today on a charge of negligence in the escape from jail of Elmer "Trigger" Burke, New York hoodlum who is wanted for at least one slaying.

A Suffolk county grand jury yesterday indicted Sullivan; his chief deput, William J. McMorrow, and John J. Donovan and Brainerd F. Hughes, assistant chief officers at the Suffolk county jail.

Donovan and Hughes also were indicted on charges of "aiding and assisting" in the escape of Burke, who was awaiting trial for possessing a machine gun.

Sullivan protested his innocence and announced through counsel that he would continue in his duties as sheriff.

Dist. Atty. Garrett H. Byrne said after the indictments: "This is only one phase of the investigation. The grand jury is continuing the probe."

Shoemaker Hits 2,000

San Bruno, Cal., Oct. 21 (AP)—Willie Shoemaker, the 100-pound Texas sphinx of the thoroughbred tracks, has cracked the charmed circle of jockeys who have ridden 2,000 or more winners.

Silent Shoe brought home the last three yesterday at Tanforan after a meteoric 5½ year career in which he has averaged slightly more than 360 winners a year.

No. 2,000 was Florence House in the sixth at Tanforan.

"I didn't know it was the 2,000th until I saw all those people," Shoemaker told an associate. And that's all he told anybody. The rest of the program he rode more horses. Then he went home.

SHOEMAKER IS the 10th rider now active on the American turf to reach the 2,000 winner mark.

Other riders in the 2,000 club are Johnny Longden, who has been riding for 28 years and has more than 4,400 winners; Eddie Arcaro, Ted Atkinson, Johnny Adams, Ralph Neves, Steve Brooks, Jack Westrope, Fernando Fernandez, and Jimmy Stout.

The youngegst of the lot, Atkinson and Brooks, have been riding for 17 years.

Pact Is Ratified

Tehran, Iran, Oct. 21 (AP)—The Iranian Majlis (Lower House of Parliament) today ratified the new oil pact aimed at getting Iran's multi-million dollar petroleum industry back in operation. The vote was 113-5, with two abstentions. The final draft of the agreement, which gives a consortium of eight foreign countries the job of developing the nation's oil resources, was initialed Aug. 31. The measure now goes to the Senate where passage within 10 days virtually is asssured. The Shah must add his signature after the Senate approves the pact.

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By WARREN PAGE
(Shooting Editor)

We make a big hullabaloo about duck shooting in this country. Every year several million duck stamps are sold. Ducks Unlimited collects in the U. S. and spends in Canada several fat fortunes to make duck breeding marshes.

Armies of duck-shooting gents rise up to scream frustrations when the shooting seasons aren't tailored to their liking or to shout hallelujah when the word comes of a fine hatching season up north. Nowhere else in the world are so many sportsmen so concerned over paddle-footed birds.

But the ducks we have aren't a patch on the tremendous concentrations that occur elsewhere on this globe—and some of them in what would seem to be the most unlikely places.

IT'S REASONABLE enough that down on the wind-torn flats of Tierra Del Fuego on South America's tip, or in the grain fields just north of those barren lands, waterfowl, mostly geese, would show in tremendous numbers. There wing clouds are so big that even Van Campen Heilner, who has probably chased duck and geese to more odd corners of this earth than any other man living, was open-mouthed at the flights.

And any thoughtful man would realize that the sub-Arctic areas of Europe and Russia must raise thousands of birds just as do our Canadian tundras and northern marshes.

But who would expect ducks in the desert, in the land where the camel is a work animal, not a zoo curiosity?

They're there in eye-popping multitudes. Take Iraq, for example. That land, once called the Garden of Eden for good reason, contains many square miles of desert, true, but it also holds the two mighty rivers that presumably cradled civilization, the Tigres and Euphrates.

IN THEIR COURSE to Basra and the Indian Ocean they wander down a flat flood plain, once largely the floor of the Persian Gulf, and have formed huge marshes, to be measured not in acres or even square miles but in hundreds of square miles.

And those marshes are the winter hangout for untold millions of assorted ducks—some of them our familiar mallards and pintails, some odd species that never fall to an American sportsman's gun—and equal numbers of European or gray lag geese. This is country where guns fired at waterfowl can sizzle flat-iron hot in an hour's shoot, where it's a bad day if a party of four doesn't bag two, three, or even 400 birds.

I've never seen those marshes when the big flights are in, but it must be a sight to give even the most hard-bitten duckshooter pause.

Yonkers, Oct. 21 (AP)—Katie Key, the nation's leading trotting mare, tries again tonight to regain winning form in the $29,375 Gotham Trot at Yonkers Raceway, in competition with seven rivals. Katie Key, paired with stablemate Gene Mac, is expected to be the 2-1 choice in the mile and one-half. Both are owned by Pat Tuccio, Riverhead. Lord Steward, owned by Ralph Kroening, Milwaukee, is second choice at 3-1. Third choice at 7-2 is Faber Hanover from the Farmstead Acres, Hicksville. Lord Steward is the third highest money winning trotter with earnings of $213,199.

Coach Sam Kalloch received some good and bad news at Poughkeepsie this week. The glad tidings was a report by the architect of the new Forbus street-College avenue high school that grading would start on the new football diamond this fall. Kalloch said he hoped the Blues would transfer from Butts Memorial Field to the new layout next fall.

The ominous news was that Charlie Johnson, the flashy halfback, might miss the remainder of the football season. In which case, Sam and the Blue rooters would be more than satisfied that Poughkeepsie's 1954 football calendar lists only five games.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Those two brilliant Schenectady high school football powerhouses—Mont Pleasant and Nott Terrace—clash in the game of the century on Election Day. Both crushed Newburgh Academy and Al DeSantis, Schenectady sports ed, reports the game has stirred up more interest than any sports event of recent years. If the Pacific Coast Conference persists in its plan to ban spring conference after 1955, shouldn't the next Rose Bowl pact be with the Ivy League . . . and the name changed to Boo-Boo Bowl?, asks Murray Olderman. Billy Merrill of Kingston got off some nice end runs and played outstanding defensive ball for Trinity-Pawling in its 34-12 triumph over Hopkins Grammar School last Saturday. It was the third straight victory for the Dutchess gridders. Merrill is the son of Bil Merrill, the KHS third sacker, basketeer and footballer of the late 1920s.

• Of Men and Mice:

Emerson Hanover, older of the two crack trotters owned by Bud Fromer, won the $4,000 AA trot its last time out at Yonkers Raceway. William Wendland of Napanoch is a varsity reserve with the Ithaca College soccer team. And Frank Koenig of Kingston has just been named vice-president of the Sienna College Varsity Club. Don Ardell, a Schenectady senior, is the president. Ralph A. Kennedy, a New York banker, is the world's playingest golfer. He has tramped 3165 courses the world over and once played 35 British courses in 25 days. Speaking of golf courses, some interesting, new information about Wiltwyck's 18-holer will be forthcoming in the next few days. Y. A. Tittle, the 49er backfield ace, was at Louisiana State for a full year before revealing his name was Yelberton Abraham. Can you blame the guy, who is called YAT by his teammates?

The brutal test of adult spectator interest in high school football occurs on a day like this forthcoming Saturday when Kingston High meets Valley Stream, L. I., at 2 p. m. at Dietz Stadium. At the same time the international TV cameras will be focused on the crazy-quilt Canadian football and the Game-of-the-Week in America sends Pittsburgh against Northwestern. The latter contest should produce wholesale yawns but many a guy, who might enjoy himself in the brisk autumn air and maybe feel a few years younger at Dietz Stadium will be hugging the TV set in his parlor or nearby friendly tavern. With respect to agitation to play the Thanksgiving Day finale with Newburgh Academy at 10 o'clock in the morning, Coach G. Warren Kias says: 1. Weather is invariably better at the traditional 2 p. m. starting time; 2. It means getting up earlier for many folks for the trip to Newburgh; 3. What does it accomplish?

GETTING ACQUAINTED—Here's one bird who isn't afraid of a hunter. It's a Canadian jay who seems to be on friendly terms with Sumner Burrill, who was on a hunting trip at Eustis, Me.

GERTA AND HER PALS— Gerta Muck, five, whose father keeps 12 raccoons and 20 beavers in his garden, takes two of the raccoons for an airing in West Berlin, Germany,

RUSTLERS BEWARE!—Louis Piccinetti, two-and-a-half-year-old cowpoke of Trenton, N. J., means business as he stands guard over two fine Herefords at the New Jersey State Fair at Trenton.

STRICTLY A PAIR OF HAMS—The sly smile on this fellow's face at left, indicates that he has all the right answers. His pal with the blank stare is probably wondering what it's all about. The pair are hanging around a New York City butcher shop.

By WARREN PAGE
(Shooting Editor)

We make a big hullabaloo about duck shooting in this country. Every year several million duck stamps are sold. Ducks Unlimited collects in the U. S. and spends in Canada several fat fortunes to make duck breeding marshes.

Armies of duck-shooting gents rise up to scream frustrations when the shooting seasons aren't tailored to their liking or to shout hallelujah when the word comes of a fine hatching season up north. Nowhere else in the world are so many sportsmen so concerned over paddle-footed birds.

But the ducks we have aren't a patch on the tremendous concentrations that occur elsewhere on this globe—and some of them in what would seem to be the most unlikely places.

IT'S REASONABLE enough that down on the wind-torn flats of Tierra Del Fuego on South America's tip, or in the grain fields just north of those barren lands, waterfowl, mostly geese, would show in tremendous numbers. There wing clouds are so big that even Van Campen Heilner, who has probably chased duck and geese to more odd corners of this earth than any other man living, was open-mouthed at the flights.

And any thoughtful man would realize that the sub-Arctic areas of Europe and Russia must raise thousands of birds just as do our Canadian tundras and northern marshes.

But who would expect ducks in the desert, in the land where the camel is a work animal, not a zoo curiosity?

They're there in eye-popping multitudes. Take Iraq, for example. That land, once called the Garden of Eden for good reason, contains many square miles of desert, true, but it also holds the two mighty rivers that presumably cradled civilization, the Tigres and Euphrates.

IN THEIR COURSE to Basra and the Indian Ocean they wander down a flat flood plain, once largely the floor of the Persian Gulf, and have formed huge marshes, to be measured not in acres or even square miles but in hundreds of square miles.

And those marshes are the winter hangout for untold millions of assorted ducks—some of them our familiar mallards and pintails, some odd species that never fall to an American sportsman's gun—and equal numbers of European or gray lag geese. This is country where guns fired at waterfowl can sizzle flat-iron hot in an hour's shoot, where it's a bad day if a party of four doesn't bag two, three, or even 400 birds.

I've never seen those marshes when the big flights are in, but it must be a sight to give even the most hard-bitten duckshooter pause.

Mantone, Brophy Place at Shoot

Sgt. Arthur Mantone of the Ellenville Police Department and Detective Clarence Brophy of the Kingston Police Department placed first and second in the annual pistol shoot at the FBI Law Enforcement Conference at Bear Mountain yesterday.

The match was a lighter part of a meeting primarily concerned with the "ever-increasing problem of juvenile delinquency."

Sgt. Mantone is a brother-in-law of County Auditor Joseph A. Gentile.

Brophy received a cigaretee lighter engraved "Second Prize 1954."

Attending the conference from this area were Chief of Police Raymond Van Buren, Sheriff Cluett Schantz, Under Sheriff Clayton Vredenburgh and County Investigator Arthur Brown.

Case Against Danyo Dismissed by Judge

A charge of third degree assault against Michael Danyo, Jr., 50, of 19 Hurley avenue, was dismissed by Judge Raymond J. Mino in city court this morning at request of the complainant.

Danyo was arrested October 2 on a warrant signed by Judge Mino charging he struck William Douglas, 13, of 446 Washington avenue, with a push broom handle, causing a head injury. The defendant claimed the boy ran into the broom. Attorney Charles Gaffney represented the defendant.

Mental Health Bid to Be Made

The Mental Health Commismittee of the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association will ask the county Board of Supervisors to appoint a special committee to explore the needs and possibilities of setting up mental health facilities in Ulster county under the new state Mental Health Services law.

Decision to approach the Board of Supervisors was taken at a meeting of the Mental Health Committee Wednesday night at the county building at 74 John street. Dr. Edward F. Shea, chairman, presided.

Under the Mental Health Services law, the state will reimburse 50 per cent of the amount expended by the county for accepted facilities and services, provided the total state reimbursement shall not exceed an amount equal to $1 per capita for the population of the county.

Committee members are also distributing leaflets urging an affirmative vote on Proposition 1, to be submitted to the electorate on November 2. The proposition authorizes a $350,000,000 bond issue by the state to build two new hospitals for mentally ill persons, two new schools for the mentally defective and new buildings at existing institutions.

Baking Tip

When you are baking a cake or cookies, place the pan on the oven rack that is nearest the middle of the oven. This way your cake and cookies will rise and brown evenly.

WHEN FIRST INVITATION IS ACCEPTED

A reader this morning asks: "What happens when an invitation has been accepted and the next day another one comes from someone else for the same time? The first invitation comes from people we know only casually and the second invitation is from very old friends inviting us to dinner in honor of their wedding anniversary. We would of course rather accept this second invitation, but may we do so having already accepted the other?"

Having already accepted you can't back out. The best you can do is leave the first place fairly early and arrive very late at the other party.

Those Wedding Invitations!

Dear Mrs. Post: What is our responsibility in this situation: We have received an invitation to the wedding and reception of the daughter of a business associate. I do not know this woman well and there are no business reasons which might make a gift seem imperative. Would your answer be the same whether or not we go?

Answer: If you go a present is rather expected though not a requirement.

Can I Go With His Parents?

Dear Mrs. Post: My boy friend is in the air force and stationed several hundred miles from here. His parents are going to drive down to visit him soon and he has asked them to bring me along. The trip will necessitate an overnight stay at a hotel. I would like to know if I am expected to pay my own hotel bill. Also, would it be proper to offer my boy friend's father a sum of money to take care of my meals?

Answer: They have to send you an invitation themselves (you cannot suggest that you would like to go with them) and having invited you, they foot the bills.

What should a girl have in her trousseau? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but her leaflet E-5, "The Bride's Trousseau," includes a list of essential clothes and linens. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to Dept. EP, c/o The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

when he was in California last March.

Miss Hayes' name came up yesterday in questioning by Garmone of Mrs. Louise K. Feuchter, eventually seated as a fifth juror.

Garmone asked Mrs. Feuchter several questions about whether she had seen published pictures and stories about Miss Hayes, and for the first time was not met with objections from the prosecution and Judge Edward Blythin.

One of Garmone's questions was:

"Susan Hayes made a statement to a reporter during her travels here from California about the fact that she had been intimate with Sam Sheppard. If you read that quotation by Miss Hayes, would that cause you to become prejudiced?"

..MRS. FEUCHTER replied, "No."

Later, Attorney Corrigan tried the same line of questioning with another prospective juror and was halted by the judge.

Corrigan was outraged. He whirled to face the judge and shouted at the top of his voice:

"I know they're going to bring Susan Hayes into this courtroom. I know what evidence they have. I know how Susan Hayes has been blasted in the papers."

The blowup came after Corrigan asked Melvin C. Holliday whether "the fact that he (Dr. Sheppard) had any affairs with another woman would bias or prejudice you in this case?"

Prosecutor John J. Mahon objected, and Judge Blythin sustained him on grounds that Miss Hayes was not an issue at this time.

Corrigan refused to ask any more questions and Judge Blythin seated Holliday as the sixth juror.

THE SEVENTH JUROR, Mrs. Anna W. Foote, drew some laugther before she was seated yesterday when she inadvertantly "insulted" Attorney Garmone.

Garmone was questioning the attractive brunette mother of five children, on how she would evaluate testimony. He phrased this question:

"...If some policeman should take the witness stand and testify in behalf of the state of Ohio, do you think you would attach more weight to his testimony than you would to the testimony of someone like, say, myself?"

"I WOULD GIVE the policeman more consideration," she replied.

Then Judge Blythin, attempting to help her, rephrased Garmone's question and asked whether she would give more credence to testimony from a policeman than testimony from a layman.

"Oh, I thought he (Garmone) meant lawyers," bubbled Mrs. Foote. Flustered, she turned to Garmone and added: "The way Judge Blythin expressed it was a little more clear than the way you did."

The judge, chuckling, warned her, "you're not over that huddle about the lawyers yet." But a few minutes later she had her seat in the jury box.

Divisions Plan Final Report

Four divisions of the Kingston Area Community Chest will combine their final report meeting with the pancake supper sponsored by the Volunteer Firemen on October 28.

In a real demonstration of community cooperation the chest board of directors decided last night to have this final meeting in the municipal auditorium where the pancake supper is being held rather than hold a conflicting gathering at some other place.

At 6:45 on October 28 the final reports of all chest workers in the initial gifts, industrial, business and commercial as well as the governmental and public service divisions will be made. Notices will be sent out to all workers within a few days.

A REVIEW of the progress of the Community Chest campaign to date is very encouraging. George B. Matthews, chest president, reported after the directors' meeting last night. "A canvass of the situation indicated a few unorganized spots in the plan of procedure," Matthews stated, "but immediate steps were taken to complete them before this weekend, and we are now assured that the necessary contacts will be made."

Two divisions, the residential and suburban, will complete their organization within the next few days and be ready to launch this last portion of the chest campaign sometime next week.

"The fact that one drive to support seven of our established community agencies is being held is meeting with a great deal of approval," Matthews stated today.

'Honest Bill' Dies

Grayson, Ky., Oct. 21 (AP)—Former Gov. William Jason Fields, 79, who campaigned as "Honest Bill From Olive Hill," died early today in a Grayson hospital. Fields also had served 13 years in Congress, was a lawyer, a former commonwealth's attorney and former member of the state workmen's compensation board. He was a Democrat.

Nations Agree

the United States are in the role of guarantor nations.

THE PARLEY was considering measures to supervise and control German rearmament under such a pact. West German and other sources predicted quick agreement before nightfall.

The French-German dispute on the Saar appeared the only major hurdle in the tight ministerial schedule.

Mendes-France has said he will not ask the French Assembly to ratify any agreement on German rearmament unless he is satisfied on the Saar issue by the end of this week.

Between conferences with allied ministers, Adenauer was conducting delicate negotiations with leaders of other parties of his coalition cabinet in an effort to win wide backing for any eventual agreement with the French on the Saar.

He also was awaiting the arrival of opposition leaders from Bonn to see if a German "bi-partisan" policy could be worked out for a large scale economic and commercial agreement with France.

Calls for Campaign

New York, Oct. 21 (AP)—The president of the American Cancer Society has called for a campaign to combat cancer quacks who, he says, are slowly "infiltrating throughout the country." Dr. Alfred M. Popma, of Boise, Idaho, told the society's annual meeting yesterday that quack cancer clinics are operating in various states, in some instances within the scope of local statutes.

when he was in California last March.

Miss Hayes' name came up yesterday in questioning by Garmone of Mrs. Louise K. Feuchter, eventually seated as a fifth juror.

Garmone asked Mrs. Feuchter several questions about whether she had seen published pictures and stories about Miss Hayes, and for the first time was not met with objections from the prosecution and Judge Edward Blythin.

One of Garmone's questions was:

"Susan Hayes made a statement to a reporter during her travels here from California about the fact that she had been intimate with Sam Sheppard. If you read that quotation by Miss Hayes, would that cause you to become prejudiced?"

..MRS. FEUCHTER replied, "No."

Later, Attorney Corrigan tried the same line of questioning with another prospective juror and was halted by the judge.

Corrigan was outraged. He whirled to face the judge and shouted at the top of his voice:

"I know they're going to bring Susan Hayes into this courtroom. I know what evidence they have. I know how Susan Hayes has been blasted in the papers."

The blowup came after Corrigan asked Melvin C. Holliday whether "the fact that he (Dr. Sheppard) had any affairs with another woman would bias or prejudice you in this case?"

Prosecutor John J. Mahon objected, and Judge Blythin sustained him on grounds that Miss Hayes was not an issue at this time.

Corrigan refused to ask any more questions and Judge Blythin seated Holliday as the sixth juror.

THE SEVENTH JUROR, Mrs. Anna W. Foote, drew some laugther before she was seated yesterday when she inadvertantly "insulted" Attorney Garmone.

Garmone was questioning the attractive brunette mother of five children, on how she would evaluate testimony. He phrased this question:

"...If some policeman should take the witness stand and testify in behalf of the state of Ohio, do you think you would attach more weight to his testimony than you would to the testimony of someone like, say, myself?"

"I WOULD GIVE the policeman more consideration," she replied.

Then Judge Blythin, attempting to help her, rephrased Garmone's question and asked whether she would give more credence to testimony from a policeman than testimony from a layman.

"Oh, I thought he (Garmone) meant lawyers," bubbled Mrs. Foote. Flustered, she turned to Garmone and added: "The way Judge Blythin expressed it was a little more clear than the way you did."

The judge, chuckling, warned her, "you're not over that huddle about the lawyers yet." But a few minutes later she had her seat in the jury box.

Divisions Plan Final Report

Four divisions of the Kingston Area Community Chest will combine their final report meeting with the pancake supper sponsored by the Volunteer Firemen on October 28.

In a real demonstration of community cooperation the chest board of directors decided last night to have this final meeting in the municipal auditorium where the pancake supper is being held rather than hold a conflicting gathering at some other place.

At 6:45 on October 28 the final reports of all chest workers in the initial gifts, industrial, business and commercial as well as the governmental and public service divisions will be made. Notices will be sent out to all workers within a few days.

A REVIEW of the progress of the Community Chest campaign to date is very encouraging. George B. Matthews, chest president, reported after the directors' meeting last night. "A canvass of the situation indicated a few unorganized spots in the plan of procedure," Matthews stated, "but immediate steps were taken to complete them before this weekend, and we are now assured that the necessary contacts will be made."

Two divisions, the residential and suburban, will complete their organization within the next few days and be ready to launch this last portion of the chest campaign sometime next week.

"The fact that one drive to support seven of our established community agencies is being held is meeting with a great deal of approval," Matthews stated today.

Nations Agree

the United States are in the role of guarantor nations.

THE PARLEY was considering measures to supervise and control German rearmament under such a pact. West German and other sources predicted quick agreement before nightfall.

The French-German dispute on the Saar appeared the only major hurdle in the tight ministerial schedule.

Mendes-France has said he will not ask the French Assembly to ratify any agreement on German rearmament unless he is satisfied on the Saar issue by the end of this week.

Between conferences with allied ministers, Adenauer was conducting delicate negotiations with leaders of other parties of his coalition cabinet in an effort to win wide backing for any eventual agreement with the French on the Saar.

He also was awaiting the arrival of opposition leaders from Bonn to see if a German "bi-partisan" policy could be worked out for a large scale economic and commercial agreement with France.

Calls for Campaign

New York, Oct. 21 (AP)—The president of the American Cancer Society has called for a campaign to combat cancer quacks who, he says, are slowly "infiltrating throughout the country." Dr. Alfred M. Popma, of Boise, Idaho, told the society's annual meeting yesterday that quack cancer clinics are operating in various states, in some instances within the scope of local statutes.

Husband, Wife Win Injuries Suit

Madeline L. Soura of Kingston was awarded $500 in Supreme Court Wednesday afternoon in an action for injuries which she sustained when she fell in the home of her step-mother, Harriet Schonger Lent, and her husband was awarded $1,116.50 for hospital, medical and other bills contracted and for loss of services.

The action was brought against Harriet Schonger Lent and was tried before Justice Taylor and a jury. The jury returned the verdict shortly before 6 p. m. Wednesday. Abraham Streifer appeared for plaintiff and Stanley B. Johnson for defendants.

A verdict in the sum of $1,500 was awarded Theresa DeBrosky, of Albany avenue extension, in an action against Margaret Balch and another of Bronx, for injuries which plaintiff suffered in a collision between the cars of the parties last April on Cornell street and Bruyn avenue. Bernard A. Culloton appeared for plaintiff and the action was undefended.

Big Hole Opened

men are urging their governments to let the Chinese Reds buy what European Reds can buy.

These businessmen—who are getting increased official backing—argue that the end of the Korean and Indochina fighting call for a change in the China lists. They say the present system only serves to make the Chinese Reds more dependent on the Kremlin for the goods they need.

The United States opposes any change in the China lists before the signing of a full Korean peace. American officials maintain that even if the Chinese Reds are getting banned goods via Eastern Europe, at least the higher cost is hurting their economy.
